Waley Begins 45-Yr. Term In Kidnaping Of Coast Boy

Leniency Begged By Her Husband

Mate Ignorant of Plot Till Lad Was Abducted, He Says.

By the Associated Press.

Tacoma, Wash., June 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Harmon M. Waley pleaded guilty to kidnaping and extortion charges today for the kidnaping of George Weyerhaeuser and Waley was immediately sentenced to 45 years in prison. Federal Judge E. E. Cushman refused to accept Mrs. Waley's plea.

The young former convict entreated the court for leniency in behalf of his 19-year-old wife.

Waley said when his wife rented the kidnap hide-out house in Spokane "she did not know why nor for what purpose it was to be used. I never told her."

Cites Her Youth.

When Mrs. Waley was asked by Judge Cushman if she cared to say anything for herself before he passed judgment on her plea of guilty, her attorney, Stephen J. O'Brien, stepped forward and called attention to her youth and to her claim that she knew nothing of the kidnaping until several days after the boy had been abducted.

"On your statement, I refuse to accept a plea of guilty," Judge Cushman said. "I will not accept an unqualified plea. The plea of guilty will be set aside and the case put over until tomorrow at 10 a. m."

It was the first public confession Waley had made. The couple confessed at Salt Lake City to Department of Justice men shortly after they were arrested, when the blonde Mrs. Waley was caught trying to pass a $5 bill from the $200,000 ransom paid by J. P. Wyerhaeuser, jr., for his son's release. In confessing at Salt Lake, the Waleys allegedly implicated another former convict, William Mahan. He is still at large.

The judge asked Waley if he cared to say anything.

Speaks Only for Wife.

"All I have to say is for my wife," Waley began.

"Maybe you won't be here when her case is discussed," countered the judge.

"She never knew until the Sunday after the kidnaping that we had the boy," Waley resumed. "We were in a car and I told her we had kidnaped the boy. She rented the house in Spokane."

Her attorney, appointed by Judge Cushman yesterday to answer Waley's questions about legal phases of the indictments, called the court's attention to the youth of the wife.

"She rented the house in Spokane as charged in the indictment," O'Brien said, "without knowing what it was for. She knew nothing of the kidnaping at the time."

Judge Cushman then refused Mrs. Waley's plea and interrogated Waley, who asserted he had nothing to say for himself.

"She didn't know I had ransom money," said Waley. "I never told her about it. She may have suspected it."

Huddled Off to Prison.

Waley was bundled off to McNeil Island Federal Prison, only a few miles from the scene of his audacious crime, after a tearful farewell with his wife. There he will stay until the United States Attorney General designates the penitentiary in which he must serve.

Mrs. Waley came from the marshal's office with eyes red and swollen, but turned a calm face toward the crowd that jammed the corridors of the Federal building.

Some of the inside story of the Government's operations to solve the case was unfolded by the only witness at the court hearing, E. J. Connelley, a Department of Justice agent.

Connelley testified the kidnaping was discussed by Waley and William Dainard in Salt Lake City in March of this year; that Waley and Dainard came to Washington State shortly afterward and spent some time in the vicinity of Raymond and Hoquiam.

Epidemic Feared as Colonists Report 2,000 Sick in Alaska

Senate Demands Hopkins Submit Report on Status of Relief Migration as Telegram Depicts Stricken Families in Sad Plight.

By the Associated Press.

Acting on reports of a possible epidemic among 2,000 colonists moved by the Relief Administration to Alaska, the Senate yesterday ordered Harry L. Hopkins to report immediately on the status of the project, and conditions in the colony.

Acting on reports of a possible epidemic among 2,000 colonists moved by the Relief Administration to Alaska, the Senate yesterday ordered Harry L. Hopkins to report immediately on the status of the project, and conditions in the colony.

The usually deliberate Senate swiftly adopted a resolution calling on Hopkins to report on the project in response to frantic telegraphic appeal from representatives of the colonists in the Far North.

The resolution was presented by Senators Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan; La Follette (Progressive), Wisconsin, and Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, representing the three States from which most of the colonists were moved. It was adopted immediately when Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, conceded it was "appropriate that the information should be supplied to the Senate."

It called upon Hopkins to report the status of the project, the number of colonists, the nature of the accommodations for them, any information of shortage of facilities and supplies for the protection of health and the nature and extent of expenditures made or contemplated.

While Hopkins declined to comment directly on the Senate request, his aids said the information would be furnished promptly. They added that Eugene Carr, official of the relief rural habilitation division, was scheduled to arrive at Palmer, the Alaskan Valley settlement, yesterday to take charge as "coordinator."

Vandenberg read to the Senate a telegram from some of the colonists to Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, protesting conditions and also a letter from one colonist printed recently in the Detroit Times warning of a possible epidemic because of lack of medical supplies.

The telegram to Couzens, signed by Patrick J. Hemmer and Mrs. I. M. Sandvik, who said they represented the colonists, follows:

"Six weeks passed. Nothing done. No houses, wells, roads. Inadequate machinery, tools. Government food undelivered. Commissary prices exorbitant, educational facilities for

Franco-British Break Averted By Eden's Visit

Hitler May Rejoin League as Price for Pact With England.

By the United Press.

Paris, June 21.—Reichsfuehrer Adolph Hitler probably has offered to return to the League of Nations as part of his concessions in return for Great Britain's agreement to Germany's naval rearmament plans.

Capt. Anthony Eden, British arms expert and peace envoy, was believed tonight to have outlined this to Premier Pierre Laval as part of the explanation for Britain's signing the naval pact with Germany earlier this week, granting her a navy of about 400,000 tons.

At the opening session of his conference with Laval and other French statesmen at the Qual D'Orsay, Eden was understood to have:

1. Urged speedy conclusion of a general aerial aid pact among Western European states, possibly including Germany.

2. Outlining concessions which Hitler made on re-armament at Geneva prior to the Anglo-German naval accord.

3. Insisted the pact recognized the Reich's arms plans as a realistic actuality and was entered into to curb them as far as possible, and thus check an arms race.

4. Urged continued firm unity among the former allied states—Britain, France and Italy.

The conversations were private, but at conclusion of the initial sessions at 3:45 p. m. it appeared Eden had won another diplomatic victory and halted the danger of a

5-Story Leap Injures Wife Of Byrd Aid

Neighbor at Embassy Towers Asserts She Heard Help Call.

Mrs. Lucille T. English, 29, who recently welcomed home her husband after his two years with Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the Antarctic, jumped from the fifth-story window of her apartment in the Embassy Towers, 1620 Fuller street northwest, late yesterday.

She landed on the lawn near the concrete pavement. At Emergency Hospital her condition was described as critical. She was conscious, however.

Police last night were holding Harold Wayne Starr, 26, a lawyer of 1722 Connecticut avenue northwest, who, they said, was in the English apartment when the attractive brunette leaped from the kitchen window.

Lawyer Tells of Threat.

Starr, formerly employed in one of the New Deal agencies here, told police at the Tenth Precinct station that Mrs. English had threatened to kill herself.

Lieut. Robert English, U. S. N., the husband, was commander of the Bear of Oakland, flagship of the Byrd Polar Expedition. He told police last night he had met Starr only once.

That, they quoted him as saying, was about two weeks ago when Mrs. English explained she had become acquainted with him in New York last fall. At that time Lieut. English was in Little America.

Sergt. R. B. Carroll and other officers were intrigued by several circumstances in the case.

They quoted one witness, Mrs. H. F. De Witt, a tenant in the Embassy Towers, as saying that Mrs. English, while sitting on the window ledge, screamed "Help, police!"

They quoted another witness, Miss Emily Morrison, as saying she saw Mrs. English clutch for a nearby awning just before she toppled toward the lawn.

Starr Possessed Bullets.

Police found a .38-caliber bullet on the lawn where Mrs. English landed. They also found four bullets of the same caliber in Starr's pocket.

Starr, according to the police, explained that he saw the bullets outlined under the roll of Mrs. English's stocking. They represented him as saying that he snatched at the bullets, getting four and probably overlooking the one that was found on the lawn.

Lieut. English told the police that he had recently acquired a Navy pistol and a box of 50 cartridges. The police found 45 of the cartridges scattered in a bureau drawer, but at first were unable to find the pistol. It finally was located under a mattress.

Starr's story, according to the police, was substantially this: He called on Mrs. English in the role of an adviser. She seemed despondent.

Surprised About Plunge.

While Starr was sitting in the living room, Mrs. English went to the kitchen, saying she was going to mix two last drinks.

When Mrs. English failed to return, Starr went into the kitchen. He found the screen of the window raised high, and looking out saw

Shifts in diets, away from meat and to other foods, probably will be necessary the balance of this season, the Department of Agriculture warned yesterday.

The notice was given only 24 hours after delegations of housewives from New York and Chicago had protested to the department against the rising price of meats.

The total supply of food in America will be greater than the consumption of last year or the year before, it was stated in a public report entitled "The Food Situation—1935," but the meat supply for the year is likely to be about one-fourth smaller than that of 1934 and about one-fifth below the average of recent years.

Senators Seat Rush Holt, 30, By 62-17 Vote

Action Sets a Precedent; Move to Bar Him on Age Rejected.

Rush Dew Holt, of West Virginia, black-haired, bespectacled and with a boyish grin, yesterday discarded the title "Senator-elect." By a 62-17 vote of the Senate he was accepted as one of their own, after nearly two days of slow-moving, contentious debate.

Just 30 years, 2 days old, Holt became the youngest Senator in Congress, and incidentally set a precedent. Never before has a Senator, elected while under the legal age and whose election was contested, been seated by the Senate.

Vice President John Nance Garner administered the youth his oath of office within a few seconds after the chamber overwhelmingly decided he was eligible for a seat.

From the galleries his proud parents and admiring brothers and sisters smiled with him as Senator Matthew M. Neely, of West Virginia, led him up the aisle on his arm, then led him back again, to receive the congratulations of colleagues.

It had been a gala day for him. Fifty-five Democrats, five Republicans, a Progressive and a Farmer-Laborite had voted he was constitutionally qualified to sit and vote with them. Only four Democrats—Senators Burke, Connally, Hatch and Walsh—had voted with 13 Republicans to void his election.

It took two Senate roll-calls to do the job. The first came on a resolution by Senator Daniel C. Hastings (Republican), of Delaware, declaring the seat vacant. This was defeated by the identical vote which later declared him eligible, 62 to 17.

Clad in a tan coat and light summer trousers, Holt had been in and out of the Senate all day waiting for that decision. As a matter of fact, he had been waiting for it for five and a half months. He never for a moment had doubted the result. Still, he admitted, it was with a feeling of relief that he put it behind him.

Holt, in accordance with the custom of most Senate neophytes, expects to take a back seat for a while. Like Senator Theodore G. Bilbo's crusade of the hustings, Holt's West Virginia campaign was a hummer. But unlike Bilbo, he has

Trade Board And NRA End 2-Year Feud

Compliance Label to Replace Blue Eagle; Work Merged.

By Felix Bruner.

The two-year-old feud between the Federal Trade Commission and the NRA was ended yesterday, as the new recovery organization prepared to co-operate with business in the establishment of voluntary trade agreements and an attempt to retain as many as possible of the advantages gained under the codes.

New agreements are expected to be adopted with Government sanction, but they are not expected to be known as codes. A label, signifying compliance, will be substituted for the Blue Eagle, which finally takes its place with the extinct dodo. Government contracts will be used as an effective club over the heads of business concerns to force compliance with wage and hour agreements. These things will be done by the NRA working with the Federal Trade Commission and under the watchful legal supervision of the Department of Justice.

The first step in the attempt to establish a new and effective NRA, with business policing itself, was taken yesterday when NRA officials met with members of the Federal Trade Commission. Following the meeting a joint statement was issued by the two organiaztions announcing that "progress was made."

Differences From First.

Since the adoption of the National Industrial Recovery Act two years ago there had been differences between the commission and the NRA. There was a feeling that the NRA was attempting to usurp some of the powers of the commission. Until the present NRA organization was formed there was little or no attempt at cooperation. Under the new arrangement much of the work of the two bodies, which always has been similar in character, will be virtually merged.

The new NRA organization, under the leadership of James L. O'Neill, New York banker, is expected to move deliberately with a minimum of ballyhoo. "Look before you leap" has been adopted as the unofficial slogan. One official said that the program at present is "to find out how far business wants to go and then to determine how far it can go under the law."

Since formation of the new organization less than a week ago, about 60 different kinds of businesses either have submitted drafts of voluntary agreements or have indicated that they intend to submit agreements.

Trust Matter Raised.

Applications for approval of agreements are being accepted. One requirement is expected to be the submission with each application of a legal brief showing why the agreement does not violate the anti-trust laws. These agreements with briefs are expected to be submitted to the Federal Trade Commission and to the Department of Justice before approval.

It is expected that the NRA will require that agreements be very simple in character and nearly as uniform as possible. It was stated in one quarter that they will be as nearly as possible in the nature of fixed forms with only names and figures to be written in.

It was stated authoritatively that there will be no attempt on the part of NRA to go beyond the old codes in the matter of wages and hours, but an effort will be made to "hold the line." Simplification and uniformity of agreements will be designed to prevent conflict and overlapping.

Conflict with anti-trust laws is expected to arise in some instances over provisions for self-enforcement of agreements. The present law permits wage, hour and child labor agreements, and agreements concerning unfair competition so

Army to Dismiss Sebastian For Secret Wedding as Cadet

Court Martial Finds Lieutenant, Former Football Star, Guilty of Breaking Ban on 'Horse, Dog, Mustache or Wife.'

By the United Press.

Fort Hamilton, N. Y., June 21.—A grim court-martial jury of Army officers tonight imposed a mandatory sentence, dismissal from the service, upon Lieut. Henry a Sebastian for his violation of the Ninety-fifth Article of War forbidding a West Pointer to have "a horse, a dog, a mustache or a wife."

The dashing former football star was found guilty of charges that in 1931, while still a cadet at the Military Academy, he entered a secret marriage with a glamorous Vanities show girl.

His trial followed charges by his golden-haired bride, the former Harriet Hagman, that he cruelly slugged her and blackened her eyes after an Army day party last April.

She said the strapping, 200-pound former half back was guilty of "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman." Simultaneously she sued for separation.

Then, after the young Army athlete graduated last June, they remarried.

The technical charge on which Lieut. Sebastian was tried was one of making "false official certificates," while still at the academy, that he was not married.

The dishonorable discharge sentence is not yet effective, explained Maj. Gen. Lucius R. Holbrook, commandant of the first division, who revealed the court martial verdict. Three steps of Army procedure first must be followed, he said, ending with submission of the decision to the President.

"It's pretty tough to be kicked out of the service for something of this kind," commented Lieut. Sebastian tonight. He is 24 and a native of Sherman, Tex.

"But my counsel will continue fighting the case as it goes to the Judge Advocate General and then to President Roosevelt. Until the President acts, I will remain in the service, I presume."

The West Point gridiron star believed the initial wedding to be fictitious, as arranged in a speakeasy and performed under false names.

During the trial, Col. Albert Williams, commanding the Sixteenth Infantry at Governor's Island, his superior, testified Lieut. Sebastian voluntarily came to him and described the circumstances of the wedding. The youth did not think the marriage legal, he said.

At the time, Sebastian was only 20. The blond dancer, he said, was "23 or 24."

300 Women Ill, Food Blamed, On U. of M. Graduation Eve

Three hundred women students of the University of Maryland, taken ill yesterday, blamed their illness on food they had eaten at the university dining hall the night before.

All were members of the annual rural women's short course, and 58 were to be graduated yesterday.

The commencement ceremonies were held on schedule in the Ritchie Gymnasium, and one of the women fainted in the midst of the exercises.

The university physician, Dr. Leonard Hays, announced later that:

"Only ten cases were admitted to the infirmary after treatment. It is expected all will recover. The difficulty seems to have been food poisoning."

He said the extreme heat might have aggravated the bad effects of the food.

An analysis of the food was under way yesterday afternoon, Miss Audrey Killiam, university dietitian, reported.

By afternon, most of the women had recovered sufficiently to join in a sight-seeing trip and picnic in Rock Creek Park.

Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the university, presided at the commencement exercises, and the principal speaker was the chancellor of American University, Dr. Joseph M. M. Gray. Dr. Gray emphasized the value of education and went on to discuss its purpose.

Dr. Pearson presented silver medals to 11 women who had attended the course for eight years. They were Mrs. Harry Stevens, Mrs. U. B. Workman, Mrs. W. P. Patterson, Mrs. E. P. Munnickhuysen, Mrs. George Buckingham, Mrs. P. P. Zepp, Mrs. Claude Norton, Mrs. M. H. B. Hoffman, Mrs. Charles Green, Mrs. L. Estelle Taylor and Mrs. C. A. Beamer.

Spring Income of U. S. Highest In Last 4 Years, Report Shows

By the Associated Press.

The Federal Reserve Board said last night, "The national income has been larger this spring than in the spring of any of the three preceding years."

The statement, made in the board's monthly review for May, said increased income in industrial communities had reflected chiefly increased activity and that growth in agricultural income had been the result of higher prices and benefit payments.

The board added that Government expenditures for relief and public works had continued to be a factor in sustaining spending power.

While statistics were lacking on the national income, the board said that for the first four months of 1935 the volume of industrial output was 7 per cent larger than a year ago, substantially larger than in either 1932 or 1933, and about the same as in 1931.

"Profits of large industrial concerns during the first quarter of 1935 exceeded those of any other similar period since 1930," the board said. It noted, however, that railroads and public utilities showed a recession from 1934.

The board pointed particularly to the high level of automobile production during the spring. It said assemblies through May totaled about 1,950,000 as compared with about 700,000 in the same period of 1932 and 1933 and 2,700,000 in 1929.

The board said that in April the total number employed in this country was about the same as a year ago and considerably above the low level prevailing in 1932 and early in 1933. The volume of unemployment continued to be high, it added, however, and "approximately 20,000,000 people were on the relief rolls in April."

Senators Open Drive to Speed Tax on Wealthy

Progressive Bloc Would Hold Congress in Session for Vote.

Parallel Campaign Pushed in House

Huey Long to Take Floor Today to Discuss President's Program.

By Robert C. Albright.

A movement to hold Congress in session until President Roosevelt's latest "share-the-wealth" tax program is enacted into law was launched late yesterday by the Senate Progressive bloc.

Twenty-two Senators last night had signed a petition circulated by Senator Robert M. La Follette, jr., of Wisconsin. Fourteen of the 22 signers were Democrats.

Leaders in the movement said they will offer their own adaptation of the President's tax program, estimated to yield more than $1,000,000,000 annually in revenues, as an amendment to the $502,000,000 nuisance tax extension bill, now slated for Senate consideration next week.

Drive Gains in House.

Meanwhile, a parallel campaign gained headway on the House side of the Capitol. Representative George J. Schneider, leader of the House Wisconsin Progressive bloc, said he will circulate a similar petition if any attempt is made to adjourn Congress without taking action.

Democratic leaders declined to comment on the development. Chairman Pat Harrison, of the Senate Finance Committee, said, however, that no attempt should be made to endanger passage of the nuisance tax extension measure. Most of these taxes expire June 30, and any prolonged debate will carry them over the deadline.

Chairman Harrison feels that the President's tax proposal should originate in the House, and there should be considered thoroughly on its own merits. The President himself has never stated that he wanted the program enacted this session.

Would Stay in Session.

The petition circulated by La Follette read simply:

"We believe that the tax program presented by the President to the Congress should be disposed of before this session adjourns. We are willing to stay in session until action is taken upon this vitally important question."

Long Takes Floor Today.

Huey Long, the Senate's leading "share-the-wealther," had not been signed up last night, but he announced yesterday he planned to take the floor today to discuss the President's program. He uttered a loud "Amen" when the tax message was read in the Senate.

Earlier reports were circulated that the President wants at least that phase of his program requiring a Constitutional amendment to remove the tax-exempt features of Government securities submitted this session.

A number of such amendments are now pending before the Judiciary committees of both House and Senate, and only Thursday a new one was proposed by Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia. Chairman Hatton W. Sumners of the House Judiciary Committee said he understood the President wants the matter considered this session.

Senator La Follette has drafted tentative amendments covering remaining phases of the President's "share-the-wealth" outline.

ANGUS W. McLEAN.

Angus McLean, Ex-Governor, Dies in Capital

Former Assistant Secretary of Treasury to Be Buried in Native N. C.

Angus W. McLean, 65, former Governor of North Carolina and director of the War Finance Corporation during the World War, died yesterday afternoon in Emergency Hospital, where he had lain critically ill since mid May.

A blood clot on his right lung brought death, physicians said. He was brought here on May 17 from Atlantic City in a Coast Guard ambulance plane.

The former Governor, who was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under Carter Glass in 1920 and 1921, first was stricken April 19, while en route from Washington to Atlantic City, but the seriousness of his condition was not generally known until he was taken to the hospital here.

On May 19 a statement was issued by his physician, Dr. Matthew W. Perry, with the approval of Mrs. McLean, who came from North Carolina to be with her husband, in which the acute nature of his illness was made public.

Mr. McLean, who maintained law offices, was chief executive of North Carolina from 1925 to 1929.

A native of Lumberton, N. C., where he maintained his historic residence, Duart House, Mr. McLean was a son of Archibald and Carolina Purcell McLean. He was born April 20, 1870, in the days of the reconstruction following the War Between the States.

Mr. McLean was educated for the law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, N. C., and in 1892 received his degree.

Immediately he became a member of the bar at Lumberton, in Robeson County, N. C., in the southeastern section of the State. His interests, however, were many. He was one of the organizers of the Bank of Lumberton, and served as its president.

Mr. McLean was, at one time, president of the Virginia & Carolina Southern Railroad Co., the Robeson Development Co., the McLean Trust Co., and he was vice president of the Lumberton Cotton Mills, the Dresden Cotton Mills and the Jennings Cotton Mills. He was a land owner, familiar with the

Heavy Imports Of Gold Thwart 3-1 Silver Ratio

White Metal Purchases Go 36 Million Below Goal for Week.

By Franklyn Waltman, Jr.

Figures made public yesterday by the Commerce Department regarding imports of gold and silver during the four weeks ended June 14 were regarded as illustrating again the difficulty confronting the Treasury in seeking to achieve the three-to-one ratio between the yellow and white metals as directed by the silver purchase act.

For the week ended June 14 the department reported gold imports with a value of $124,984,627. Under the silver purchase act the Treasury is directed to acquire one-third as much silver, or slightly more than $41,000,000 worth at the monetary value of $1.29.

In the same week, however, silver imports had a value of $2,779,033, computed on actual cost. If the monetary value is given to that amount of silver it would be worth approximately $4,800,000, or only slightly more than 10 per cent of the amount required.

Heavier Inflow.

Although an unusually large amount of gold was imported during the week which ended June 14, the figures for the three weeks previously show a much heavier inflow of gold than of silver. Thus for the week ended June 7 gold imports had a value of $66,416,921 as against $1,698,860 of silver, based on actual cost or a value of about $3,000,000 on a monetary basis.

For the week ended May 31 gold imports had a value of $52,180,425, while the actual cost value of silver imports was $3,444,731. For the week ended May 24 gold imports totaled $67,282,396, against silver with an actual cost value of $3,220,434.

For the four-week period gold imports totaled $310,864,369, as against silver of an actual value of $11,143,058. That much gold would require over $100,000,000 in silver to maintain the 3-to-1 ratio. Silver imports—the chief source of supply—valued on a monetary basis totaled less than $20,000,000, or about one-fifth of the amount needed.

Ratio Out of Reach.

Thus, in the last month the Treasury made a losing race in striving to bring the country's metallic reserves up to a 3-to-1 ratio. The ratio was farther out of reach at the end of the period than at the beginning, due to the heavy inflow of gold and an apparent slackening up on silver purchases abroad.

When Congress adjourns and the unpopular reaction to speculation movement in the spring, due to the Treasury's suddenly jumping of its domestic silver price twice within ten days, dies out, the Administration may resume silver purchases in volume and try to make up ground lost in the last month.

Meanwhile, Senator Elmer Thomas (Democrat), of Oklahoma, announced he had asked approximately 65 members of the Senate to join him in petitioning President Roosevelt to take steps to offset what he described as "a campaign being carried on by a gold bloc throughout the country to discredit the Government's silver policy."

This appeal to the President will be contained in a document prepared by Senator Thomas, in which he sets forth arguments for pressing the silver purchase program with enthusiasm by the Treasury.

Martial Law Lifted; Omaha Strike Over

Omaha, Nebr., June 21 (AP).—Martial law was lifted from Omaha at 8 p. m. Central standard time, tonight by order of Gov. R. L. Cochran.

The Governor's action followed the successful conclusion yesterday of a settlement of the bloody Omaha street car strike in which two men were killed and more than 150 injured in street battles between police and strike sympathizers.

His three-man board, assembled by executive order after martial law was established last Saturday, succeeded in reaching an agreement by which the 268 strikers returned to work.

Ban Early Milk Delivery.

Los Angeles, June 21 (AP).—There won't be much likelihood of meeting the milkman coming home now. By unanimous vote, the city council passed today an ordinance prohibiting distribution of milk before 3 a. m. and after 7 p. m. Wives of milkmen crowded the council chamber applauding the move which will affect 5,000 men.

Between You and Me

Holt's Hero Joins Foes; Navy Accord Restores Balance of Power; Morgenthau Precedent.

By Raymond Clapper

Young Rush Holt took the fight over his admission to the Senate in good spirit. He appears to harbor no ill-feeling against those who voted to keep him out. He had just one disappointment. That was the opposition of one of his heroes, Senator Hiram Johnson, of California. Johnson offered a minority report against seating the young West Virginian and spoke of declaring the seat vacant, explaining in both instances, however, that he did so with great reluctance since his predilections were all in favor of Holt.

The new Senator sat through most of the fight, occupying the Senate seat in the rear freshman row where he has parked himself continuously throughout the present session under the privilege of the floor granted by the Senate rules to Senators-elect.

In fact the seating of Holt changes his status in only one respect. It permits him to participate in Senate proceedings, to debate and vote. Since January 3 he has had the same desk on the floor that he will continue to use. He has had regular office quarters in the Senate Office Building. He has had clerks, drawn regular senatorial salary, had the use of the free Senate barber shop, the cloak room mineral water, and has enjoyed the august thrill of being addressed by all as "Senator."

There has been little about his modest bearing to suggest the importance of the precedent which his case involved. The Senate never before hand anything exactly like it to decide, where a young man, frankly admitting that he was under age, put it up to the voters of his State and was elected.

This precedent gives new hope to politically ambitious young men. Theoretically, a youth of 25 could run for the Senate and if elected, draw senatorial salary for five years and then after reaching the age of 30 begin to vote. Better still, he could be elected at the age of 24, draw salary for his six-year term and then retire without ever having cast a vote or made a speech. Which is an idea not entirely without merit.

The Senate may not permit itself to be trifled with in this way again. Had Holt been a Republican he might not have been seated. The vote was essentially a party vote.

However, the Senators had two pleasant days arguing over the Constitution without fear of being overruled by the Supreme Court. Under the Constitution the Senate is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members. Senators appeared to enjoy exercising this final responsibility after so many months occupied with passing bills for the Supreme Court to veto.

Great Britain's agreement giving Germany practically as large a navy as France shows again that the more things change the more they remain the same. It is the old balance of power set up all over again, but this time with Germany on Britain's side. Disarmament, naval limitation sponsored by the United States, and all of the hokum of 20 years ago about making the world safe for democracy are so much paving for the streets of hell. Out of it the United States has learned something—but not very much—at least not enough to have done anything about the ticklish question of trading with belligerents which drew us into the last European war.

Republican speeches now are reflecting the spirit of the Springfield grass roots convention, where for the first time the party attack was leveled at President Roosevelt directly. Republican National Chairman Fletcher and Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, have delivered speeches within the last few days which strike directly at the President, rather than an anonymous "New Deal."

John Monroe Johnson, of South Carolina, who has just been confirmed as Assistant Secretary of Commerce to replace Ewing Y. Mitchell, who was ousted, could have been in the "Little Cabinet" two years ago. His friends advanced him for the post of Secretary of War, but instead he was offered the assistant secretaryship and refused it.

A member of the American Legion executive committee and one of the best-known legionairres, his selection takes some of the sting out of the President's recent bonus veto. A little, anyway.

Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau's statement that he didn't want liquor control placed under him is almost the first time in history that a Federal official has refused a chance to extend his authority.

It made the House Ways and Means Committee angry, surprisingly enough. The committee had drafted a bill to abolish FACA and turn the liquor problem over to the Treasury.

Some members of the committee are displeased with Joseph Choate's handling of FACA. Early in repeal days Choate turned down a number of small prospective distillers on the ground that there was adequate distilling capacity already in operation, the big boys having already preempted the field. Outcry was so strong that this limitation was rescinded, but Kentucky and Missouri members of the House committee are still on the warpath against what they regard as Choate's leaning toward the large distillers.

The barrel fight also has stirred up a real row. Choate's FACA required that all liquor for sale be bottled. That left the cooperage people, who had stocked up heavily on barrel staves, with a large surplus. Representative Fuller, of Arkansas, has a heavy cooperage industry in his district and is fighting for the right to stock liquor in barrels. Morgenthau and Choate agree that this would encourage bootleg substitution on the ground that you can put anything in a barrel and get away with it. To permit retailers to handle bulk goods would require an additional horde of more than 250,000 storekeeper gaugers, they say. They insist on sticking to bottles.

When the House goes into session, Kenneth Romney, sergeant at arms, totes in the mace, which is the symbol of the authority of the House. It is, like the fasces of ancient Rome, a bundle of black rods topped with a silver eagle resting on a silver globe. While the House is in session, the mace rests on a marble pedestal to the right of the Speaker, resembling a 4-foot shillelagh.

This week proceedings were suddenly interrupted by Representative Millard, of New York, a Republican.

"The face of the eagle on the mace is bowed down and turned to the wall, ashamed of what the Democrats are doing," he protested.

Representative Rankin, of Mississippi, a Democrat, leaped into the breach.

"I ask unanimous consent," he said, "that the eagle be turned around."

It was so ordered and parliamentary business was resumed.

far as they conform with anti-trust laws and the Federal Trade Commission act.

Among the enforcement provisions suggested are provisions for liquidated damages, the use of labels with their intimation of the use of the boycott. Officials hope that these may come within the law. Even more questionable are considered such provisions as open price filing and price control associations. These are not believed to be covered by the new law.

Government contract restrictions, which President Roosevelt has suggested and which are provided in a pending bill, will be depended upon to keep many businesses in line. Government contracts would contain wage and hour provisions. As it would be almost impossible for most concerns to produce Government goods under one set of wage and hour rules and privately sold goods under another, it is expected that they will be forced to abide by the contract provisions in the manufacture of goods for private sale. There may even be a separate label for Government contractors which could be used on all the goods they produce.

Meanwhile, consideration is being given to an NRA bill. The American Federation of Labor is expected to have introduced within a few days a measure to license businesses engaged in interstate business. This plan has considerable support among friends of the NRA.

The joint statement, signed by Ewin L. Davis, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, and O'Neill said "the conference was in an effort to find ways and means of cooperating to the end that business seeking to work out voluntary agreements including labor, wage and hour provisions and also including fair trade practices, could do so most expeditiously."

221 in House Sign Plea For Mexican Inquiry

By the Associated Press.

Representative Higgins (Democrat), of Massachusetts, said yesterday 221 House members—a majority—had signed his petition, to be sent to the President, asking an inquiry of religious conditions in Mexico.

In a telegram sent to President Roosevelt in Connecticut, Higgins asked for an appointment next week for the volunteer committee of House members interested in the Mexican situation.

One Vote Saves Compromise TVA Measure

House Committee Passes on Plan; Utilities Bill Progresses.

By the Associated Press.

By a one-vote margin the House Military Committee yesterday approved a compromise TVA bill and arranged to press the measure toward a House vote some time next week.

Deadlocked since May 24, when it tabled Senate-approved amendments to broaden the powers of the Authority, the committee agreed to the compromise only after heavy concessions were made to meet the objections of a powerful block of committee foes of the huge Administration project in the Tennessee basin.

Seven Republicans and five Democrats nevertheless held out against the compromise, but 12 Democrats and 1 Farmer-Laborite forced the committee to release its grip on the legislation, which is on the Roosevelt "must" list.

House Downs Proposal.

Earlier, the House, by an overwhelming voice vote and again by a 123 to 59 standing vote, smashed an amendment by Representative Taber (Republican), New York, to snip $6,000,000 from $34,675,192 provided for the TVA in the deficiency appropriations bill.

The proposal also would have barred TVA from using any of the money for new dams or power lines until Congress gave the word.

Promptly the House laughed down an amendment by Representative Rich (Republican), Pennsylvania, which would have given TVA only 2 cents.

Meanwhile, the House Interstate Commerce Committee approved all but a few technical points in the controversial holding bill, which also has been tied up in committee for weeks.

Chairman Rayburn (Democrat), Texas, said the remaining items probably would be disposed of today, and an attempt made to bring it, too, before the House for a vote next week.

Against Abolition.

While still firmly against absolute abolition of holding companies, a sub-committee agreed to word the bill so as to encourage reorganization and dissolution of the holding firms. It also agreed to soften the language in the declaration of policy in the bill.

Administration leaders have indicated they were willing to accept any concessions necessary in both the TVA and holding company bills to get them onto the House floor for amendment there.

Administration leaders were reported yesterday—on the basis of a private poll—to lack some 40 House votes in their effort to pass a bill for compulsory abolition of holding companies.

In releasing the TVA legislation, the Military Committee struck out a section under which opponents hoped to prevent TVA's passing on the construction of private dams in the Tennessee Basin.

Asks Strict Accounting.

The committee stipulated also that TVA must not acquire or hold any real estate for projects unless these were actually decided on, and must dispose of any land not actually needed for already approved projects.

This was aimed at two small tracts in North Carolina in an area along the Little Tennessee River which the Alumnium Co. of America had planned at some future time to use for a reservoir. TVA contended it bought the tracts to compel the company, if need be, to cooperate in a unified program for development of the Tennessee and its tributaries.

The compromise measure in addition would: Forbid the authority's selling electricity or agricultural chemicals below cost of production after January 1, 1937; put the agency under the strict accounting system of the General Accounting Office; provide for the Treasury to handle TVA funds; forbid the authority to construct power transmission lines substantially duplicating existing lines and instead negotiate to buy the existing facilities at a fair price or obtain them through condemnation; require the agency to come to Congress with well-planned, detailed recommendations for what it proposes to do in the future; and restrict TVA's bond issuing capacity to $50,000,000 to carry out purposes of the original TVA act.

George C. Cook Heads Capital Sales Group

The following were elected: President, George C. Cook of the Harry B. Cook Co., food brokers; first vice president, W. H. Rawley of the Rock Creek Ginger Ale Co.; second vice president, T. A. Cantwell of the Cantwell Paper Co.; treasurer, O. W. Shumate of Browning & Baines; secretary, Z. A. Jones of Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co., and directors, Ralph K. Ergood of Jesse Ergood Co., brokers; H. L. Golladay of Golladay Co., brokers; R. E. Brawner of National Biscuit Co.; G. E. Osha, of the Diamond Match Co.; J. F. Tinsman, of Mueller Macaroni Co.; Charles Robey, of Morton Salt Co.; J. P. Durnin, of Washburn Crosby Co. Following the election, a buffet dinner was served.

Pastor and Daughter Die in Train-Car Crash

Springfield, Ohio, June 21 (AP).—The Rev. J. B. Miller, 60, of Washington, Pa., who had accepted a pastorate at Dexter, Mo., and his daughter, Mrs. Eula Todd, also of Washington, were killed yesterday when a Big Four passenger train struck their automobile near here.

Mrs. Todd's son Charles, 5, was critically injured. Another son, John, 9 months, suffered minor injuries.

They were en route from Dexter to Washington.

not promised to "raise more hell than Huey."

He has no pet measures to introduce yet. Yes, he is for most of the Administration bills—the ones you would expect. The Wagner labor disputes bill, the utility holding company bill, the social security bill and the Guffey coal bill. But on the subject of taxes, he has a few ideas of his own. He will have to study the President's new tax program a bit, before he will say he is for it.

"Will you go along with Huey Long on his 'share the wealth' proposals?"

"Well," he replied, "I think there is too much concentration of wealth in this country. But I think most of it can be reached by income taxes."

Administration Democrats are happy. They think he will "go along."

And Huey is happy. He pals with young Holt, and thinks he may win a convert.

Holt is a bachelor and has no other present plans to the contrary. His pretty young sister, Jane Holt, may keep house for him in Washington.

A reputation for precociousness has followed him through life, and, as in the case of his Senate contest, it has not always been an asset. A boy prodigy of 14, he was once denied university admission because he was too young.

Probably his greatest disappointment during the Senate fight on his seating was the opposition of Senator Hiram Johnson, California Republican. Johnson was one of Holt's idols. He frequently extolled the Senate independent on the stump during his West Virginia campaign.

Senator Warren R. Austin (Republican), of Vermont, made the principal speech against the youth's eligibility yesterday.

Austin said he had no desire to discourage the youth of the country from increased participation in national affairs. The Vermonter frankly praised Holt for being candid about his age during his Senate campaign.

"But the Constitution of the United States is specific on this matter and I, for one, am going to vote in accordance with it," he said.

The majority of the Senate voted otherwise, however, and a few moments later Holt was raising his hand in solemn affirmation of the Senator's oath that was read to him. This was:

"I do solemnly swear that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic, that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I will take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion; and that I will well and faithful discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter, so help me God."

National Boom Due Next Year, Says Johnson

General Sees Roosevelt Holding 'Pat Royal Flush' Hand.

By the Associated Press.

Louisville, Ky., June 21.—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson told the American Business Club this afternoon that the dam of money in the Nation's banks will break next year and another boom will result.

Such coming prosperity was seen by the former NRA chieftain that he warned steps were needed to prevent a recurrence of the "false" prosperity of 1929. Government control of agriculture, mining and industry, and the building of stable, uniform markets for American-made goods are the necessities to control the coming business boom, he asserted.

Rages and Smiles.

In a speech alternately reflecting moods of wrath and jest, the dynamic general classified Huey Long, Father Coughlin and Dr. F. E. Townsend "rabble rousers" and asked deliverance from "professors, economists, chiselers, grass rooters, tom-tom beaters," whom he called "professional fear creators."

"Congress now counts its telegrams," he said. "When Coughlin can get 150,000 telegrams to Washington in two days it means that he, with Townsend and Long, find their meat among some 70,000,000 persons whose savings were wiped out during the depression."

Gen. Johnson compared the years between 1922 and 1929 with the seven years of plenty mentioned in the Bible and pointed out that the seven years following would be over by next year.

Holds Royal Flush.

"And with President Roosevelt's luck," he added with a smile, "nothing can keep the depression alive. He is the only man I ever heard of holding a pat royal flush. The depression can't stick around long with the banks bursting with money and interest at almost zero."

Gen. Johnson observed that "the country has too many polititicians and too many high-hat Congressmen, and this is one of the causes retarding recovery." Opposed to amending the Constitution, he advocated asking the Supreme Court for a declaratory judgment on New Deal policies.

House Passes $224,477,562 Deficiency Bill

Conference Report on Huge Navy Measure Also Approved.

By the Associated Press.

The House yesterday passed the $224,477,562 deficiency bill, then quickly approved a conference report on the $460,000,000 Navy appropriation bill, which set a new peacetime mark. The latter includes funds for starting construction of 24 more powerful warships in a treaty-strength building program.

Some of the warship fund will be used for armaments. The bulk will go to the strengthening of key naval bases in Hawaii and the Canal Zone.

An item of $9,850,000 for Army construction included $4,525,750 to start work on a huge Hawaiian airdrome.

The biggest figure in the deficiency bill is $64,000,000 for new public buildings, including $6,000,000 for three structures in the District of Columbia.

The bill set aside $1,000,000 for inauguration of air-mail service to the Orient by the Postoffice Department. Veterans' hospitals drew $20,000,000; river and harbor development, $10,000,000, and the Boulder Canyon project on the Colorado River, $14,000,000.

The bill also carried among other things an appropriation for purchasing 555 airplanes, of which 282 are for replacements and 273 for outright increases in the naval air strength in line with the Navy's plan to have 2,000 planes by 1942.

The sum available for construction of new warships was cut from $29,380,000 as asked by the department, to $20,690,000. Assurance was given by the Navy Department that the reduction would not delay inauguration of construction of the new vessels, the total cost of which was estimated at $197,427,000.

Hunt for Four Led By Gov. Tingley

100 Search New Mexico Desert for Tourists.

By the Associated Press.

Socorro, N. Mex., June 21.—Gov. Clyde Tingley led a small army over more than 100 miles of the central New Mexico desert today in a determined quest for four missing Illinois tourists.

With his aids, Gen. R. C. Charlton, adjutant of the New Mexico National Guard, and Chief E. J. House, jr., of the State police, he was searching for Mr. and Mrs. George Lorius and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer, of Duquoin and East St. Louis, Ill., missing since May 22. Aiding him were almost 100 men, some of them members of the New Mexico National Guard.

Traveling in motor cars, but stopping frequently at possible hiding places, they covered the entire route from East Vaughn, N. Mex., to Socorro, the road upon which it is believed the two couples may have been the victims of a "mass slaughter" for robbery.

'Long Count' Barry Convicted in Fraud

Chicago, June 21 (U.P.).—Dave (Long Count) Barry, prize-fight referee, who earned his nickname in the second Dempsey-Tunney fight, was convicted with Abraham Karatz, St. Paul lawyer, of embezzlement conspiracy today by a criminal court jury.

The jury set Karatz's penalty at 1 to 5 years imprisonment and $2,000 fine, but left Barry's punishment to the court's discretion. Maximum imprisonment would be 1 to 5 years.

Barry and Karatz were charged with conspiring to embezzle $55,000 from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago in an alleged plot to loot the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance Co. of Springfield.

By the United Press.

Honolulu, June 21.—The giant clipper plane, Honolulu's newest transportation link with the United States, skimmed into the air at 6:30 p. m. (Eastern standard time) today, en route to Alameda, Calif., on the last leg of an 8,000-mile round-trip to the middle of the Pacific.

The Pan-American Airways' four-motored amphibian rose easily, roaring straight out on its 2,410-mile course to its home base.

Capt. Musick elected to follow a course considerably north of the direct great circle route usually chosen, in order to complete exploratory observations regarding air conditions, weather and flight routings. He also indicated the clipper would fly at altitudes of 10,000 to 12,000 feet most of the trip, considerably higher than on any previous flight.

The weather in Honolulu was overcast, with the "ceiling" limited to 2,000 feet. A 16-mile an hour northwest wind was blowing, but Pearl Harbor and the outer sea remained calm. It was warm at time of the take-off (3 p. m. Honolulu time), with the mercury registering 86 degrees.

It was the second Honolulu-to-Alameda trip for the 40-ton flying boat, now returning from its first trip to the Sand Island base established by Pan American in the Midway group, 1,338 miles northwest of Honolulu.

Capt. Musick and his crew of five now hold more trans-Pacific flight service records than any other aviators. R. O. D. Sullivan was at the plane's controls, Frank J. Noonan directed navigation, Victor Wright supervised the 720-horsepower motors, W. Turner Jarboe, jr., was in charge of radio and Junior Flight Officer Harry Canaday "spelled" Musick and Sullivan at their posts.

Veteran Newspaperman Is Victim of Pneumonia.

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 21.—Karl K. Kitchen, 50, newspaperman, columnist and author, died today in a hospital of pneumonia. He had been ill only a few days.

Born in Cleveland, he was educated in public schools and was graduated from Cornell University in 1906. For two years he was in the Sunday department of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, then came to New York, where he joined the staff of the old New York Evening World as a special writer.

Some time before that paper ceased publication Kitchen joined the New York Sun, where he remained until 1933, when he went to California and wrote for motion pictures.

In addition to his newspaper work Kitchen was the author of two books, "The Night Side of Europe," and "After Dark in the War Capitals."

He is survived by his widow.

Church Asks Treasury To Finance Campaigns

By the Associated Press.

Legislation to finance political campaigns from the Federal Treasury was advocated in a petition presented yesterday to Senator Wagner, of New York, by the Department of Christian Social Service of the Protestant Episcopal Church, diocese of Long Island.

The petition suggested that it be made a felony to contribute to the campaign funds of "either major political party."

The proposed law, it added, should "provide the necessary election funds from the Federal Treasury, with an adequate and proportionate provision for the campaign expenses of minor parties, so that the poor as well as the rich can be elected to office, without wearing the yoke of an improperly dominated political machine."

Kansas Jail's Kitchen Held Dirty, Obsolete

Lansing, Kans., June 21 (AP).—The Kansas Penitentiary food, against which 348 convict coal miners protested in Tuesday's mutiny, is cooked in a 64-year old kitchen—and the Governor and warden agreed today the place is "insanitary."

"On one small range, in steam pots, and in a 30-year-old oven, meals are prepared for the 1,978 inmates. The kitchen is in a building that is insanitary and unfit for preparation of food," Gov. Alf M. Landon said at Topeka.

"The Governor is quite right," echoed Warden Lacey Simpson today. "That kitchen isn't very sanitary. It was built in 1871."

Mrs. English sprawled on the lawn below.

Harry Shorter, an elevator boy in the apartment house, told police that he heard a falling object land outside the building. He discovered it was a woman's shoe, and looking up saw Mrs. English crouched on the window ledge.

He notified Mrs. H. F. De Witt, a tenant on the first floor. She saw Mrs. English on the window ledge and, thinking to rescue her, hurried with Shorter to the fifth floor.

They were admitted by Starr, according to the police. By this time Mrs. English had fallen.

Servant Tells of Cries.

R. F. McCarthy and John Caton, detectives, found a servant in the Italian Embassy, which is nearby, who saw Mrs. English fall.

This servant, they said, told them that he heard Mrs. English screaming.

In searching the apartment, police found two bottles, one empty and the other partly filled with liquor.

They also found the remains of a highball in the bedroom. On the edge of the glass, the police said, was the imprint of rouge.

From the appearance of the kitchen, the police deduced that Mrs. English earlier had been preparing dinner. Potatoes were soaking in a pan and other vegetables and fruits were nearby.

Woman's Back Broken.

Mrs. English, a native of California, was one of the most strikingly attractive women in the Navy set here. When her husband returned from the Antarctic last month she rushed forward to meet him and was photographed while she embraced him.

Physicians did not hold out much hope for her recovery last night. She suffered a broken spine, two broken ribs, a possible broken jaw and several cuts and bruises. She was paralyzed from the waist down.

A former artist's model, Mrs. English married the Navy officer just before he sailed on the Bear of Oakland for a separation that was to last nearly two years.

tion of the nuisance tax measure, and the Wisconsin Progressive now plans to perfect them for submission when the tax extension bill is called up in the Senate.

They embody proposals unsuccessfully made to the committee by La Follette and Senator James Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, months ago when the "pink slip" income tax publicity law was up for repeal. They provide:

Inheritance and gift taxes, graduated upward on a scale paralleling income tax rates, in line with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's proposals for financing bonus payment. Estimated yield, between $300,000,000 and $600,000,000.

Other Proposals Listed.

Sharp increases in income tax scales, lowering exemptions, raising both the normal and surtax rates, and levying a 71 per cent tax on incomes over $1,000,000. Estimated yield, about $300,000,000.

Capital stock profits taxes of one-tenth of 1 per cent up to 8 per cent of the profits, with a graduated scale on the excess ranging from 5 to 40 per cent. Estimated yield, about $300,000,000.

Senator Nye, who worked with Senators La Follette and Borah in circulating the petition for consideration of the program this session "if it takes all summer," said the Progressives are convinced it will never be enacted if it goes over until next term.

"You will never get a bill like that through Congress in an election year," he insisted.

Senator Byrd, who has not only proposed a constitutional amendment permitting the Government to tax income from all securities, but a bill as well to allow the States to tax Government securities, said yesterday that any program based on "ability to pay" must include such a proposal. He said there are now $90,000,000,000 of tax-exempt bonds outstanding.

Consensus of Senate leaders is that the Administration's legislative program is now in such shape that Congress can enact the bulk of it and adjourn in 30 days. If the President's tax issue is injected Congress will be here for the summer, they believe. They look for the Ways and Means Committee to authorize a groundwork study in preparation for tax legislation next term.

Utility Challenges Roosevelt Remarks

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 21.—The Associated Gas & Electric Co. today issued a statement challenging the accuracy of some of the remarks made by President Roosevelt concerning the company's corporate structure earlier this week.

While disavowing any intention of entering into "a controversy" with the President and expressing gratification that the President had "approved the sound capitalization of operating companies of the associated system," the statement said other remarks of the President "indicate that on certain points he has been given misinformation."

The company particularly regretted, the statement said, the President's reference to "milking" in discussing the flow of earnings from subsidiaries to top-holding companies and said that instead of having "33 intervening companies" as the President was reported to have said, "there are only nine such companies in the entire associated system which have any securities in the hands of public holders, and the majority of those have outstanding relatively insignificant amounts."

"We may add," the statement said, "that in no instance do the earnings of any operating subsidiary flow through as many as half of these companies."

15 Others Injured During California Timber Mill Outbreak.

By the Associated Press.

Eureka, Calif., June 21.—Ten persons were shot by police, one fatally, in fierce rioting today between about 250 strike pickets and 200 employes of the Holmes-Eureka Lumber Mill, scene of five weeks of labor unrest.

One of those felled by police bullets was a woman. Another was believed dying. Five policemen were hurt and ten other civilians were injured.

Between 75 and 100 men were jailed after the bloody two-hour hand-to-hand combat. None of the victims, except the officers injured, was identified immediately.

The outbreak in this northern California lumber center came as the outlook for peace in the labor-troubled Pacific Northwest timber industry had begun to brighten.

Chief of Police George Littlefield said the trouble started when James O'Neill, a special officer, reported for patrol duty at the mill. Littlefield asserted the officer was attacked by pickets and others.

A short time later, when the mill's 300 employes reported for work, the real battle started.

Littlefield said the pickets blockaded the employes' approach to the mill and finally began hurling rocks. Mass fighting ensued. A riot call brought a police car with five officers.

Littlefield said the police fired after their car had been stoned. One man fell, fatally wounded. Littlefield said other rioters made a dash for the police car and his men fired several more shots. Littlefield was cut by flying glass.

Although the mill had been picketed for about five weeks, the number of strikers was less than 10 per cent of the employes of the job, Littlefield said. Previous picketing had been peaceful.

The police chief asserted, however, that the number of men attacking the employes was far in excess of the total known to be on strike, indicating they had recruited help.

Like other lumber workers in Washington and Oregon, the strikers here seek union recognition and higher wages.

Jackie Coogan Sued For $500,000 in Crash

Los Angeles, June 21 (AP).—Two damage suits, each for $250,000, were filed today against Jackie Coogan, film actor, in connection with the automobile accident May 4 in which four persons—including his father—were killed.

The suits were filed by Anna V. Horner, mother of Robert J. Horner, playwright, and by Grace Durkin, guardian of Trent Junior Durkin, actor.

The plaintiffs charge that John H. Coogan, Jackie's father, was driving "at an excessive speed while under the influence of liquor." The plaintiffs contended Jackie Coogan was liable in that he failed to remonstrate with his father for driving the car so fast.

Chaco Peace Protocol Is Ratified by Bolivia

La Paz, Bolivia, June 21 (AP).—The Bolivian Congress this afternoon unanimously ratified the peace protocol signed at Buenos Aires last week, setting up machinery for settlement of the Chaco War. Paraguay's Congress ratified it Tuesday.

A formal 12-day truce now goes into effect on the Chaco front, where hostilities have been suspended since last Friday at noon, and neutral mediators at Buenos Aires will work out details of demobilization and demilitarization.

Mitchell Charge Proved Untrue, Copeland Says

States Testimony Entirely Exonerates Roper's Department.

By the Associated Press.

An emphatic opinion that the Commerce Department had been completely vindicated of corruption charges brought by Ewing Y. Mitchell, ousted Assistant Secretary, was expressed last night by Chairman Copeland of the Senate Commerce Committee.

He asserted the allegations had "faded into thin air"—after Secretary Roper had led a procession of the department's key officials before the committee to deny the accusations and denounce Mitchell as a suspicious, inefficient meddler.

"I am frank to say that the charges were merely inferences," Copeland told reporters, summing up testimony that occupied three days, on all of which Mitchell appeared with his demands for a clean-up of Roper's department.

"Completely Answered."

"Because certain things happened, Mitchell jumped to the conclusion that the reason was so and so; but when we got to the issues at stake we find him giving partial quotations taken from here and there and then using them as the basis for his charges," Copeland continued.

"Without criticizing his motives, I am frank to say I think his charges have been sufficiently, completely and efficiently answered. While he may have spoken of things that may justify criticism, the rebuttal showed the department was well organized and well operated and will progress more rapidly because of his detachment from the service."

As the committee hearings were drawing to a close, the nomination of John Monroe Johnson to the assistant secretaryship from which Mitchell was removed a week ago was confirmed without opposition by the Senate.

Reading a prepared statement with an earnestness that sometimes gave way to oratorical gusto, Secretary Roper, at the hearing, sought to ridicule the accusations as based upon "rumor and suspicion," praised the characters and capabilities of his associates, and once defended President Roosevelt against Mitchell's imputations.

Defends Leviathan Deal.

"Mr. Mitchell is represented as saying at a press conference yesterday," the Secretary said, "that he attributed the President's action in approving my recommendation to lay up the Leviathan and the terms attaching thereto as influenced by the President's personal friendship with Vincent Astor, who happens to be a stockholder of the International Mercantile Marine, which in turn owns the United States Lines, which in turn owns the Leviathan.

"I wish to say emphatically that the President did not initiate my action in laying up the Leviathan and from the beginning has done no more than manifest an interest in developing a better American merchant marine consistent with the approved plans of the Congress. The statement of Mr. Mitchell, based on his over-active imagination and suspicions, is without foundation."

Men whom Mitchell had repeatedly attacked, in three appearances before the committee, as having blinked at inefficiency and evidences of graft and corruption, and with having balked his efforts at remedial action, followed Roper on the witness stand.

They included J. Craig Peacock, chief of the Shipping Board Bureau, and South Trimble, jr., solicitor of the Commerce Department.

Meanwhile, William B. Shearer, the "big Navy" man of 1929, entered the Mitchell controversy in off-stage fashion with an assertion that "Wall street interests," representing Great Britain, "will not allow us to build big, high-speed superliners" like the Leviathan. That steamship played a part in Mitchell's charges. He claimed a Government "gift" to its owners.

Shearer charged that the International Marine Co., which controlled the Leviathan, is "a Morgan company," adding that "everybody knows that Morgan is Britain's fiscal agent here."

Congress Announces a 'Revolt' Against Brain Trusters' Bills

By the Associated Press.

The so-called "brain trusters" of the Administration were given blunt notice yesterday by Democratic Congressmen that the bills they draft in the future will be put through a fine-mesh legislative sieve.

Orders were issued by Chairman Doughton (Democrat), North Carolina, that all departmental drafts of legislation sent to the Ways and Means Committee hereafter should be studied and redrafted by the congressional legislative drafting service before introduction.

Similar instructions were given certain other Senate and House committees, where Democratic chairmen intimated they did not want their names on bills providing for things they opposed.

Senator Adams (Democrat), Colorado, said there was a growing "revolt" in Congress against "brain trusters' legislative drafts" because of "smoke screen preambles" designed to "develop a constitutional basis" for the bills. Adams added that since the Supreme Court's NRA decision Congress was making an especial effort to simplify bills and to bring them within constitutional limits.

Doughton's orders came after his committee, Secretary Morgenthau's aids, and FACA officials had a dispute over the department's new liquor regulation bill to supplant FACA, ended by the NRA decision.

The committee scrapped the measure providing for the setting up of a new, independent agency, and wrote its own, putting the agency under the Treasury and allowing bulk liquor sales over the Secretary's objections.

When Harold N. Graves, assistant to Morgenthau, told the committee that the Secretary opposed bulk sales and having the agency under the Treasury, Representative Vinson (Democrat), Kentucky, asked:

"When did it ever come to the point where Congress could not have something to say about what the duties of the executive branch of the Government should be?"

"Of course, it is recognized that Congress does have the complete authority to determine the allocation of this function," Graves replied.

Members of the committees said all future drafts of such legislation would be completely revamped if necessary.

Banks in Connecticut Face Insurance Ban

New Haven, Conn., June 21 (U.P.). Connecticut banks will be prohibited from purchasing Federal deposit insurance certificates unless Congress passes the omnibus banking bill, State Bank Commisioner Walter Perry said tonight.

The pending measure would eliminate the unlimited liability clause.

The General Assembly, Perry said, at its last session, in approving a so-called "protection to investors" program, guarded against dealings by State banks and trust companies in any securities of unlimited liabilities.

Workers Drop, Pay Rolls Down In May Report

Seasonal Decline Blamed for Employment Loss by Labor Bureau.

A decline in May in both the number of workers employed and in total pay roll was reported yesterday by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Blaming the reduction on a seasonal decline, the bureau estimated that 126,000 fewer persons were employed than in April and the weekly pay roll was down $3,900,000.

The report indicated that the decrease in factory employment was less pronounced in the durable goods industries than in the non-durable goods group. Among the industries reporting declines were automobiles, steel, textiles and clothing.

A drop of 1.7 per cent in employment in retail establishments was reported. The largest increase in employment was reported in bituminous coal mines, where production went up following a strike threat. PWA employment showed a gain of 60,000. The District showed a slight drop in number of persons employed and a slight increase in pay rolls.

Speeders Cannot Sit With Traffic Jury

Persons arrested for speeding cannot serve on juries which decide speeding cases. This was the precedent established in Police Court yesterday when six members of a jury panel were excused on this ground.

The case being tried was that of Luther E. Cline, a Capital Transit Co. bus driver, charged with third offense speeding. Eventually it went to trial with 11 jurors on agreement of defense and prosecution.

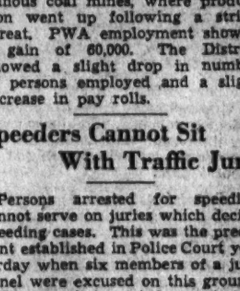
Tastes Better than Pre-War"

DECLARES LOUIE C. LEITH, ESQ., NOTED VIRGINIA HORSEMAN



● Remember those dusty old "Pre-War" bottles? Thousands of men are still searching for rye with that delicious, rich "Pre-War" taste. That's why this unusual story will interest you.

We asked Louie C. Leith, Esq. to compare "Pre-War" Hunter, sealed before 1919, with the Hunter Baltimore Blended Rye Whiskey you can get today. Mr. Leith tasted them both... rolled each one critically on his tongue. Then pointing to the present Hunter Rye he said, "That's the smoothest. It tastes better than the 'Pre-War'!"

Try Hunter Baltimore Rye. You'll relish its fine, fragrant bouquet. It's a full-bodied smooth whiskey, made of fine Maryland Ryes. Ask for it in your next cocktail or highball.

Number of Idle In Montgomery Steadily Falling

495 Families on Relief on May 17; 272 on June 14, Survey Shows.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 1111 Oak Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Families on relief in Montgomery County have shown a steady decrease since May 17, Dorothy A. Everson, executive secretary of the County Welfare Board, announced yesterday. Figures compiled during a survey of economic conditions in the county revealed that during the week of May 17 there were 495 families receiving relief, while during the week of June 14 the number had shrunk to 272.

The survey indicates, however, that there is little likelihood of a further material decrease during July, she said. On the contrary, decrease in fruit farm employment, closing of canning factories, end of the harvest in the month of July and decrease in nursery employment may tend to increase the number, Miss Everson reported.

The analysis conducted by the board leads officials to believe that activity in farming sections will continue until about July 20.

"It is estimated from the review," Miss Everson said, "that there would be little improvement in economic conditions over those existing at the present time."

Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission has announced that two tennis courts in Cabin John Park will open today for the use of the public.

The group includes Elidge Allanson, Lois Judge, Barbara McClenon, Dorothy Nellis, Marcia Nelson, Elinor Sherburne, Esther Dare and Dorothy Schearrer.

31 Crabbers Held For License Lack

Pocomoke Operators Call Profits Not Worth It.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Crisfield, Md., June 21.—Thirty-one crabbers, said to comprise all crabbers of the Asbury district, were arrested this afternoon by Travis Taylor, State conservation inspector out of the Pocomoke area, charged with crabbing without licenses. The crabbers were said to have been operating in Pocomoke River.

They were released on recognizance and given until tomorrow to procure licenses. Failing to do so they will be arraigned before Magistrate Edward P. Wyatt. Watermen in that vicinity have contended that they are not making enough to justify buying licenses.

S. F. Mason, of Crisfield, who trucks crabs here from lower Virginia to local crab packers, was also arrested this morning by Inspector Edward Justice, charged with having several crabs under the five-inch cull law. His trial will be held tomorrow before Magistrate Wyatt.

His first important national post during the war was as a member of the Selective Service Advisory Committee. In 1918 he became director of the War Finance Corporation, and served in this capacity until 1921. He left this position to become Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Active Democrat.

Throughout his political life Mr. McLean was prominently identified with the Democratic party—State and National.

He was a member of the State Democratic executive committee in North Carolina in 1920 and 1921 and delegate at large to the Democratic national conventions in 1908 and 1912, and chairman of the Presidential campaign committee of 1912 and 1916, the years when Woodrow Wilson was elected President.

Always distinguished and prominent as a lawyer, Mr. McLean was a member of the American Bar Association, of the Clan McLean Association, of Glasgow, Scotland, and a former president of the Scottish Society of America. He was a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Mr. McLean had been a trustee of Union Theological Seminary, in Richmond, Va., since 1920, and of the University of North Carolina since 1912.

It was while he was Governor of North Carolina that he witnessed the beginning of the tremendous growth of Duke University, in Durham, under the endowment of the vast Duke estate. As chief executive he saw little Trinity College expand and change its name, on its way to becoming the world-famous educational institution it is today.

He was a member of the Cape Fear Club, at Wilmington, N. C., and the Sigma Chi Fraternity, as well as the Chevy Chase Club of Washington. He belonged to the National Press Club and the Knights of Pythias.

Leaves Widow, 3 Children.

Surviving Mr McLean are his wife, the former Miss Margaret French, of Lumberton, and three children, Angus Wilton McLean, jr., of Washington; Hector McLean, of Lumberton and Miss Margaret French McLean, of Lumberton.

Funeral services will be held at Central Presbyterian Church, Sixteenth and Irving streets northwest, today at noon, with Dr. James H. Taylor, D. D., the pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Lumberton tomorrow.

Honorary pallbearers will include Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, Attorney General Homer Cummings, Senators Joseph Robinson, of Arkansas; William G. McAdoo, of California; Josiah Bailey, of North Carolina; Robert Reynolds, of North Carolina; former Gov. O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina; J. T. F. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency; Eugene Meyer, J. Crawford Biggs, Maj. Gen Rupert Blue, U. S. A.; Everett Sanders; Representative Robert L. Doughton, of North Carolina; Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary to the President; Marriner S. Eccles, Federal Reserve Board governor; Kingman Brewster, and Garland Ferguson.

Active pallbearers will be Representative Lindsay Warren, Joseph P. Tumulty, James M. Butler, Brice Clagett, Charles E. Wainwright and J. Fred McClerkin.

Bonham, present superintendent, is ineligible to be a candidate.

Woman Chief Of Seminoles Passes at 82

Alice Brown Davis Named Head of Tribe in 1922 by Harding.

By the Associated Press.

Wewoka, Okla., June 21.—Alice Brown Davis, 82, famed woman chieftain of the Seminole Indian Nation, died here today.

Mrs. Davis was the only Indian woman from this district occupying a niche in the Oklahoma hall of fame.

Physicians said she died of heart ailment.

For years before her appointment as chief of the Seminoles by President Harding in 1922, Mrs. Davis was a leader of her tribe. She was the daughter of a Scotch physician and a Florida Seminole princess, who met in the original trek of the Florida tribe to the Oklahoma Territory.

In 1874 she married George R. Davis of Leroy, Kans.

Widowed after the birth of ten children, when the youngest was but three, Mrs. Davis founded the Arbeka trading post and postoffice in Seminole County and there reared her family.

In 1905 she went to Mexico City, as a representative of the Seminoles to lay claim to a tract of land they believed theirs. In 1914, she went to Florida as a missionary in the Everglades.

Alaska Colonists Fear an Epidemic season doubtful. Apparently men sent to pick political plums. Irwin and Washington officials o k; hands tied. Colonists cooperating. Request immediate investigation."

The newspaper letter which Vandenberg read was written by Mrs. Fred Rotz, formerly of Plymouth, Mich.

"Pray for us, dear folks at home," the letter said. "We need the mighty hand of God in this undertaking, and the united prayers of people everywhere."

Nearly All Reported Ill.

Mrs. Rotz said nearly all the 2,000 colonists were sick and that a disastrous epidemic was feared because of a lack of medical supplies, that milk was scarce, that there were many expectant mothers without medical attention, and that free groceries promised by the Government until the colonists were settled were not available, that many colonists felt they were being gouged at the commissary, and that dissension had broken out and already resulted in the removal of one executive.

Lawrence Westbrook, head of the rural rehabilitation, yesterday blamed most of the complaints on the failure of a shipment of lumber to arrive on schedule.

Despite the difficulties, Westbrook insisted, the settlers are still much better off than before their migration.

By the Associated Press.

Palmer, Alaska, June 21.—Two Matanuska Valley colonists charged today in letter to President Roosevelt and Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins that "thousands of dollars" are being "squandered with no apparent accomplishment" on the project.

Mrs. I. M. Sandvick and Patrick Hemmer, who said they represent 40 other colonists, declared in their letter, however, that "there was no over estimation as far as climate, soil and agricultural possibilities" of the valley were concerned.

The colonists' letter asserted that construction on buildings was being delayed and that the FERA contingent was not doing its work, with the result that the colonists themselves were being forced to build their homes and clear land.

"The colonists are doing their best to fulfill their part of the agreement," they wrote. "We like it and we want to make our homes here."

There are 200 families in the colony, drawn from Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Funeral Rites Are Set Today For Mrs. Adams

Fredericksburg Woman Was Wife of Clerk of the Court.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., June 21.—Funeral services for Mrs. Belle McIntosh Adams, wife of Clerk of the Court J. Willard Adams, who died at her home here yesterday, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Adams had been an invalid for some weeks, but the end came suddenly when her heart became seriously involved.

Mrs. Adams was the daughter of the late Capt. J. Nicholson Barney and Mrs. Nannie Sedden Barney, of Fredericksburg. She was born in Powhatan County, Va., August 17, 1868.

Mrs. Adams was a member of the Presbyterian Church from her girlhood and interested in its welfare. She was a member of many patriotic organizations.

She is survived by her husband, two children, Dr. Nicholson B. Adams, member of the University of North Carolina faculty, and Mrs. Edgar W. Dare, of Fredericksburg; three grandchildren and four sisters, Misses Nannie D., Esther N. and Helen W. Barney, of Fredericksburg, and Miss Caroline H. Barney, of Washington.

Dynamite Blast Fells Power Pole

Second Charge at Strike Scene Fails to Explode.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., June 21.—Dynamiting a pole carrying a 33,000-volt line, and a similar attempt when 40 sticks of dynamite failed to explode were being investigated by State police today in connection with a strike which has been in progress nine weeks at the plant of Standard Lime & Stone Co.

Police said today they were trying to trace the source of the dynamite which failed to explode. Dynamite which exploded wrecked the pole, but did not break the wires. It is believed the blast shook the percussion caps from the second charge of dynamite. The poles were on quarry property.

Power company officials said the threatened line was tied in with the general feed line to this city and a break in it would have disrupted service to this city and neearby territory at least temporarily. It was learned that the company, as a precautionary measure, has installed an emergency power plant.

Anglo-French Break Averted By Eden Visit

rupture on the Franco-British political front.

Premier Laval said:

"We discussed with complete frankness the Anglo-German accord. Capt. Eden explained the reasons which led his government to take this decision.

"I did not fail to repeat the reservations which my government has expressed on this subject. But my personal relations with M. Eden are sufficient to stress the friendly character of our conversations.

"We also examined problems facing our two governments in the present European situation and recognized the necessity of close collaboration between France and Britain."

Eden plans to go to Rome to confer with Premier Benito Mussolini Monday or Tuesday on the same issues.

Both Italy and France have accepted invitations to send delegates to London for a further study of the current crisis.

By the United Press.

London, June 21.—Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, defended the new Anglo-German naval accord today in the House of Commons.

He asserted the agreement was to the "ultimate interest" of all naval powers and that it would have been a serious error if the British government had refused Berlin's offer. He disclosed that at the outset of the conversations the German delegates offered to accept a navy 35 per cent that of Britain "for all time."

Sir Bolton contended that the agreement holds out the possibility of averting forever the threat of naval rivalry between England and Germany, adding:

"The agreement furnishes a point of departure for further discussions with other powers whose position will be eased by Germany's undertaking."

Retorting to his French critics, the admiralty chief said, "We have to face the facts." He emphasized that Germany already was laying down a fleet beyond the 150,000-ton limit in the Treaty of Versailles, and said:

"So we circumscribed the effects that might flow from Germany's unilateral decision."

Moscow, June 21 (AP).—Great Britain today informed the Soviet government that she would like to open Anglo-Soviet conversations soon in an effort to achieve general international limitation of naval armaments.

Lord Chilson, British Ambassador, said during his talk with Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff that if it proves impossible to agree on limitation of the quantity of armaments, Britain still hopes to be able to accomplish agreement on quality limitation.

Lord Chilson informed Litvinoff of the contents of the German proposal which Britain has accepted, and said Britain now has negotiating with governments of France and Italy for naval agreements.

Marylander Sees Bootlegging Wave

Liquor Group Head Wants More Inspectors.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, June 21.—Thomas Cook, president of the Maryland Retail Liquor Dealers, Inc., today charged that bootlegging is widespread among holders of $60 beer licenses. Such licenses entitle the holder to sell only beer.

Cook declined to go into detail on the charge, but said he might "have something more to say in a week or two."

His statement followed action of the dealers' association in indorsing the addition of more inspectors to the staff of the Baltimore Board of Liquor Commissioners.

Only through work of more inspectors will the alleged bootlegging be stopped, the dealers contend. Liquor dealers who sell all types of alcoholic beverages are required to pay licenses of $700 a year.

Wind and Wave Hit Arkansas; 3 Dead, 14 Hurt

Tornado Sweeps Texarkana Area; River Levees Crumble.

By the Associated Press.

Little Rock, Ark., June 21.—Water and wind wrought additional havoc in Arkansas today as two more main channel levees on the Arkansas River crumbled and a tornado ripped into the Texarkana area, killing 3 and injuring 14.

Cresting in northwest Arkansas, the big stream crushed another levee near Morilton, inundating 15,000 acres of plantation property, and a few hours later broke through below Cotton Town, in the Carden Bottoms, 15 miles southeast of Dardanelle in Yell County.

Sand-bagging crews at both places escaped injury.

The Carden Bottoms break—the ninth on the main river this week—poured a torrent of water onto 8,000 acres of land planted to cotton, corn and potatoes.

Two hundred and fifty families were forced out, many in boats, making a total of 800 families homeless in that area.

The State Extension Service late today issued revised figures on crop damage gathered from agents in 28 counties reporting 378,300 acres of cultivated land inundated "badly enough to destroy growing crops" and announcing the destruction of 157,250 acres of cotton.

Mayor R. E. Overman, of Little Rock, wired a direct appeal to Senators Robinson and Caraway to send Federal engineers to Arkansas to view what he described as "a calamitous situation."

Controversial Titles Of Bank Bill Talked

By the Associated Press.

For the first time since it began consideration of the Administration banking bill two months ago, the Senate Banking sub-committee late yesterday opened discussion on the controversial title placing control over the Nation's credit in the Federal Reserve Board. No conclusions were reached.

"We discussed some of the features of title 2 (credit provisions) but reached no conclusions," said Chairman Glass (Democrat), of Virginia. "We will meet again Monday."

Russia's 'Iron Man' Pets Park Children

By the Associated Press.

Moscow, June 21. — Joseph Stalin, Russia's man of steel, who usually appears most grim, changed his mien today, and played with little children in an amusement park.

Stalin was setting an example for the rest of Russia in a new effort to make the people give their offspring more attention.

Dressed in white, with his customary knee boots, and surrounded by members of the government, Stalin strolled through the park, trailed by hundreds of youngsters. He stopped every now and then to caress a child or answer a question put by one of them.

Pravda, the Communist party organ, said editorially that it is the duty of all Bolshevist parents to give their children a home education, and not merely consider them wards of the state.

Parade Tonight Opens Week's Church Fete

A parade at 7 o'clock tonight will open a week's carnival for St. Aloysius' Church, events including sports and amusements of all kinds every night from tonight to next Saturday night, M. J. Ryan, committee chairman, announced yesterday.

Floats, including one depicting a miniature garden party, and the Elks' Clown Band will feature the parade. It will start from the church, at North Capitol and K streets northwest, and will make the rounds of the parish, Ryan said. The carnival games will be held at the church grounds, admission being free.

Dr. Hart Asks Prayers of Laity On His Clerical Anniversary

THE REV. OLIVER J. HART, D. D., rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, is celebrating the completion of 18 years as an Episcopal priest.

St. John's Rector Sends Letters to Congregation About His Duties.

In a letter to members of his congregation, the Rev. Oliver J. Hart, D. D., pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church, yesterday observed the eighteenth anniversary of his ordination as a priest.

The celebration will be carried over to tomorrow morning when at 11 o'clock prayer service, the rector, who is one of the most widely known of Washington's younger clergymen, will preach on "What Shall I Live For?"

Almost coinciding with the anniversary was the conferring of an honor on the rector last week. The University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., awarded him the honorary degree of doctor of divinity.

In his letter to the St. John's congregation, Dr. Hart pointed out the responsibility of the rector's office. It read:

"On June 21, 1917, I was ordained priest by Bishop Guerry of South Carolina. I would say of my experience what someone has said of any genuine venture in religious living, 'We take upon our shoulders the weight of some great responsibility which must be honorably borne. It is too heavy for our own strength, and yet we can not lay it down. Come what will, that thing with which we have been entrusted must be taken safely to the end of the road.'

"It is no mean responsibility to be entrusted with the rectorship of St. John's. I venture, therefore, on this coming anniversary of my ordination to ask your prayers that I may faithfully serve God in this office, to the glory of His name, and the edification of His church."

Catholics to Hold 3 Open-Air Forums

Daugherty, pastor, will preach brief sermons at both times. The Joash Chest offering will be continued and contributions will be received throughout the day.

Masons to Hold First Of Outdoor Services

Washington Masons will begin their fourteenth season of open-air religious services at 4 p. m. tomorrow on Temple Heights. The Rev. Simpson B. Daugherty, D. D., pastor of Memorial United Brethren Church, will preach the sermon.

The Rev. John C. Palmer, grand chaplain, will preside and J. W. Humphrey will have charge of the music.

Song Services Are Scheduled At St. Albans

Canon R. L. Wolven Will Open Series There Tomorrow.

With the closing for the summer of the Great Choir at Washington Cathedral, officials have announced a series of open air People's Evensong services beginning tomorrow on the lawn around the Peace Cross on Mount Saint Alban.

The first of these services, scheduled for 4 p. m., will feature a sermon by Canon Raymond L. Wolven, of the Cathedral staff. Music will be furnished by the Cathedral choir of men and boys.

Camp chairs to accommodate 1,000 will be placed on the lawn. In case of rain, the services will be transferred to Bethlehem Chapel in the crypt of the Cathedral.

Canon Anson Phelps Stokes will preach tomorrow at the first of the Sunday morning services in Bethlehem Chapel. This service is at 11 o'clock.

The service of Holy Communion which has been held in the Chapel of the Resurrection at 9:30 a. m. Thursdays will be discontinued after this week until further notice. The award of honors in recognition of choir boys' services will be announced at the 11 a. m. service a week from tomorrow.

All Saints' Episcopal Church. The Rev. Henry Teller Cocke, rector. The rector will preach on "God's Fatherhood" at 11 a. m. services tomorrow. The Chevy Chase Union Protestant vesper service will be at 7 p. m. with Dr. J. Hillman Hollister as speaker.

Transfiguration Episcopal Church. The Rev. J. J. Queally, rector. A series of ten-minute sermons to be given at the 11 a. m. service will be inaugurated by the rector tomorrow. They will continue through the summer. Half-hour services at 7:30 a. m. have been arranged for members of the congregation planning to leave the city for the day. Church school will recess until September, Mr. Queally announced.

One hundred and twenty-five pupils of the church school received certificates at exercises last Sunday.

St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. The Rev. A. J. Wilder, rector. Holy Communion will be celebrated at 8 a. m. Service and sermon by the rector will be at 11 a. m. Mr. Wilder's subject will be "The Responsibility of Him That Hath to Him That Hath Not."

David Manley, tenor, will be guest soloist.

A popular evening service has been planned for 7:30 o'clock in the social hall at 1308 Vermont avenue. Miss Gladys Prince will lead a discussion on the theme, "I Will Be Christian in My Social Life." Others appearing on the program will be Dr. Miller, Klaud Bittner, orchestra director; Horace C. Carlisle, Marion DeSollar, Helen Todd, Rae Welch, E. M. Haddox and Ida McMillan. Preceding the service there will be a tea.

Ninth Street Christian Church. The Rev. Clifford H. Jope, pastor. Dr. Jope will preach on "The Lord Is My Shepherd" tomorrow morning, presenting the second in a series of sermons on the Psalms. The choir will sing "The Lord Is My Shepherd."

The junior church will meet at 11 a. m. in the church house under direction of Mrs. H. B. Douglas. The theme will be "Helping to Make Our Neighborhood Better." Miss Kathryn Garrett will give the sermon story on "Inasmuch."

Columbia Heights Christian Church. The Rev. A. P. Wilson, pastor. The pastor's morning topic will be the first of a series on "The Messages of Great Poems." The subject will be "The Vision of Sir Launfal." In the evening the minister will tell the story of some of the important hymns of the church.

Fifteenth Street Christian Church. The Rev. L. L. Bowers, pastor. Morning worship with the observance of the Lord's Supper will be at 11 o'clock with the pastor preaching on "The Call of the Bewildered World." The Junior Church, in charge of Mrs. Vera Nalls and Mrs. J. W. Graves will present a special program at the 8 p. m. service.

Five-Minute Sermons At Solemn Novena

The Solemn Novena in honor of the Sacred Heart, which began in the Immaculate Conception Church Thursday, will continue through next Friday. The Novena is being conducted by the Rev. Joseph Fitzsimmons, of the Redemptorists.

Novena masses are at 7:30 a. m. and 12:15 noon on weekdays with 5-minute sermons at the latter. A 20-minute sermon is being given at a third mass at 7:45 p. m.

Mission Merger Voted Down At Northern Baptist Meeting

By the Associated Press.

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 21.—A new method for disbursing funds met opposition, and a proposal to merge four mission societies into two bodies was defeated today at the Northern Baptist convention.

The missions merger proposal, raised at two previous conventions, was defeated today when the convention adopted negative reports of the two commissions assigned to study the proposal.

The new method of disbursing funds proposed that when any Baptist organization had obtained 85 per cent of its budget it would not share in any undesignated gifts that might be made to the Baptist church, unless or until all organizations had filled 85 per cent of their budgets.

Dr. H. W. Virgin, pastor of the North Shore Church, Chicago, said the method would discourage solicitations of large gifts and the matter was left open for future action.

The council on finance and promotion opening a campaign to add $500,000 in gifts to the missions fund for 1935 and 1936.

The merger proposal suggested the American Baptist Foreign Mission Society and the Women's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society be joined. Consolidation of the American Baptist Home Mission Society and the Women's American Baptist Home Mission Society also was suggested.

Speakers who objected said the merger would "not preserve the initiative and personality of women's missionary work" and would result in no saving of expense.

"We have four great ambulances rushing to a wrecked world and now we propose to wreck them, destroy efficient machinery and build expensive new ones," said Dr. E. V. Pierce, of Minneapolis, fundamentalist leader.

Vacation School Will Open Monday

Nursery Department Added at Chevy Chase.

With its teaching personnel and program of classes complete, the Chevy Chase Community Vacation Church School will open at 9 a. m. Monday in the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, Connecticut avenue and Chevy Chase Circle.

Church Lists Summer Rite Of Communion

Other Services Scheduled by Lutherans in Washington.

The congregation at the Lutheran Church of Reformation will observe its summer communion service at 11 a. m. tomorrow. Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder, pastor, will deliver a brief communion address and will conduct the service with the assistance of Dr. John Weidley, pastor emeritus.

In the evening Dr. Blackwelder will continue his sermon series on "Men Who Overcame" by speaking about the famous Japanese Christian sociologist and minister, Toyohiko Kagawa.

Incarnation Lutheran Church. The Rev. Henry Manken, jr., pastor. The pastor will present a meditation on Psalm 13 at the Morning Suffrages at 8 o'clock. Preaching at the 11 a. m. church service, he will discuss "Wisdom's Feast."

The schedule of two morning services and the Bible school will be continued throughout the summer, Mr. Manken has announced.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. The Rev. Henry W. Snyder, D. D., pastor. The pastor's morning sermon is on "What We Want and Where We Get It." At 7 p. m. the congregation will join union services at All Saints' Episcopal Church.

Christ Lutheran Church, Bethesda. The Rev. Henry J. Whiting, pastor. The sermon subject tomorrow morning will be "Christians in Action." Mr. Whiting announced yesterday that beginning July 7 church school and church worship services will be conducted jointly at 10 a. m.

Grace Lutheran Church. The Rev. Gerhard E. Lenski, pastor. Services tomorrow will follow the summer schedule. Church school will be at 9:45 a. m. with the worship service following at 11 o'clock. The pastor will preach on "Life and Its Responsibility."

Evening services will be suspended during the summer.

Georgetown Lutheran Church. The Rev. Harold E. Beatty, pastor. "Like the Morning Dew" will be the sermon subject for Mr. Beatty tomorrow morning. Paulyne Burkhardt will lead the Young People's meeting at 7 p. m.

Man's Evolution Is Scientist Topic

Text Is Based on God's Hand in Creation.

"Is the universe, including man, evolved by atomic force?" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Revelation 4:11: "Thou are worthy O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture." (Psalms 100:3). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "A material world implies a mortal mind and man a creator. The scientific divine creation declares immortal Mind and the universe created by God."

"God's Children" Is Subject.

"All God's Children" will be the subject of a sermon Lieut. Maj. H. Mills Eroh, of the Volunteers of America, will preach at services tomorrow afternoon in the Relief Mission, 471 Pennsylvania avenue northwest. The Rev. G. W. Raines will conduct the services.

Church to End All Activities Till September

Mount Pleasant Group to Join Union Services for Summer.

With services tomorrow and the final session of the church school a week from tomorrow, activities of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church organizations will be suspended for the summer.

Beginning June 30 Mount Pleasant Church will cooperate with the All Souls' Unitarian Church and the National Universalist Memorial Church in a series of union summer services, which will continue through September 8.

Dr. Russell J. Clinchy, pastor, and his family will leave next week for Deering, N. H., for a vacation through July and August.

At the morning service tomorrow the Rev. Gaius Glenn Atkins, D. D., professor of homiletics at Auburn Theological Seminary, will preach. Dr. Atkins was pastor of the First Congregational Church, Detroit, at the time Dr. Clinchy was serving the church as associate minister. He has appeared in the Mount Pleasant pulpit twice previously.

At First Congregational Church, Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, pastor, will speak tomorrow morning on "Thankfulness and Joy."

Plans are being completed for the church and Sunday school picnic next Saturday afternoon at Miller's Cabin in Rock Creek Park.

Tax-Exempt Securities.

The President's tax message caused a decided rise in the quoted values of tax-exempt bonds on Thursday and a contemporaneous decline in stock quotations. This was a logical outcome of proposals to increase income taxes in the upper brackets. It is also a fairly sure indication that revenue obtained from sharper graduation of surtax rates would at first be disappointingly small, in view of the large volume of outstanding tax-exempt issues. It is estimated that about $31,000,000,000 of completely tax-exempt public securities were outstanding at the beginning of 1934, of which approximately $19,000,000,000 consisted of State and local issues.

Although the President took occasion to recommend ratification of a constitutional amendment to end tax exemption, it would not apply retroactively. It would merely permit the Federal Government to tax income from subsequently issued State and local securities, and empower local governments to tax future issues of Federal securities. Obviously an amendment of this type would, during the period preceding its ratification, stimulate demand for outstanding tax-exempt issues, and tend to raise quotations.

Judged from a long time point of view, elimination of tax exemption in Government issues is highly desirable, although it is doubtful whether it would add much to the volume of current revenues. Certainly it would not do so for a number of years. Moreover, any additions to revenue from this change of policy would be offset to some extent by certain increases in the cost of borrowing.

The proposal to do away with tax exemption has nevertheless been advocated for many years by successive administrations. It has not been urged primarily as a revenue-producing measure, but as a means of preventing recipients of large incomes from escaping payment of high surtaxes, and also as a device for placing governmental and private borrowers more nearly on a basis of equality.

Out Of Bounds.

The Secretary of the Navy rightly believes that in international affairs naval officers should be seen but not heard. In "admonishing" Rear Admiral Stirling for writing a newspaper article in which an inimical attitude toward Russia was plainly evident, Secretary Swanson remarks that the formulation of foreign policy is the concern of the Department of State and the President. Nerves already worn by the jibbering of saber diplomacy will welcome the reminder.

The admiral is quoted as alluding to "the outlines of a daring plan" which would not only "lay the ghost of Bolshevism forever" but also would open up "the fertile lands of Russia to a crowded and industrially hungry Europe." It is a tribute to the restraint of the Russian government that it has not asked our Secretary of State for the official explanation which we might properly expect if the situation were reversed.

Something more than an abundance of naval opinion is already proffered the Department of State. Taken in proper relation to other factors, this advice is valuable in developing our foreign policy. But when a naval officer urges invasion of a friendly country in the public press it is time to call a halt and recommend that the Constitution as well as strategy be studied at Annapolis.

School Board Changes.

It seems inadequate merely to offer a vote of thanks to men retiring from posts of public service. But both Dr. Johnson and Mr. Houston must know, in leaving the Board of Education, that the community has a deep, though generally unspoken, appreciation for all who devote their time and energy to this fundamentally vital aspect of municipal affairs.

Their successors both offer qualifications fitting them admirably to carry on the good work. Mr. Gaskins was graduated by a District high school and has long been familiar with the hopes and aims of public education in Washington. In Mr. Maurer the Board will find a man with practical experience in school administration within the District, since he formerly served for five years as principal of Central High School.

Theirs is now the assignment to carry forward the constructive activities of the Board. Always they should keep uppermost in mind the fact that the Board is the representative of the parents and people of Washington, whose major concern is to provide the best possible system of education for its 89,000 school children. One of the surest ways toward attaining this end is to bend every effort to maintain the straightforward and frank-speaking attitude that has marked Board meetings in recent months—save those dealing with appointments, which properly are discussed only at closed sessions.

Labor And The Railroads.

The Railway Labor Executives Association, representing the great railroad unions, has passed a resolution calling upon the Federal Government to take over the management and operation of that industry. They assert that the roads have fallen under banker domination, are loaded down with a "heavy and unjustified" burden of debt and can no longer obtain funds through private channels for "the immediate rehabilitation . . . essential to safe and efficient operation." The labor leaders conclude that the only way to bring about the "necessary co-ordination of railways and other types of transportation . . . in a manner to safeguard public interests" lies in complete governmental control.

Before reaching the conclusion that Government ownership and operation provide the solé feasible solution of the railway problem, the roads should at least be given a fair chance to show what can be accomplished under a proper sort of regulation. At present they are subjected to a system of control which has seriously handicapped them in competition with rival transportation agencies. Time and time again the need for comprehensive and equitable regulation of all forms of transportation has been emphasized. Only two weeks ago President Roosevelt declared in a message to Congress that "it is high time to deal with the Nation's transportation as a single unified problem." Yet final action continues to be delayed.

The railroads are undoubtedly partly to blame for their present difficulties. Some of them have been the victims of financial mismanagement, and many of them are burdened with excessively heavy fixed charges. Their plight has been made worse by the general business depression which has drastically cut operating revenues. Although efforts at self-help have resulted in substantial reductions in operating expenses, the roads have been hampered by the opposition of minority creditors in trying to effect reorganization under the existing bankruptcy act. A bill to facilitate such reorganization has not yet been acted upon, although Co-ordinator Eastman recommended its passage at the beginning of the session.

The roads have also been penalized by the emergency transportation act, recently extended for another year, preventing them from effecting economies in wage outlays. Various operating economies suggested by Co-ordinator Eastman, such as elimination of duplicate facilities, could be much more easily secured if the roads had any assurance that their efforts would be aided by reforms in the present regulatory laws.

"The history of transportation developments," says the Brookings Institution study on The American Transportation Problem, "seems to have almost an evolutionary trend towards public ownership." But whether the railways of the country are publicly or privately owned, they will have to be protected against unfair competition if they are to make both ends meet. With properly co-ordinated regulation, much greater savings in operating expenses could undoubtedly be obtained under private than under public management, because there would be less political opposition to overcome.

The pressure exerted by organized labor to force the maintenance of uneconomically high wages and to prevent the dismissal of superfluous workers would probably be almost irresistible if the roads were owned by the Government and deficits were met by taxpayers. The heads of the railway brotherhoods are well aware of that fact, and therefore can scarcely be regarded as impartial judges of the relative merits of public versus private ownership of the country's transportation systems.

Confusionists.

Residents of Montgomery County are wondering whether it is a Fusion or a confusion government which they elected to office last November. The raids of jobseekers and increased taxes levied by the new administration clearly indicate its caliber. Promises of reform, which the Fusionists made so profusely during the campaign, seem completely out of the picture. The more important question is: How far will the ineptitude of the Fusionists be carried before the people have another chance to go to the polls.

Some of the officials who are now being dismissed have held their positions for a long time. They have not been regarded as politicians, but as technicians especially qualified by reason of their experience to serve the county. But this means nothing to the Fusionists. They have become jittery over the vacillations of Commissioner King, and apparently intend to make a clean sweep of county employes who are not protected by Civil Service regulations.

The indefensible disruption of the Montgomery police force was stopped by act of the Maryland Legislature. A similar effort was made to protect employes in the health department, but this measure was vetoed by Gov. Nice shortly after he had promised the State a non-partisan administration. So the wholesale "purge" goes forward. Scarcely any experienced officials capable of upholding a consistent administrative policy are left.

In part this turnover is responsible for the increase in the county tax rate from 90 cents to $1.50 per $100 of property valuation. The new employes, in spite of their inexperience in governmental affairs, are in many cases drawing larger salaries than their predecessors. Inefficient administration seems to account for the remainder of the advance.

This is a high price to pay for reversion to the spoils system and administrative bungling. The Fusionists ought to realize that they were elected to serve the people of Montgomery County and not to build up a political machine. If they were a little more astute they would know that the route they have followed thus far will lead to their political ruin as well as distress for the community which voted them into office.

Placing Relief Workers.

One of the first steps which the Works Progress Administration must take toward the employment of 3,500,000 persons now on relief rolls is the segregation of competent workers from unemployables. That is a technical problem requiring the skill and experience of specialists. The manner in which it is handled will immediately give indication as to what may be expected as a whole from this mammoth experiment in made work.

Under the relief set-up there has been far too little connection between the granting of doles and the placement of men in jobs available. The work test has been inadequately applied, if at all, to relief recipients. Mr. Hopkins now has a great opportunity to systematize the distribution of jobs to the competent unemployed and at the same time to develop employment exchange machinery that will be invaluable to the country in meeting future labor problems.

Use of the United States Employment Service to transfer able workers from the relief rolls to WPA jobs should be anticipated as a matter of course. Only in this way can men be hired on a basis of training and ability. If the Government should merely provide 3,500,000 man-years of employment, without reference to the special aptitude of the individual, the lasting value of its venture would be insignificant. On the other hand, if a real effort is made to place men intelligently through a regular employment system, at least the foundation of a sound employment policy will be established.

Moreover, the President has repeatedly emphasized the necessity of keeping politics out of this undertaking. That can best be accomplished by choosing WPA workers through the employment exchanges, which are certainly more divorced from politics than State relief organizations. If the ban upon politics in the works program is to be taken seriously, utilization of some scientific machinery for the selection of men and women for these 3,500,000 jobs will be imperative.

At present the system of Federal-State employment exchanges is not fully equipped to handle the work-relief hiring problem in all parts of the country. It is one of the anomalies of the New Deal that officials have been willing to spend billions for the creation of jobs but only a pittance for the development of effective machinery to insure that those jobs will be intelligently filled. Since the President has been granted broad discretion in the expenditure of nearly $5,000,000,000 on behalf of the jobless, extension of the employment service would seem to be a very logical part of the program.

Of course, no employment system can actually create work. But the experience of other countries proves that efficient exchanges can greatly mitigate the scourge of unemployment and render a valuable service to industry as well as labor. In comparison with the British system, for example, our own employment exchanges are in their infancy. The experience and prestige they would gain through the placement of work-relief employes would be an important factor in preparing them to meet the great responsibility that will be theirs when the Government finds it no longer possible to appropriate several billion dollars per year to make work.

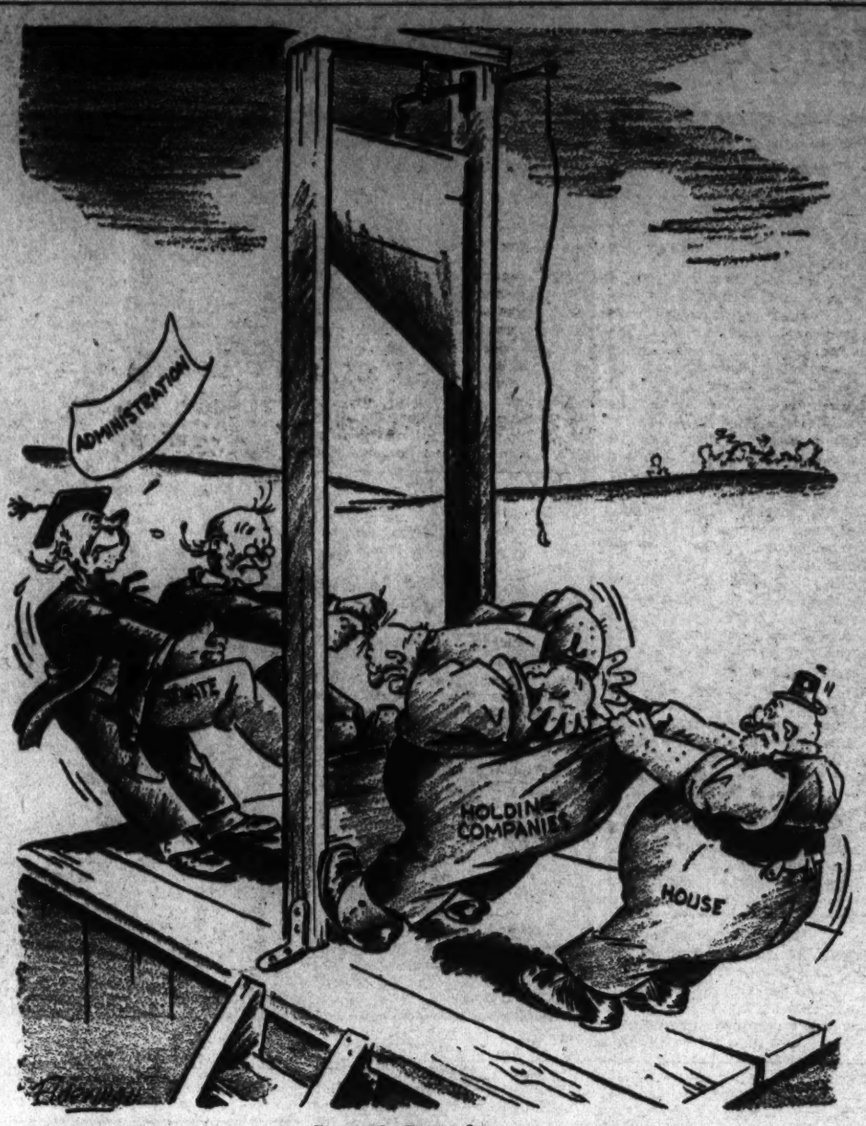
Shattering.

In nearly all family albums there are pictures of John and Mary standing, arms entwined, against a background of rushing waterfall. At one time, a marriage was hardly a marriage if it did not start with a trip to Niagara. And the center of the stage there, insofar as newlyweds are concerned, is a small promontory, just big enough for two, which is called Honeymoon Point. Presumably because of its name, this table rock has been chosen by innumerable sentimental couples as the ideal spot on which to have their picture taken.

Now, according to the Montreal Gazette, Honeymoon Point is to be blasted away by two carefully measured discharges of dynamite. Whether it be from some malevolent motive or just coincidence, the fact remains that the dates chosen for destroying the landmark are July 1 and July 4. The first is Canada's Dominion Day and the second is our Independence Day.

It is not enough, apparently, that oblivious engineers have seen fit to abolish a spot dear to generations of honeymooners. But it looks as if some canny planning commission, with a subtle sense of humor, had deliberately decided to kill three lovebirds with one stone, thus tracing the progress of marital status since Niagara first became popular. First the stone, with all it connotes to sentimental old married folks and the newly affianced, is to go. The second blast will roar out against Dominion Day and all that it stands for to the precariously dominant male. The third and final shattering, which leaves newlyweds not a stone to stand on, will come with Independence Day.

Can it be that this last successful effort is a subtle piece of feminist propaganda to show the world that in the end dominion is not enough to make a marriage, that independence also is required?



Capital Punishment.

Oldest Church.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In The Washington Post of May 8, I read a little article headed, "Oldest Protestant Church." The one short paragraph follows: "North America's oldest Protestant church is St. Paul's, built in Halifax, Nova Scotia, in 1750."

Instantly, upon completion of its perusal, I remembered St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, at Baden, Prince Georges County, Md. It is only five miles from Brandywine, where I reside, and was built in 1692. The bricks used in its construction were brought from England. The Rev. Mr. Thomas Claggett, who was the first bishop ordained in America, was minister at this church at the time of his ordination, in 1792, just 100 years after its founding.

There is a story to the effect that, during the War of 1812, soldiers, en route from Benedict, Charles County, Md., to Washington, took the font from the church, and used it for watering their horses; and it was thus broken. Evidently, this story is authentic; because, the same font is at the present time in the church; and, it shows a cracked portion, held together by a metal band.

There was an old prayer book, brought from England, and used in this church, which was later discarded, on account of the obsolete manner of the printing of many of its letters, and, because the prayer for the King of England was in it instead of the one for the President of the United States. This old prayer book is still in existence in the old Thomas home at Aquasco, Md.

The Rev. Ernest Smith, now at Christ Church, in Washington, was a minister at St. Paul's for a number of years. He started a trust fund for the church, which was not to be used until the principal, plus its accumulated interest, had reached $25,000. It is now more than half that amount.

My object in writing the history of this old church is that we—as citizens of Maryland—are rather proud to be able to boast of a church, in our community, which, having been built at a much earlier date than the one in Halifax, Nova Scotia, is—perhaps—"The oldest Protestant church in North America." Certainly, it is older than the aforementioned St. Paul's.

"They Get Tough."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with interest an article which appeared in a recent issue of The Post regarding the non-appreciation of local fight fans of the main bout at the stadium. These so-called fans probably never saw a real boxing match between two real boxers, most likely the best they ever did see was a couple of local punks in their own home-town hall—if the town possesses one.

I have been in Washington nine years and have often seen the same lack of appreciation in many other things and am sure it is not real Washingtonians who show such ignorance. I know many of them and they are usually good sports.

I refer to outsiders as the real offenders—those who have taken Civil Service and have come to Washington to work for the Government, by hicky! Here in Washington, far away from the watchful eyes of ma and pa, they get tough and critical, stay out till 10 o'clock and carry matches and if they don't get $10 worth of action for every one they spend, they make Rome howl and if they do get something real good they squawk anyhow.

Even the newspapers locally come in for a panning. They can't compare with the home-town weekly scream (special boiler-plate edition) because you leave out important items such as Jeb Webb's haystack burning down last night and you don't have telephoto pictures of the event. These are the wise birds that help make this city a hick town, although three years ago I was considerate and named it a glorified village.

Well, by crickey, that's off my chest, so call in the cows, Hi, get them milked and don't forget to lock the barn door. OBSERVER.

Amendment Vs. Revolution.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to commend the Supreme Court in its recent decision holding the NRA unconstitutional. This action was entirely in accord with the law and the facts. The nine black-robed gentlemen eminently fulfilled the duty for which their tribunal was created.

But whether or not the best interests of the American people will be served thereby is a different matter. The NRA, although a clumsy and inefficient device created to prop up the moribund capitalistic order for a short while longer, was, at least, a sincere effort on the part of its progenitors to meet the contingencies of a changing economic life.

The Constitution is no longer adequate to meet our needs; or rather, the Constitution is sorely in need of some drastic revision. Quick and facile means of transportation have astonishingly reduced the size and importance of the individual States. Power should be concentrated in the National Government, with the States serving as mere administrative units.

The Supreme Court has done its duty. The next step is to amend the Constitution to meet present conditions. Surely, we prefer that to revolution. PLEBEIAN.
Washington, June 7.

Either Usage Is Permissible.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the editorial in The Post of June 19 entitled "The Mitchell Charges" I noticed twice the phrase, "None deny." I should like to call to your attention the fact that "None" is a contraction of "No one" and consequently takes a singular verb.

In another part of the paper the error would be inconsequential, but on the editorial page the English used should be irreproachable.

On The Seating Of Rush Holt.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial, "A Test of Statesmanship," is well considered, and its conclusion is, I believe, correct that Rush D. Holt is not entitled to a seat in the Senate. You make, however, one superfluous blunder when you state that he ". . . was elected to the Senate while he was ineligible to be seated because of his extreme youth." The term "youth" is a relative matter; it is not used as to qualifications in the Constitution; and to say "because of extreme youth" when Mr. Holt lacked only some six months of being 30 years old at the opening of the present session of Congress is not apparently consistent with the conclusion of the editorial.

The Constitution, Article 1, Section 3, Paragraph 3, states "no person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the age of 30 years . . ." The most reasonable interpretation of this, strongly backed with tradition, is that a Senator-elect must be 30 years old at the date of the opening of the session for which he was elected, or in case of a special election or appointment the prospective Senator should be 30 years old at the time he is scheduled by the special election or appointment to take his seat, notably when either of these methods becomes effective during a Congress in session.

The case of Albert Gallatin shows how literally the constitutional qualifications were taken. Gallatin not only took part in the Revolution and the constitutional convention; was a member of the Pennsylvania State Legislature during 1790, 1791 and 1792; but after being chosen a Senator of the United States, February 28, 1793, he was sworn in and held this office until February 28, 1794. On the latter date, by a 14-to-12 vote, he was declared not entitled to his seat because he had not been nine years a citizen of the United States. Gallatin, quite justifiably, contended that, due to his part in the Revolution and formation of the Constitution, the dictates of nature and reason, in this matter, when positive laws were passed, were retrospective to those who, like himself, would be in such a predicament.

The facts of the Gallatin case are unique but they present the strongest moral, if not legal, justification of eligibility to a seat in the Senate when other than a literal interpretation of qualifications (in this case, the number of years as a citizen of the United States a non-literal interpretation of which could have been tantamount to eligibility) is allowable. But Gallatin's holding a seat was declared void. Other cases, similar to that of Mr. Holt, present specifically no issue if the literal meaning of the Constitution is in this instance adhered to.

Though I am against a higher age qualification for holding office generally than that entitling one to vote, I favor upholding the specific constitutional qualification of Senators and Representatives until a constitutional amendment changes the age and other qualifications. Age is not only popularly but legally calculated on the basis that a man is 30 when he has reached his thirtieth birthday; that is, he is 29 plus, and not 30 minus, until he is 30. This is so firmly established that there is little reason of interpreting the age qualification in this instance as "constructively 30" rather than "actually 30."

A member of Congress is not only a servant of a particular State but is a Legislator of the United States. It is because of this latter capacity, among others, that a State should be, and in my opinion is, restrained to elect only those persons who have, or will have at the opening of the session for which they are elected, the specific qualifications enumerated in the Constitution.

The Post Impressionist

"Royal Sport"

Post Office, Saturday.

WE HAND this to Ichabod Traditicide: he's energetic. The tradition-killer's greed for slaughter is insatiable.

A few months ago, he was trying to slay the virile American belief that baseball is as American in origin as it is in development. Now he goes for golf.

He says golf didn't start in Scotland.

He says, in support of this:

(1) Learned researches into the subject lead to the conviction that the very name of golf is of Germanic origin. The word is derived "from the Teutonic klobe—a club"—and he cites the Low Dutch game kolf.

(2) There is extant the original text of a 1424 Act of the Scotch Parliament regulating sports—and, though it mentions football, it doesn't mention golf.

As if such estrays of etymological and juridical gossip were convincing!

Into the names for how many thoroughly Celtic-Scotch—not to say Pict—institutions hasn't a touch of the Teutonic crept in the course of a centuries-long creep? Is that same baseball of America's to be considered Hellenic merely because basis is ancient Greek for a base—bainein, the old Greek verb "to go," to "step out"—and ballein the Athenian verb "to throw?"

The 1424 Sports Act of the Scotch Parliament didn't pretend to regulate every game played within the confines of Scotland. It was an act to prohibit games that dangerously "interfered with archery or other military sports." And what Scotchman untainted by alien influences would ever admit that golf could "dangerously interfere" with anything?

The munitions makers of 1424 ought to have congratulated themselves upon the startling fact that the Scotch Parliament didn't pass an act prohibiting all military sports which dangerously interfered with golf.

To be sure, there was an anti-golf movement in Scotland—if you can call it a movement—a little later on. But it must have originated with foreign influences at Court: jealous French elegants who preferred a billiard table to a tee, rude Flemings who would rather use a racquet than a brassie.

The thing happened in 1457. A law was then railroaded through Parliament ("galloped through" would probably be a phrase more befitting the date) prohibiting both golf and football.

But it seems to have been about as effective and as well liked as a certain American Noble Experiment of some 480-odd years later. And it proves that golf was Scotch and popular in 1457, anyhow.

In 1491, before Columbus crossed the ocean blue, King James IV decreed:

"Futeball and Golfe forbidden. Item, it is statut and ordainit that in na place of the realme there be usit fute-ball, golfe, or uther sik unprofitabill sportis."

Yet, as the King of the Romans was above grammar, so was the King of Scotland above his own laws. The accounts of his household for 1503-6 show that he expended real money to outfit himself for the royal game!

Jamie was not a good example to his people. Useless for the Edinburgh council to proclaim, in 1529, that "Threw this burgh . . . na inhabitants of the samyn be seen at ony pastymes within or without that toun, upon the Sabboth day, sic as golfe." Within 12 short months, that regulation had to be amended by the addition of the words "in tyme of sermons."

Why, when James VI of Scotland became James I of England, in 1603, he appears to have carried golf with him in his carpetbag from Edinburgh to London! Maj. Tucker assures us how "local tradition"—always a reliable source—maintains that this head of the House of Stuart "disported himself at Blackheath when he held Court at Greenwich, subsequently sanctioning the formation of a Society of Golfers in 1608."

Teutonic?

THE WHIPPING POST.

Says Sister Hooper, on this classic editorial-page:

"I liked to watch the choir . . . speak to each other."

Well, every woman to her humor, Ben Jonson! As a mere man, the thing that the Post-Impressionist best likes to do is to watch the Army chase himself.

Crossed Wires.

From the New York Post.

New York American (Hearst): "Mr. Roosevelt was a better Democrat in 1930 than he is today with his kitchen cabinet so largely made up of Socialists and thinly-guised Communist sympathizers."

New York Daily Worker (Communist): "The purpose of Roosevelt's whole legislative program is to reduce the cost of the relief program for the capitalist class, to protect monopoly profits."

Good Politics?

THE NEWSPAPER boys are somewhat inaccurate in saying the President's share-the-wealth tax message has thrown Congress into confusion. It probably has added to the uncertainty among business and financial leaders in which event the under-dog has again been helped by being kept out of a job, or rather that is apparently the New Deal's conception of helping him.

But in Congress there is no real confusion. It is mostly amusement. Some members are inclined to take the matter seriously, but it is difficult even for them to keep a straight face as they get into a discussion of it. And in some quarters the laughter about it is immense. Generally speaking, it is considered a political gesture and on the Hill where they appreciate political gestures the tendency is to give Mr. Roosevelt a good rating on this one.

When the nuisance tax bill comes up in the Senate the progressives and Huey intend to try to tack the President's proposals onto it. Insofar as the progressives are concerned they are expected to make only a gesture themselves. For the most part they are playing ball. The first allocation from the $4,000,000,000 program was one of $100,000,000 to Senator LaFollette's State.

Huey, however, says the whole thing is a sham. Well, after the spectacle on the nuisance tax bill aren't Huey's followers likely to agree with him? It is Huey's followers the program is generally admitted to be intended to alienate. If the fight to put the proposals on the tax bill becomes too strong, the Democratic leaders are prepared to state that Mr. Roosevelt doesn't want the nuisance tax bill jeopardized. Huey will have the time of his life after this. It is rather difficult to see just where Mr. Roosevelt will gain.

This phase, however, is not the main source of amusement in political circles. What is causing side-splitting laughs is the plight of the fellows who got out on the limb with Mr. Roosevelt in the matter of changing the Constitution to bring about centralized authority. Joe Robinson and Jimmie Byrns spoke out for it, apparently before they thought twice, to say nothing of the President's two sons, Jimmie and Elliot. There is a movement on now to depose Elliot as president of the Texas Young Democrats because he thought his father was serious on this matter and sought to get the Young Texans to go along.

Mr. Roosevelt has turned so completely around that one imagines Joe and Jimmie and the two boys, along with a host of others, are standing at the top of the hill utterly bewildered, looking futilely on the far side of the hill for Mr. Roosevelt when, lo and behold, he has turned and gone back in the direction whence he came.

The decentralization of wealth and industry which is the avowed purpose of the new tax scheme is in the opposite direction of the centralization of authority, of course. Only one point of his program can properly be looked upon as designed to produce additional revenue and even here the primary purpose is to keep alive the class hatred on which this administration has thrived. The proposal to carry out the graduated income tax scale on incomes of more than $1,000,000 really applies to only 26 persons in the country on the face of last income tax returns. Forty-six were listed as having more than $1,000,000 incomes, but they were so close to the figure that the new levy would not worry them. And the most vicious new taxes on the 26 will not raise more than $25,000,000 a year, just one-fourth of the $100,000,000 which Prof. Tugwell is shortly to be given to play around with. But it will be a lot of satisfaction to the mob to get at these 26.

Secretary Morgenthau has estimated that from $200,000,000 to $600,000,000 a year would be raised from inheritance taxes, incidentally a scale more severe than England's. The wide range of Mr. Morgenthau's estimates indicates he has only a hazy idea, if any.

However, this inheritance proposal is admitted to have a "social" purpose rather than revenue raising, this along with the proposal to apply graduated income levies to corporations.

Certainly when we get this decentralization it won't be contended we need the centralization of authority. Maybe, however, it is as one wag explained it: Mr. Roosevelt wants the decentralization of wealth and power so he can get the centralization of authority.

Italy, Ethiopia and Geneva

Mussolini Faced With Alternatives Of Quitting League And Pursuing African Program Despite British Opposition Or Remaining In Geneva And Abiding By Arbitration.

By Stephane Botchev.
Special Correspondence of The Post.

Geneva.

WILL Italy remain a member of the League of Nations? This question is coming to the fore as the Italo-Ethiopian conflict enters a phase in which the league must make a definite choice: either intervene, or shut its eyes. If the league intervenes and tries to prevent Italian action in Africa, Signor Mussolini in turn will also have to choose: either leave Geneva and continue with his plans, or stay and submit. The latter possibility is inconceivable. League intervention against Italy in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict means Italian departure from Geneva. But the league will only intervene if Great Britain decides to champion the Abyssinian cause. So in the last analysis, it is London's attitude which will decide whether Italy continues to be a member of the league or not.

It has frequently been said that Italy is hostile to the League of Nations. As a matter of fact, the Fascist Grand Council has made declarations which were not very friendly to the league. Certainly the Fascist spirit of sacro egoismo is only with difficulty reconcilable with the spirit of Geneva. But it is not true to say that Italy is in general against the league. She is against the league when the league is against her, when and as far as the league prevents the realization of Italian political designs. As soon as she can make use of the league, Italy draws closer to it. Besides, the Geneva of the League of Nations is a vast field of technical as well as of political action, and it is not to the interest of any state to draw away from it. Only considerations of major import, then, could impel Italy to leave the Geneva institution.

* * * *

BUT it is beginning to be feared in Geneva that such major considerations will appear if the council actively intervenes in the Abyssinian affair. It is not inexact to say that this intervention is really feared in the Secretariat. Contrary to the attitude in the case of Japan in Manchuria, no league official is pushing for intervention now. Whether people are already instructed, by the Sino-Japanese affair and by that of the Chaco, as to the ineffectiveness of league intervention, or whether they are giving proof of a deep understanding of the necessities of Italian colonial expansion, in any case they would like to see the affair stay far away from Geneva, perhaps in Africa.

We are able to see this in the attitude of the Council members, where Mr. Eden was the only one to uphold Ethiopia; we can also see it in league circles at present. But even though the general atmosphere is unfavorable to intervention, that will not prevent the submission of the affairs to the Council if Great Britain desires it.

In such a case Italy will be faced with the necessity of deciding whether to leave or to remain. It has become almost morally impossible for Italy to accept discussion at the Council table on a footing of equality with Ethiopia. At the last session of the Council, Baron Aloisi constantly avoided pronouncing the name of Ethiopia, replying to the remarks of its delegate, or appearing to treat Ethiopia in any way as an equal. Instead, he practically ignored the presence of the Ethiopian delegate. This was no accident; it fits in perfectly with the opinion expressed by the Italian press, that Abyssinia is not a real State.

IT is, then, morally difficult for Italy to sit in the Council at the same time as Ethiopia. But if this is not sufficient reason for her to leave Geneva, we can forsee one situation in which Italy's departure from the league would seem absolutely certain—that is if the Council sets itself, in conformity with Article 15, to elaborate a report and pass a resolution without the votes of the interested parties.

One might still expect Italy to remain if the council had only to meet from time to time during the conflict to listen to Ethiopian complaints and then adjourn, actually giving a free hand to Italy. But it is difficult to conceive of Italy's remaining in Geneva if she risks seeing herself condemned, or if she is quite sure of seeing herself condemned, as Japan was condemned. And whether the council will engage in such action again depends solely on the attitude of Great Britain.

The powers which have large interests in Abyssinia, and which have direct means of action there, are, aside from Italy, France and Britain. It appears that in January M. Laval promised French tolerance of Italian action, without defining its limits. Otherwise the Franco-Italian entente would be totally incomprehensible from the Italian point of view, for it would be purely a liability. Thus, Italy is sure of French support. But she is not sure of support without reservation.

The position of the Quai d'Orsay in Paris in the conflict is extremely delicate, for there is still Whitehall, which is very much disturbed over the Italian action, and France is afraid of doing anything which might seriously separate French and British policy. Besides, though France seems to have abandoned her own designs on Abyssinia, she is certainly handicapped in her support of Italy in the affair by her policy of agreement with London. In the end, then, we see that it is the British attitude which will be decisive.

* * * *

IT is needless to discuss the basis of the British opposition to Italian action in Abyssinia. One can not help noting, however, that it was Great Britain, who, a few years after the war, suggested a plan of dividing Ethiopia up into spheres of influence. However that may be, it is a fact that today London is opposing Italy, who wants to take out a piece of it. The reasons are obvious; the installation of Italy in Ethiopia would complete the encirclement of British Somaliland, might menace the Cape-to-Cairo link, and might become a danger suspended over Egypt because of that country's dependence for its fertility on the waters of the Abyssinian plateau.

Will these reasons be enough to cause the British to step in and prevent Italian action, or will Great Britain content herself with a show of displeasure? For the time being public opinion is excited against Italy, but does not seem decided to act against her. And it is on this that Mussolini is counting when he indicates that he is ready to play the game at any cost.

If Great Britain decides on active opposition, one can expect her to choose the Geneva method for it, and it is then that the problem of Italy's departure will arise.

For the time being, the problem is merely in the air, for the arbitral discussions are still continuing. The mixed Italo-Abyssinian commission, which met on the 6th and 7th of this month at Milan, will again meet in Holland on June 25, in an attempt to apply in some way the arbitral procedure of the 1928 treaty.

Munich's Opera

By

Wm. Lyon Phelps.

FOR this present week in May in the State Theater (formerly the Court Theater) we have the following program:

Sunday, "Die Meistersinger."
Monday, "Undine."
Tuesday, "Arabella" (by Richard Strauss).
Wednesday, "Das Rheingold."
Thursday, "Martha."
Friday, "Il Trovatore."
Saturday, "A Night in Venice."
Sunday, "Die Walkuere."

This is a sample week in the daily life of the city of Munich, and it helps to explain why people who love music enjoy staying in this city. They present the Wagner operas without cuts; "Meistersinger" begins at 6 o'clock and ends at 11.

* * * *

If one wishes to understand the very spirit and soul of the German people—that old Germany before the war—there are two operas that interpret it better than any number of historical books or explanatory works or lectures or guidebooks. They are, first of all, "Die Meistersinger," and, secondly, Weber's "Der Freischuetz." Thus, no matter what great soloists may appear in the New York and London performances of "Die Meistersinger," there is an atmosphere about a German presentation of this masterpiece that simply can not be found or felt outside the country where it was born.

It is probable that Richard Strauss himself will conduct the performance of "Arabella" on Tuesday. The text was written by the late Hugo von Hofmannstal, the poet who wrote the words for "Rosenkavalier," for "Elektra" and for other operas composed by Strauss. "Rheingold" and "Walkuere" will be followed in the next two weeks by "Siegfried" and "Gotterdaemmerung," so that the citizens of Munich will have an opportunity to hear the whole ring at low prices, before the festival performances that are given here in summer for the benefit of foreign visitors, and of course at prices more advanced.

* * * *

Old-time favorite melodious operas such as "Martha" and "Il Trovatore" help to fill out this week's program, so that there are specimens of grand opera to suit all tastes.

Meanwhile at a smaller theater in Munich they will be giving this week "The Merry Widow," "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief," "Die Fledermaus," etc.

Elected by Legislature in 1913 Soon After He Became Governor.

By the United Press.

Little Rock, Ark.—Arkansas Republicans like to annoy Senator Joseph T. Robinson, majority leader in the United State Senate, as their Senator.

Robinson has been quite irked at times by references of James A. Comer, grand dragon of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, and other Republicans to the part the Grand Old Party had in his first election.

A search through musty files in the basement of the State Capitol revealed the story back of the Republicans' claims to seating Senator Robinson for the first time on March 4, 1913.

In those days the United States Senators were elected by the State General Assembly. Senator Jeff Davis, fiery campaigner and old-time political spellbinder, died suddenly at Washington. The Legislature of 1913 had to name someone to fill out Davis' unexpired term and elect his successor. William Kavanaugh was the choice to serve the unexpired term.

Battle Was Bitter.

Gov. Joseph T. Robinson, who took office with the opening of the General Assembly, made his bid for the Senatorship. The battle in both houses was bitter.

Six candidates were nominated in each house, and Robinson barely missed a majority in both of them on the first ballot. The nominees and the votes received on the first ballot in the Senate were:

Robinson 16, W. F. Kirby 6, Hal L. Norwood 2, Stephen Brundidge 9, Comer 1, Chief Justice McCulloch 1.

The house nominees and the votes received on the first ballot were:

Robinson 47, Brundidge 26, Norwood 16, Oldfield 1, Kirby 3, and Andrew J. Russell (Republican) 4.

Joint Session Called.

No one having received a majority a joint session was called for the deciding ballot. New alignments were made and votes were changed even after they had been given, in the fight to obtain the necessary 67 maority.

Comer's name was withdrawn and the four house Republicans who voted for Russell in the first ballot turned their votes to Robinson. Those representatives were J. C. Evans of Searcy County, George W. R. Keck of Madison County, W. W. Moore of Newton County, and W. H. Smith of Crawford County.

On the final tabulation the vote was: Robinson 72, Brundidge 36, Norwood 14, Kirby 8, C. C. Reid 1, Oldfield 1, and W. H. Taylor 1.

That's the story of how 15 days after he had become Governor of Arkansas Joe T. Robinson began his long career in the United States Senate.

Lutherans Close Weston Sessions

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Weston, W. Va., June 21.—The Rev. A. B. Leamer, of Huntington, will continue another year as president of the West Virginia synod of the United Lutheran Church, which closed its annual conference yesterday at Jackson's Mill. Ernest F. Joachim, of Charleston, was elected president of the Lutheran Brotherhood of West Virginia and Maryland, which held its annual meeting in conjunction with the conference.

Other officers of the synod are the Rev. C. A. Portz, Wheeling, secretary, and E. F. Becker, Huntington, Treasurer. F. L. Frush, of Clarksburg, was chosen vice president of the brotherhood; Truman L. Bartlett, Wheeling, secretary, and E. S. Smith, Oakland, Md. treasurer.

David E. Kinsler, of Grafton, was ordained to the ministry.

Lumber Is Ordered For Five CCC Camps

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Oakland, Md., June 21.—Officers of the United States Army, with construction quartermasters, have arrived at Oakland to make camp site arrangements for five additional Civilian Conservation Corps camps in Garrett County.

Lumber purchased on proposals by the chief quartermaster, Third Corps Area, Baltimore, has been ordered for delivery at the nearest railroad siding.

The five sites are near Snag Run, mouth of Blue Lick Creek, Backbone Mountain, near Swanton; Sandy Spring on Meadow Mountain, and Potomac Forest.

With the completion of the camps, Garrett County will have a total of ten.

Romney Fire Company To Hold Home-Coming

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Romney, W. Va., June 21.—The Romney Fire Co. will hold a home-coming celebration the week of July 15, marking the completion of the reconstruction of the main thoroughfare of the town.

The central committee is composed of Carl B. Sanders, chairman; R. E. Stewart, secretary-treasurer; C. J. Powell, parade; John L. Lehman, publicity; Roy Smith, concessions; J. Howard Rannells, program; Grady M. Sanders, parking; J. Fred Breinig, reception; David Shear, prizes; Paul C. Harmison, decoration; Ralph H. Bailey, tournament, and Dailey M. Martin, amusements.

Church Group to Meet.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Warrenton, Va., June 21.—A district meeting of the junior auxiliaries of the Episcopal churches will be held at Falls Church Wednesday. The juniors of St. James' Church, Warrenton, will have charge of the program and will present a Japanese play. Miss Frances Quarrier Brown is president of the Warrenton Juniors.

Monongahela Body For Better Roads

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., June 21.—Improvement of highways will be one of the objectives of the Upper Monongahela Valley Association whose members greet with enthusiasm the announcement by Ernest L. Bailey, State road commissioner, that plans are in the making for improvement of the Ice's Ferry-Bruceton Mills highway this year.

This highway is often referred to as the George Washington trail, as it follows the route the first president traveled in 1784 from the Pennsylvania State line near Markleysburg, through Bruceton Mills to Morgantown.

The association will meet here Monday afternoon to elect officers and adopt by-laws. The State Planning Commission will hold a meeting here at the same time, and later in the day the two bodies will hold a joint meeting, at which Commissioner Bailey is expected to outline the year's road program in the 10 counties which form the valley association.

Mills Funeral, Set for Today, To Be Military

Navy Veteran, Long Ill at Mt. Alto, Will Have Arlington Rites.

Funeral services for Walter W. Mills, jr., of 1405 North Carolina avenue northeast, will be held in Arlington National Cemetery today at 11 a. m.

Mr. Mills died Wednesday in Mount Alto Hospital after a lingering illness. He enlisted as a seaman in the Navy in June, 1917, at the age of 16, and served until May, 1919, when he was honorably discharged for disability incurred in the line of duty.

Born in Carthage, N. C., December 24, 1900, Mills was graduated from Georgia School of Technology and studied medicine at Emory University, in Atlanta.

In 1923 he left the Georgetown University school of foreign service and was sent to Seville, Spain, for further study. Since then he has made his home in Washington.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Melva R. Mills; his father, of Barnesville, Ga., and a half-brother, the Rev. H. C. Caviness, of Tampa, Fla., and two sons by a former marriage, Walter M. Mills 3d, and Ralph Waldo Mills, both of Washington.

Williamson Sentenced To Term of 3 to 7 Years

Granted a new trial following his conviction a month ago on a charge of slaying Owen Sennett, Gordon B. Williamson, in the District Supreme Court yesterday immediately pleaded guilty to manslaughter and was sentenced to an indeterminate term of from three to seven years.

Williamson, whose attorney, John J. Sirica, contended he was not guilty of second degree slaying because of the fact he and the deceased had had a fight just prior to the shooting, shot through the door of the rooming house from which he had been evicted by Sennett. One bullet struck the latter in the heart and killed him instantly. The two had been bosom friends for years, it was shown.

Montana's Fee For Marriage $25 After July 1

Drastic 'Gin' Wedding Law Also Requires Physical Examination.

By the United Press.

Helena, Mont.—Montana is about to embark on an experiment that has been tried and declared a failure in two adjoining States.

July 1 and thereafter lovelorn Montanans will find it as hard to get married in the State as others have found it in the past to prove that "two can live as cheaply as one."

Because on that date the "gin marriage" law passed by the recent Legislature goes into effect. Officials, now preparing to enforce its drastic regulations, are predicting a mighty decrease in Dan Cupid's Montana business as a result of such enforcement.

Right now those couples who have decided to take the all-important step can walk into a county clerk's office, answer a few questions regarding names, ages, ancestry and previous marriage experiences, secure a license and in a few moments be declared man and wife.

But after July 1 those happy couples are going to have to surmount a lot of difficulties before those magic words are uttered.

For instance, three days' written notice must be given before the license can be obtained.

Not only that, but all applications for a license must be accompanied by a medical certificate certifying that a searching examination has been made of the applicant and that each has passed with a grade A.

Then, last but not least, the applicant has to take into consideration the highly increased cost. Instead of merely paying a couple of dollars for the license fee and slipping some one a few dollars to perform the ceremony, there has to be added the cost of the medical examination, estimated as high as $25.

The idea of the Legislature was that such stringent rules would prevent many of the now prevalent "gin marriages" that cause such confusion in divorce courts. There are those, however, who believe the law will cause a majority of couples to leave the State to be married, just as they did in Idaho and Wyoming. Those two States repealed their "gin marriage" laws during the recent legislative session.

Wife's Charge Jails 'Koontz Barracks' Man

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 21—Martin L. Tomlinson, of "Koontz Barracks," in Garrett County, above Lonaconing, was jailed yesterday on complaint from his wife that he threatened her and forced her to leave home. M. T. Bohler, State officer, accompanied the county officers. Thirteen pistols, rifles and other weapons were found in the house.

Tomlinson will be given a hearing in Oakland. He was taken into custody some years ago on a similar charge and a number of weapons confiscated. He was later treated for mental disorder.

Men, being men, can not tell you very much about women. For instance, to the young-man-in-love the opposite sex is all sweetness and light; the bachelor, who has dodged the ladies for years, believes them to be scheming minxes, and the married man is probably afraid to tell you what he really thinks.

Therefore, to get a true opinion of women, you must go to a woman for your information . . . and so we've gone to Miss Malvina Lindsay, editor of The Washington Post's woman's pages, to find out about those lovely and sometimes sweet creatures who do so much to make our lives happy and miserable. And Miss Lindsay certainly tells us, and all other readers of The Post, about "The Gentle Sex." You'll find her impressions of her sisters . . . and brothers, too . . . in The Post each Sunday morning to entertain . . . and educate you. Each week she writes this amusing, intelligent column which so satirically punctures so many of our illusions, and which gives us an insight into the devious ways of women.

For example, she outlines the character of Tactful Tillie, who never comes right out and tells her friends they are getting fat. Oh, no! Tactful Tillie merely sniffs, "Are'nt you getting a bit stout, dearie?" Tactful Tillie, Miss Lindsay also reveals, prides herself on being able to find out disagreeable things by a method which is practically painless . . . to her.

Or Miss Lindsay describes the conversation at the Sunday dinner table; and her description is as true to life as the family laundry line. You can recognize Uncle Henry, who wants to talk politics, and Aunt Susan, who simply must tell Cousin Mary about those perfectly darling little needlepoint footstools she saw downtown for only $2.98, or, if you read carefully, you might recognize yourself!

We are sure that Miss Lindsay's sardonic humor will please you as much as it pleases us . . . we think it's one of the best features in The Sunday Post. Gently, oh, so very gently, the barb of her wit penetrates . . . but you're laughing so much you don't mind the sting.

"The Gentle Sex," which has become one of the best-liked columns in The Sunday Post, may be found each Sunday morning on the woman's pages of

Girl Is Born To Popular D. C. Couple

By Evelyn Peyton Gordon.

Two of the most popular members of the President's official family, the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Harry H. Woodring, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, yesterday. Mrs. Woodring, who was formerly Miss Helen Coolidge, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Marcus Coolidge, of Massachusetts, has been one of the popular members of Capital society since coming here several yeras ago when her father first took his seat in the Senate. Always interested in people, and their activities, Mrs. Woodring has also found time to devote to her art, and has done portraits of several distinguished people. She is a young, charming, ash blonde. One of her most interesting pieces of work is a self-portrait done in pastels; a large head against a green background, and one hand holding a gardenia at her throat. Over one shoulder is what appears to be a leopard skin, but on close observation it is the head of the animal itself. This, Mrs. Woodring laughingly explains, is her black disposition lurking not too far away.

At present, Mr. Woodring is in Fort Leavenworth, Kans., where he went early yesterday to address the graduating class at the Command and General Staff School, and it was there that the news of his daughter's birth was received.

Last year Mr. and Mrs. Woodring resided at His Lordship's Kindness, historical home of Mrs. Chandler Hale, near Marlboro, Md. Several weeks ago the Woodrings moved to Washington, when Mrs. Hale decided to occupy her house this summer, and were with Senator and Mrs. Coolidge in their apartment at the Shoreham for a visit. Early this month Mr. and Mrs. Woodring moved to Woodlawn, the home of Mrs. Oscar Underwood, widow of Senator Underwood, on the Richmond road, just below Mount Vernon. Woodlawn is another charming and historical estate, having been originally the home of Nellie Custis. Until the Woodrings leased the estate, it was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hopkins, the latter a niece of Mrs. Underwood, who has preferred to live in Washington since the death of the Senator.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodring have a small son, Marcus Coolidge Woodring, who is visiting his grandparents at present.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Watch Hill, R. I., June 21.—The summer society colony at Watch Hill is keenly interested in the wedding of Miss Carnealia Anderson Perin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson E. Perin, of Washington, and Mr. Edward Burling, jr., also of the Capital. The Watch Hill Chapel is to be opened for the event tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Spence Burton, of St. John's Boston, assisted by Rev. G. E. Tobin, of Christ Church, Westerly, will perform the Episcopalian service.

The bride attended Farmington School and made her debut in Washington. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David C. Eugenia Warfield Will Be Bride in Ceremony on Lawn of Her Home.

The marriage of Miss Eugenia Elizabeth Warfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seth W. Warfield, of Laytonsville, Md., to Mr. Harold Fenton Hargett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hargett, of Germantown, Md., will take place this morning at 10 o'clock on the lawn of the bride's home, with the Rev. George Kundhal, pastor of Neelsville Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Preceding the ceremony, which will take place under an arch and before an altar of roses and white hydrangeas, Miss Marian Walker will sing "At Dawning" and "I Love You Truly." The wedding march will be played by Miss Anna Hanshew, of Washington, cousin of the bride.

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, will wear a semi-sports frock of white crepe with white felt hat and white accessories, with bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. William Ferguson, of Rockville, sister of the bride, will wear a yellow crepe frock, a yellow hat and will carry yellow roses. Miss Estelle Darby, of Darnstown, maid of honor, will wear blue crepe and will carry pink roses.

The bridegroom's only attendant will be the best man, his brother, Mr. Wesley Hargett, of Germantown.

Following the ceremony a reception will be held for relatives and close friends from Washington, Baltimore, Frederick and nearby Maryland and Virginia.

The bride is a member of the Dorsey and Warfield families, first settlers of Maryland and Virginia.

She has been entertained with showers by Miss Anna Besley, of Washington; Miss Marian Walker, of Gaithersburg; Miss Margaret Hargett, of Germantown, and by the teachers of Silver Spring Elementary School, where she is a member of the faculty.

Her going-away costume will be of yellow, with a brown hat and accessories.

Ropers to Visit At Valley Forge

Secretary to Dedicate Replica of Washington Hut.

The Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Daniel C. Roper will motor to Valley Forge today, where the Secretary will dedicate a replica of one of the huts built by George Washington in 1777 and 1778 when the Continental soldiers wintered there. Original drawings of the houses were found recently and from them the reproduction has been made.

Accompanying Secretary and Mrs. Roper were the Special Assistant to the Secretary and Mrs. Chester H. McCall. The party will return to Washington Sunday afternoon.

Soap Produced To Give Teeth Color of Pearl

Preparation With Flavor of Candy Put Out for Children.

By Ruth Anne Davis.

DON QUIXOTE said, "A tooth is worth more than a diamond."

A certain manufacturing concern says little, but shows us the way to have teeth like pearls. After years of original laboratory work, they have finally produced a tooth soap which abolishes your dental troubles. Because so many people are bit leary of new tooth preparations this company comes out frankly and tells just what their product consists of, and even goes so far as to explain how it works, and why.

It is made up of 17 per cent of neutral soap, with a small proportion of calcium carbonate and magnesium carbonate made without glycerol, acids or alcohol. The soapy quality of this product allows it to get into the cracks and crev[illegible] of your teeth, to wash the en[illegible] outh killing a variety of be[illegible] cutting grease placques, and [illegible]asing the mouth thoroughly.

This concern has put up a package of tooth soap especially for children, which includes a small surprise gift. The tooth soap itself has an appealing candy-like flavor but no sweetening.

Parents who plague Junior to brush his teeth and end by scolding him for failing to do so, have here an easy means out of their trouble. Junior will like to brush his teeth. In fact he'll have to be dissuaded from brushing them too often.

This is an ideal tooth preparation for the little folk, as it is gentle in its action, contains no grit, and will not "sand blast" the teeth.

You may buy it at a downtown store. Or, if you prefer to give it a trial before buying, see your dentist and get him to fill out a coupon. If you present it to the company representative at the local store, you'll be given a 40-cent tube free.

New Types of Gloves.

You may have on the right dress, the right hat and the right shoes, but if your gloves are wrong your whole costume strikes a sour note. A local store is featuring numerous new types of gloves "just right" for the cocktail hour, for evening wear and for weddings.

What a wide choice you have! There are some sheer net gloves with finely pleated mousseline de soie cuffs. These are available in pastel colors and in navy, black and brown for only $1.95.

Other sheer nets with organdie ruffled cuffs come only in the light colors. One dollar 50 cents for these dainty bits of femininity!

In pink, blue, green, peach and orchid are some sheer silk lace gloves, 16-button length, also $1.50. Just think what a finishing touch these will add to your filmy evening gown!

Fragrant Sachets.

Keeping sweet and dainty by th[illegible] use of fragrant little sachets i[illegible] about the least expensive thing w[illegible] know of this season. A certain downtown store is tantalizing u[illegible] with sachets which cost only 8 cents apiece. Such sachets, too! Little bags, made of moire ribbon are just right for tucking away in your linen closet, bureau drawers and handkerchief cases or hanging in the closet. The bags have been filled with sachet, in a variety of fragrances. There's a musty Oriental rose of Kildare, sweet pea, jasmine and Lily of the Valley.

To see them all mixed up together on the counter makes you think of a rainbow broken into small pieces as they come in so many light, soft, pastel colors.

This BUSINESS of LIVING

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: I am a man 34 years old and have been an invalid on crutches for 17 years. My mother died when I was 14, and my eldest sister at that time took over her responsibilities. I have had to live with sisters, brothers and my father, who has married twice since my mother died.

For the last two years I have been living with my father, as my sisters and brothers are all married and have families, and are not able to care for me. My stepmother is very much opposed to my staying with my father, as she says my sisters should care for me. The truth is this: she only wants my father's money and a home for her family. She has two grown daughters whom my father supports and two sons and another daughter married. They all come in on Sundays and have a big feast and if my sister comes in the house to visit me she goes upstairs and cries.

My father turned over all his insurance to my step-mother. He bought a big farm and she had him make the deed to her instead of a joint deed, so none of his children will get anything.

* * * *

My health has been getting worse and I was advised to have my limbs straightened in order to put my body in better condition. I got into the hospital and had one leg operated on. I am in a body cast and will be for four weeks. Last Sunday my father came for me. The day before, my stepmother cried all day because I was coming back. Since I have come back, none of them have been in the room. My father comes in of mornings with my breakfast and noon lunch and I am all alone until my little nephew gets home from school in the evenings to care for me. My sister comes on Sundays and cleans my room and brings clean linens for my bed. She also said she would see that my father doesn't pay any of the hospital bill.

* * * *

I spent last summer with one of my married sisters and my father promised to send her $1 a week to help with my board as she is hardly able to pay expenses in this depression. During five months he sent her $2. I could stay with a sister who lives about 140 miles from here, providing my father would help but his word is not his bond as my stepmother wouldn't let him help.

* * * *

Would I be doing my father an injustice if I were to take him into court and see if he couldn't be made to pay so much a week toward my support? Do you know if this is possible in Maryland? Don't you think my father should help me in preference to my step-mother's family? He has given me very little in all my suffering and doesn't seem to care what my end is. My clothes are mostly all given to me by friends and my sisters.

* * * *

I lie here in this room and hear them raving about me. As I look at these four walls all day long I only pray I can live it out and ask for guidance so that I won't do anything I might be sorry for. But only God knows the physical and mental suffering I have endured these past 17 years. I am wondering what the future will be. INVALID.

Suggested Recourse.

DEAR INVALID: If you can produce evidence in the Circuit Court of your county in Maryland to prove you are the victim of neglect, you may find the way out of your present unhappy situation. Some enforceable agreement may be entered into which will convince your stepmother of the wisdom of permitting your father to make a reasonable allowance for your support, perhaps in some pleasanter environment than under his own roof.

* * * *

This information was given me by Miss Ruth A. Bolton, executive secretary of the Social Service League of Montgomery County, Rockville, Md. If you are a resident of Montgomery County and will bring your situation to Miss Bolton's attention, giving your name, address and the facts in the case, she will launch an investigation. One of the functions of the League, as told by Miss Bolton, "is to help any individual or family adjust a difficulty of whatever kind."

* * * *

If you are not a resident of Montgomery County, I would still suggest that you write frankly to Miss Bolton. She can advise you concerning what legal or social recourse may be available in your particular county.

* * * *

While one can not arrive at a substantiated conclusion in a case of this kind without having heard both sides of the story, it is impossible to read your letter without feeling instantaneous sympathy with your plight. If you have given an unbiased report of existing conditions, none can say you would be doing your father an injustice in taking this matter to court for clarification. A man who would permit a third wife to influence him into subjecting the invalid son of his first marriage to inhumane treatment merits investigation and discipline.

* * * *

Also, it seems to me only simple justice that a man should be made to discharge his responsibilities in the order of their assumption, so that he will take care not to assume additional responsibilities while neglecting those already at hand.

* * * *

Perhaps God, hearing the prayers you have made during those long hours you spend lying in bed, looking at the four walls of your room, will send some Good Samaritan to alleviate your stricken loneliness. Your letter may bring this to pass. M. H.

Shirring Gives Smart Effect To This Frock of Many Uses

Pattern No. 943.

PUT THIS FROCK on in the morning and wear it through the day. This one-piece dress has no "one occasion" look. It is simple enough, soft enough to be versatile. And that shirring is not only new and smart—it is extremely flattering and easy to wear. Long bishop sleeves are also included in the pattern.

A dotted swiss, a tissue gingham, eyelet batiste, taffeta or flat crepe are all suitable for this design. The pattern is accurately cut, perfectly sized in 14 to 20; 32 to 38. Size 16 (34) requires just 3¾ yards of 35-inch fabric.

Marie Moran Wins Contest For Preserves

Her Recipe for Weistaden Strawberries Takes First Prize.

By Dorothea Duncan.

FIRST PRIZE, $3, in The Post's contest this week for strawberry preserve recipes is awarded Miss Marie E. Moran, 2416 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, for her recipe for Weistaden strawberries. Second prize, $2, goes to Miss Janet Batty, 1921 H street northwest, for her recipe for sun-kissed strawberry preserves, and third prize, $1, to Mrs. Florine Gibson, 414 Farragut street northwest, for her recipe for strawberry preserves.

Other recipes for strawberry preserves submitted by Mrs. E. L. Royer, 608 E. Montgomery avenue, Rockville, Md., and by Mrs. J. N. Beall, 3320 Highland place, are awarded honorable mention.

Weistaden Strawberries.

Six pounds strawberries—washed, capped, set on to cook slowly in cold water, not enough to cover. Put in jelly bag to drip. Add to the juice 6 pounds granulated sugar and ½ pound jar honey. Boil to a thick sirup. Have ready the largest, freshest ripe strawberries capped. Fill pint jars with the berries. Screw or fasten top—set in cold water, bring to boil. Open jars, fill with the hot sirup, seal jars and cool. Store in dark, cool place. This is a delicious and easily made strawberry preserve. All the real strawberry flavor is kept by this method.

Sun-Kissed Strawberry Preserves.

To each pound of berries add one pound of sugar. Mix well and place on back of stove until sugar melts. Then place over flame until boiling point is reached. Boil five minutes.

Pour on platters, cover with glass, and set in the sun until sirup is like jelly.

Strawberry Preserves.

Select ripe, yet firm strawberries. Wash thoroughly two cups of berries and place in a kettle with two cups of cane sugar, stirring carefully over a low fire, in order not to crush berries, until the sugar is dissolved. Raise the hea and boil them 10 to 12 minutes, removing white film as it forms. Pour into a large mouth pan. Continue washing two cups berries and cooking with two cups sugar and pouring into large mouth pan until all berries are cooked. Let stand overnight. Next morning pour in sterilized jars and seal.

Strawberry Preserves.

Cap berries and to each level quart of berries add a quart of granulated sugar; if berries are large, slice. Let stand in sugar about one hour, then place on stove and let come to a rolling boil for ten minutes. Pour in shallow pyrex or aluminum pans and place on a table in the hot sun. Cover with glass window panes. Remove the glass about every two hours and wipe the moisture from the glass and stir the preserves. Replace the glass and continue this until the berries thicken. Then pour in glass jars, cover with paraffin and seal.

Strawberry Jam.

4 cups strawberries
4 cups sugar
½ cup water

Bring three cups sugar and about one-half cup water to a boil, stirring to prevent burning. When this is a thick sirup, add three cups of nice, dry berries and boil ten minutes. Then add one cup of sugar and one cup of berries and boil five minutes more.

The berries will seem suspended in a jelly-like sirup and are delicious. Cherries done this way are good also. Do not paraffin for 24 hours.

For culinary assistance, call Dorothea Duncan, National 4200, or write to her, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope, in care of The Washington Post.

Contest Calls For Favorite Biscuit Recipe

HERE IS an opportunity for seasoned housewives to help the young bride. This week, let's endeavor to teach the inexperienced cook how to make soft, fluffy biscuits with a golden brown crust. Enter your favorite biscuit recipe with rules for successful mixing and baking in The Post's recipe contest next week. Three prizes, $3, $2 and $1, will be awarded to the persons submitting the three best recipes.

Don't think that you are limited to one type of biscuit. Don't forget about buttermilk and beaten biscuits and all the other variations of this baking powder delicacy. Just enter the recipe that has won your husband's approval.

All recipes should be sent to Dorothea Duncan, Home Economics Editor of The Washington Post. Only one recipe from each contestant will be considered for a prize. All recipes should be received on or before Thursday of next week.

Type recipes if possible. If not, write them neatly in ink: The name and address of the sender should appear on each sheet submitted.

Girls Becoming Sensible, Less Witty, Novelist Notes

Harris & Ewing.

MISS MARY BADGER WILSON,
writer of light romances, judges modern woman by her fictional prototypes and decides she is getting more sensible, but less witty and less glamorous.

By Marguerite C. Rand.

ARE WOMEN really getting more sensible?

Proof they are is shown in the radical changes of heroine types in fiction, in the belief of Miss Mary Badger Wilson, widely known writer of light romance. However, if we are judging the modern woman by her fictional prototype it would seem she has lost her sense of humor, according to Miss Wilson.

"Like the girls in real life, girls in fiction have grown much more sensible," she said yesterday. "But one thing I'll confess to you as a writer of fiction—far too few heroines have a sense of humor! I suppose it would be asking too much to imagine a witty girl as a heroine."

She further explained that a girl who would be glamorous should tuck her laughs up her sleeve, "and now that sleeves have become so big and puffy, humor will be more elusive than ever in the feminine make-up. Our heroines will probably continue to take themselves seriously. And let's be thankful they deserve to be taken more seriously than they did a little while back."

Jazz Era Heroines Passe.

Continuing to discuss the drastic change in popular models for heroines, Miss Wilson pointed out that in the jazz era a heroine had "to be noisy in order to make herself heard above the din. She had to furnish excitement on every page. She was apt to be a spoiled darling who broke speed limits and smashed such conventions as remained to be smashed; but by her high-powered charm and reckless courage she won through to a happy ending. Today I think that type of heroine would seem merely noisy and futile.

Miss Wilson's career has been highly successful. She says she always wanted to write. She first wrote short stories for magazines. In 1927 she published a book called "The Painted City," a group of sketches of life in Washington. After the publication of this volume she turned to novels. She has had five novels published, of which Washington is the locale for two. Her most recent novel, "Borrowed Plumes," is a fascinating romance of present-day life here. She is now at work on her sixth novel. Aside from fiction, Miss Wilson has also published an interesting volume on the history of St. Alban's parish.

Miss Wilson has the soft voice and gentle manner of the well-born Southerner. The city of her birth is Raleigh, N. C., but she has spent most of her life in Washington. Writing ability is her natural inheritance, for her father is Peter Mitchell Wilson, author of "Southern Exposure," a delightful volume of tales and sketches of the South, both old and new.

Tempo Has Changed.

She went on to discuss this change in heroines. She referred to "the two great cataclysms in modern life," the World War and the depression, and said, "through the war years and the postwar years we lived so breathlessly that fiction had to be breathless, too; otherwise we found it stupid. During the depression the tempo of life has become much slower. Instead of being preoccupied with many activities, a great many of us are now unoccupied. We can read more slowly, because we live more slowly. We sip a book instead of gulping it down. All of which means that the writer of ficton must please a very different public taste today from the one he had to please six years ago."

"Even in the lighter romantic fiction," Miss Wilson said, "you will find the heroine adjusting herself to reality. She is not merely lovable. She is human and likable. Perhaps not so gorgeous, not so glamorous. But better suited, on the whole, to human nature's daily food.'

"Of course, in romance we still have the happy ending. We still have Prince Charming. But I think we have abandoned the glass slipper. Cinderella today is too busy finding solid ground to stand on to bother with breakable footgear like that."

What TODAY Means

"Cancer.

IF JUNE 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m., and from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m., from 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. until midnight.

This day should prove favorable for finding happy solutions to personal problems, good for planning social activities and extending and accepting invitations. Financial negotiations will require tactful handling. Monetary conditions may affect business transactions, especially where special appropriations are required in the purchasing of materials or goods. It is advisable to let an optimistic tone dominate your conversations, if you desire good results. It will pay to overlook trivial faults in either your home or office, as criticism is likely to lead to unnecessary arguments. Married and engaged couples should exercise the greatest amount of self-restraint, if they wish to avoid making a serious mistake.

If a woman, and June 22 is your birthday, you should seek alleviation of grief or anxiety in the great out-of-doors. You respond readily to the varying moods of nature. Flowers have a soothing effect upon you as a rule. Even if you have to substitute flower pots or boxes for a garden bed, you should derive much pleasure in the growing of plants. By keeping well posted on current events your personal interests may be greatly advanced. It will pay you to mix freely with people, and do everything possible to gain popularity. Avoid volunteering opinions too freely, but do not be afraid to express them, when requested. Work in a woman's specialty or gift shop, tea room or restaurant, and selling insurance, real estate, or advertising, are likely to provide the means for a satisfactory income. You should be very happy, married.

If a man, and June 22 is your natal day, you should possess much vitality. Self-confidence may be one of your greatest assets. Engineering, architecture, painting horticultural work, and writing, are among the activities which are likely to bring you fame.

How TO KEEP WELL

Tonsil Removal—Yes and No.

THE summer vacation period is the "open season" for tonsils, and many a child will return to school in the autumn minus these structures. In most cases the child will be better off, but there should be a positive indication for tonsil removal before the procedure is undertaken.

For many years careful investigators have considered the tonsils (a mass of lymphoid tissue) as one of the defense barriers provided by nature against infection. We do know that white blood cells within the tonsils serve as bacteria eaters, and this process probably forestalls many infections.

We can not ignore the fact, however, that the tonsils under certain conditions can and do harbor vicious and life-destroying bacteria. It may well be that up to a certain point the tonsils are of value to the growing child. But whenever they are infected they constitute a menace to health, even to life.

There are two obvious indications for tonsil removal. First, mechanical obstruction and second, infection. Sometimes the enlargement of these glands interferes with breathing, particularly when the child is lying down. Again, if infected, the tonsils may drain poison into the circulation and thus serve as sources of disease in other organs and structures of the body, for example, the kidneys, the heart and the joints.

The child with infected tonsils will usually give a history of repeated attacks of tonsilitis, of abscesses in the glands, followed by a marked lowering of body resistance. There may not be sufficient poison absorbed to actually interfere with normal growth, but the child's appetite is likely to be finicky, and both sleep and digestion are upset. It is important, therefore, that a careful examination be made before tonsilectomy (surgical removal of tonsils) is advised or undertaken.

A study of 2,200 children by A. D. Kaiser shows that the occurrence of sore throats was reduced from 36 per cent to 10 per cent by tonsil removal. Repeated head colds dropped from 44 per cent to 22 per cent, and middle ear infections from 15 to 5 per cent. This latter improvement was apparently due to the fact that enlarged tonsil and adenoid tissue was responsible for blocking the Eustachean tube leading to the middle ear, thus preventing free draining through this important duct. There was no change in frequency of headaches and attacks of hoarseness (inflammation of the larynx).

Rheumatic fever, which is followed by so much heart damage and which is, therefore, of the greatest importance to health in later life, is less common in children whose tonsils have been removed. A recent survey of 1,200 rheumatic children showed that serious heart disease occurred twice as often in those who still retained their tonsils.

Arthritis shows a striking relationship to the presence of tonsils. In a group of 500 cases of arthritis in adults 90 per cent had their tonsils at the onset of the disease.

It is probably unnecessary to offer a word of caution relative to the care that must be taken in any operation for the removal of tonsils. The patient must be properly prepared and the surgeon must be experienced and careful. The patient should remain in bed at the hospital or in the home for at least three days after the operation.

Yes, diseased and infected tonsils should come out. Caution, however, is needed, lest in our enthusiasm to protect the child we relieve him of a bulwark against bacteria. Slightly enlarged tonsils need not be regarded as a menace unless at the same time some infection is found. We must not leave the decision as to tonsil removal to school nurses or friends, no matter how devoted and sincere they may be.

Grey Shops—Second Floor

NOW—A BIGGER, BETTER SUNDAY POST

in ten large sections!

PROBABLY YOU KNOW men and women, who having been turned out of high school or college as "finished products," just sat down and never bothered again to improve themselves. And so, after a while, their friends discovered that they were as pokey and behind-the-times as a 1910 automobile.

THE WASHINGTON SUNDAY POST is not following any such example. Every time friends assure us we're "the top," we start deliberately to climb up another rung or two, in a ceaseless striving to make The Post the best Sunday newspaper in this or any other city.

A FEW MONTHS AGO, The Post inaugurated "The Parade of Youth," a complete newspaper for the youngsters, every Sunday. The boys and girls received it with tremendous enthusiasm. Then we started a two-page weekly Review of the News, copiously illustrated, giving readers a panorama of events around the world and "in a nutshell." That drew a storm of cheers. "The best thing of its kind that has ever been done," we were told.

AND THERE HAVE BEEN other major improvements from time to time . . . the full-sized, full-color comic section, for example, and the installation of "WIREPHOTO," that amazing new device which brings readers of The Post pictures of the news with the news itself . . rather than hours or days later.

WE'RE STILL THINKING up ways to make The Sunday Post more useful and entertaining to every member of the household, and this coming Sunday marks the "birthday" of a host of new features.

First, a better organized paper in ten large sections, with topics logically grouped according to reader interest. (After this, when father is reading what he likes best, he won't be monopolizing the part that mother or sonny wants.)

Second, various new departments based directly on the needs and interests of the community. For instance, a big Army-Navy-Aviation page with news and information that service people want, brought together in one place, where they can find it and read it, easily.

Third, an expanded and vastly improved theater and amusement section that will include articles by prominent persons on all branches of the theater . . . modern lighting, scenic effects, costuming and playwriting, both here and abroad. And, of course, complete coverage of current movies and those to come.

Fourth, a brand-new art page, bringing you stimulating articles on the world of art, reviews of important events near home and far away that you can not afford to ignore.

THIS SUMMER, TOO, we're going to keep our society pages brighter and livelier than ever before by following important people who leave town during the warm months, and reporting back to you just what they're doing. There will be news from Newport, Bar Harbor, Southampton, Rehoboth, Hot Springs . . . in fact from all the fashionable resorts . . . and numerous points abroad.

A BRIEF SUMMARY of the contents of The Sunday Post's ten big sections (the biggest money's worth in town) appears on this page. Look it over now and decide which features you'll want to read first.

Plans to Finish Lee Boulevard Are Discussed

Federal, State and County Officials Hold Arlington Conference.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 500. Clarendon, Va.

A. H. Bell, State highway engineer in charge of surveys and maps, and T. W. Ross, State right of way engineer, came to the county yesterday to confer with representatives of the United States Bureau of Public Roads and county officials in an effort to complete the Lee boulevard to the Arlington Memorial Bridge.

The engineers, with J. V. McNary, of the Bureau of Public Roads, C. L. Kinnier, county engineer, and County Manager Roy S. Braden, made a tour of the proposed northern route from Station 107 in Lyon Park to the bridge.

After more than nine years when the State first took over the route for the boulevard, it is expected the remaining two miles of the road will be completed this year.

Mrs. Russell B. Clapper, president of the Arlington County Council, Parent-Teacher Association, announces the appointment of the following committee chairmen:

Program, Mrs. Martha Rauh; membership, Fletcher Kemp; hospitality, Mrs. Grace Shawn; publicity, Mrs. Gladys Riely; publications, Mrs. Elsie Fitts; finance, Mrs. Victoria Turner; registration, Mrs. Edna Simmons; chaplain, Mrs. P. M. Chichester; historian, Mrs. Gladys Monroe, and music, Mrs. Ruth Marcey.

The annual baseball game between the Arlington County Police and members of the Arlington Fire Department at 3:30 p. m. today will be the closing feature of the firemen's carnival which has been in progress for ten days.

The carnival closes tonight with a number of special added attractions, according to President Arthur C. Stickley 2d.

Mrs. C. I. Kephart was elected president of the Woman's Club of Lyon Park at its annual meeting held Thursday night at the home of Mrs. DeWitt Evans.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Leona Wise, first vice president; Mrs. W. T. Baker, second vice president; Mrs. D. A. Thornwaite, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Arthur Orr, recording secretary, and Mrs. E. A. Hardest, treasurer.

Plans were completed for a bridge party to be held at the Community House next Thursday at 1 p. m.

Mrs. Arthur Orr is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Cooperating with the movement to provide playgrounds in Arlington County for the children during the summer, J. D. McDonnell announced that he is turning over a tract of 25 acres, located at Hatfield, to County Superintendent Fletcher Kemp.

Mr. McDonnell said he first will clear the ground and provide a baseball diamond and an athletic field.

The Church of the Nazarene at Park Lane will hold its annual Sunday school picnic at Marshall Hall today, according to an announcement by Superintendent Guy Russell.

Miss Myrtle A. Telley, a missionary to South Africa for 11 years, will deliver an illustrated lecture at the Ballston Tabernacle on Glebe road tomorrow at 7:45 p. m.

Announcement is made by the physicians of Arlington County that they have provided a physicians' exchange for the convenience of the citizens of the county without any cost to them.

In cases when a doctor can not be located at either his home or office, persons are asked to call Walnut 7674 and the doctor will be located.

A majority of the lawyers in the county attended the annual field day of the county bar association, held yesterday at the Washington Golf and Country Club. Golf, tennis and horseshoe pitching were features. The program concluded with a banquet, followed by dancing.

Prizes for County Field Day

Dr. W. J. Morton, Christ Church Rector, Resigns

Pastor of National Shrine to Retire After 33 Years' Service.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

The Rev. William Jackson Morton, D. D., rector of the historic Christ Church in Alexandria for the last 33 years, has submitted his resignation, to take effect on August 31.

Dr. Morton is a graduate of Richmond College and the Theological Seminary near Alexandria, where he received his degree of doctor of divinity with the class of 1891. His first charge was assistant rector of St. James Church in Richmond. In 1894 he became rector of Epiphany Church at Knoxville, Tenn., later going to Emmanuel Church at Harrisonburg, Va. He left there to become rector of Christ Church in Alexandria on September 1, 1902.

It has been stated that Dr. and Mrs. Morton expect to leave Alexandria about August 1 at the beginning of his annual vacation. They will make their future home at University, Va., near their son, Dr. Charles Bruce Morton.

Christ Church in Alexandria is celebrated for its close association with George Washington and other colonial patriots and Gen. Robert E. Lee. It has become a national shrine and has been very little changed since colonial days.

During his term as rector services conducted by Dr. Morton have been attended by heads of nations and other famous persons among them President Herbert Hoover and the late President Calvin Coolidge.

The playground at the foot of Franklin street has been named the Potomac View Playground. Five patrolmen have been named to look after the smaller children, they include, LeRoy Shanks, captain; Stanley Lyons, lieutenant; William Simpson, Wallace Smith and Alexander Shepherd, privates. Miss Maude Roberts will be in charge of the handcraft sewing and story telling.

Daughters of America Pick Herndon Leaders

Mrs. Mae Maddox has been elected councilor of Herndon Council, Daughters of America, for the coming six months. Other officers are: Associate councilor, Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald; vice councilor, Mrs. Clara Duke; conductor, Mrs. Iva Harrison; inside sentinel, Mrs. Tracy Hawley; outside sentinel, Mrs. Glenna Seibold; recording secretary, Miss Virginia McFarland; financial secretary, Mrs. Clara Holtzclaw; treasurer, Mrs. Lula Cooper; trustees, Mrs. Clara Duke, for 18 months; Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, for 12 months, and Mrs. Cora Hurst, for 6 months.

Alexandria Woman to Mark 100th Birthday Anniversary

In a venerable and tranquil white house, separated from South St. Asaph street, Alexandria, by a green picket fence and big, old-fashioned yard, the descendants of Mrs. Laura Fiske Evans will gather today in celebration of Mrs. Evans' 100th birthday.

The party will include only members of the family because, as Mrs. Evans' daughter, Mrs. Raymond Hulfish, said yesterday:

"Mother can't stand to see many people now. They seem to excite her. But she's looking forward to her birthday and to her cake. We wanted to put a hundred candles on it, but the baker said there wouldn't be room, so we'll have only one big candle."

Did Mrs. Hulfish think the centenarian would eat some of the cake?

"Eat some of it?" repeated the daughter who makes her home with Mrs. Evans. "I should say so. We'll have to watch her to keep her from eating too much of it."

Mrs. Evans, according to Mrs. Hulfish, rarely leaves her comfortable second-floor room. She sleeps most of the day. In the evening she is usually in a sociable mood.

Mrs. Evans' eyesight also is poor, said the daughter, Laura Evans Hulfish. But in spite of her handicaps the 100-year-old woman waits upon herself. When Mrs. Hulfish suggested a practical nurse for a birthday gift Mrs. Evans said:

"No, I don't want a nurse. Every morning she'd ask me, 'and how are you today?' I don't want a nurse. I'm not any trouble to anybody."

"And she isn't," declared the daughter who, with her little family, lives in the venerable and tranquil white house at 322 South St. Asaph street.

Mrs. Hulfish doesn't remember her mother's talking much about her girlhood.

"I know she was never in a hurry for her daughters to get married. She herself had married at 17 and then had five babies, one after the other."

Mrs. Evans was born in Wyndham County, Conn. After her marriage in 1852 to Edward Jones Evans she lived for several years in New York while her husband was employed on the Brooklyn Times and was associated with Horace Greeley, editor of the New York Tribune.

Then Mr. Evans received an appointment with the Postoffice Department. He, his young wife, and their babies moved to Alexandria in 1864. Six years later they bought and built an addition to the house where Mrs. Evans lives today.

In the time that has passed Mrs. Evans has buried her husband and three of her children. The two surviving children are Mrs. Hulfish and Capt. George H. Evans, of Alexandria. Only last January the aged woman lost her beloved daughter, Florence J. Evans, for many years teacher of speech correction in Washington public schools.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Hulfish and Capt. George H. Evans, members of Mrs. Evans' family who will attend the birthday celebration today are her five grandchildren, John B. Evans, Dr. Willis F. Evans, and Mrs. Mildred E. Gordon, of Richmond; Edward C. Evans, and Laura Evans Hulfish, of Alexandria; and the aged woman's three great-grandchildren, Nancy V. Evans, Edward A. Evans, and Jack A. Evans, all of Alexandria.

3 D. C. Men Held As Girls' Attackers

Three Washington men are held in the Arlington County Jail without bond on charges of criminal assault upon two young girls from North Carolina. They are Jack Hausley, 21, Ernest Robinson, 30, both of the 1300 block of L street northwest, and Fred Phelps, 25 of the 1500 block of Seventeenth street northwest.

The crime, police said, was committed in Arlington County last Saturday when the girls were brought into the county from Washington. The trio were arrested by Washington police and turned over to County Officers Ernest Miller and Edward Duncan yesterday.

They will be given a hearing today before County Judge B. M. Hedrick.

Sitting for Morgan Baker.

PROBING further into the administration of personnel at FHA, the House Civil Service Committee, gathering information relative to the Sirovich bill, yesterday called W. D. Flanders, director, Field Division, FHA, to answer questions about what sections of the country are represented and to what extent appointments are non-political and dictated by officials in the Divisions.

Mr. Flanders explained that in the last few months, since he has been with FHA, the yardstick for selecting personnel has been efficiency and competency.

Several members of the committee said that no consideration is given Representatives in making appointments at FHA. Supporting his assertion that qualified persons, who had been recommended by members of Congress, had been refused positions consistently. Rep. Charles Faddis, of Pennsylvania, suggested that the qualifications of those now employed at FHA be checked against those who had been turned down.

Representative Faddis revealed that 34 out of 79 employes holding key positions in 1934 were from New York. The committee members from New York replied that they had not been consulted in the appointments, and knew nothing of the qualifications of the persons selected. It was shown also that 163 employes at FHA now are from the York and 92 from Virginia. The District of Columbia, 132 from New committee agreed that efforts would be made to bring about a reapportionment of employes.

Representative Faddis charged that in many cases incompetent persons had been employed, and urged a thorough investigation of affairs at FHA. He also added that the money spent by the Administration at Federal housing is out of proportion to the money loaned, especially money spent on advertising.

The committee agreed that there has been some improvement in the administration of affairs at FHA recently, and spoke highly of Acting Administrator Stewart McDonald.

Youth and agility will be pitted against sturdiness and experience, when the regular nine of the Federal Communications Commission engages the Bearcats, officials of the Commission, in a baseball game at 2:30 p. m. today at Rock Creek Park. The battery for the officials will be Paul Spearman, pitcher, and James Cunningham, catcher. Maj. A. V. Dalrymple (C), Legal Division, will be the official arbiter.

Convention Hostesses.

Government employes who are members of the Nu Alpha Chapter, Kappa Delta Phi Sorority, and who are hostesses at the national convention at the Washington Hotel, June 21-24, are: National president, Mary Emory, G. A. O.; local president, Laney Payne Sadler, NRA; vice president, Judy Savidge, Agriculture; secretary, Pauline Aker, Treasury; treasurer, Maude Ecton, Veterans' Bureau; monitor, Pearl Henry, War; historian, Ola Perry, Labor; mistress of ceremonies, Dorothy Cox, AAA; guard, Angela Lafreniere, Commerce; Frances Haussner, G. A. O.; Ione Carter, G. A. O.; Theodate Amsden, Agriculture; Margaret Daugherty, Agriculture, and Madeline Burry, Agriculture.

You will receive tickets to one of the following Loew's theaters: (F), Loew's Fox (stage, Eva Le Gallienne, Larry Rich, and other acts; screen, "Charlie Chan in Egypt," with Warner Oland; (P), Loew's Palace (Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery in "No More Ladies"); (C), Loew's Columbia ("Public Hero No. 1," with Lionel Barrymore).

Mrs. Vera Bloise, chief of files, FHA, will give a shower in honor of Miss Mary Purches, assistant file chief, tonight at 8 o'clock. Miss Purches (C), will be married July 6.

Employes Transferred.

Among employes who have been transferred to the Office of Chief of Engineers, War, are Miss Camille N. Heiderhoff, New Orleans; Miss Pauline E. Palmer, Vicksburg; Miss Helen I. Shedlock, from Bureau of Engraving; Miss Mary Ellen Homyk, Chicago, and Miss Patty Greear, Zanesville.

Mr. and Mrs. Evan Wilder have been assigned to new positions on the Passamaquoddy tide-harnessing project of the Engineer Department at Large, Eastport, Me. Mr. Wilder is an engineer in the Bureau of Public Roads, Agriculture, and Mrs. Wilder is employed in the Office of Chief of Engineers, War. A combination farewell party to their friends and a shower for Miss Mabel Waters was given by Mr. and Mrs. Wilder at their home in Cherrydale.

Writes Leaflet.

Miss Phoebe Knappen (P), junior biologist, Division of Wildfire Research, Biological Survey, writes on "Birds Aid Blueberry and Cranberry Growers" in a leaflet issued by the bureau. "Besides adding to the attractiveness of the surroundings," she says, "birds encouraged to breed in the vicinity of blueberry and cranberry bogs would provide a valuable supplement to flooding and other measures for the control of insect pests." There are listed the insects known to be destructive to these fruits and the species of wild birds that prey on these insects.

Sleep Victim Better.

Frederick, Md., June 21 (AP).—Lois Bowers, daughter of John Bowers, of Yarrowsburg, in Washington County, who has been seriously ill in City Hospital here with sleeping sickness, today was reported improved.

Grand Jury Indicts Man in Check Case

Ex-Texas Oil Promoter Sought by Police.

On the complaint of Karl A. Crowley, solicitor of the Postoffice Department, the District grand jury yesterday indicted D. M. Whitteken, who was identified as a former Texas oil promoter, on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. The charge grew out of a $25 check that Mr. Crowley indorsed and that was cashed at the Mayflower Hotel.

When the check proved to be worthless, officials said, the solicitor was forced to make it good. Whitteken, for whom the grand jury gave two alleged aliases, has not been apprehended.

Two other indictments were returned yesterday. One charged Joshua M. Lee with nonsupport and the other accused George W. Curtis and Wiley Crouch with robbery.

Kurz Death Suspect Files Plea of Guilty; Case in U. S. Court

Convict Implicated In Murder, Beating

Victim's Escort Unable to Identify Vagrant Positively.

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., June 21.—Trial before a Federal court here appeared certain today for Earl Connor Williams, 23-year-old Negro vagrant, as he was sent back to the Henrico County Jail after pleading guilty to the murder of Fannie Kurz in the Military Park at Fredericksburg on May 21, 1934.

At a brief hearing before United States Commissioner Melvin Fleegenheimer, Williams pleaded guilty in a calm voice. The confessed slayer was ordered held without bond for the Federal grand jury.

The arrest of Williams at Iuka, Miss., a month ago on a minor charge and his subsequent confession offered a solution to a murder case that had puzzled authorities for a year. Miss Kurz was beaten to death and her companion, George Milton Brown, was slugged into insensibility by an unidentified assailant.

L. P. Oliver and R. L. Fagan, Federal agents who investigated the case after Williams' admission to Mississippi officers, testified at the hearing today, at which Assistant District Attorney John Cogbill represented the Government, which has jurisdiction because the crime was committed on Federal property.

Judge Luther B. Way of the Eastern district of Virginia will decide when he comes to Richmond July 1 whether a special grand jury will be called in the case.

Brown, who was badly injured at the time Miss Kurz was killed, confronted the prisoner in Washington last night but was not positive in his identification of Williams.

Convict Implicated In Kurz Slaying

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., June 21.—It is expected that charges will be preferred against Clifton "Lightning" Wright, 29-year-old Negro now serving a life sentence in the State penitentiary, as the accomplice of Earl Cannon Williams, who pleaded guilty this afternoon to the murder of Fannie Kurz and the beating of Milton Brown in Lovers lane.

Wright is understood to have been questioned by Department of Justice agents several times in connection with the case. He was among the first suspects. In January he was sent to prison for highway robbery and attacking John G. Heflin, prominent Fredericksburg citizen.

Photo Identified.

Wright implicated Williams while the former was being held in Mississippi. Shown ten photographs, Williams readily picked out the one of Wright.

Williams stayed with Wright for about a week prior to the crime and for about ten days after the murder before going to Richmond.

Brown saw Williams in the Department of Investigation last night but would not say whether it was the Negro that hit him. Brown said his mind was still hazy. Williams, however, from a line-up, quickly pointed out Brown, saying "that is the man I hit on the head with a lead pipe."

Gilbert Sullivan, of this city, who was robbed while parked in the Battle Field park four nights before the Brown attack, was uncertain about identifying Williams, who, it was said, does not know that one of his victims is dead. His mental caliber was described as below normal.

Scene of Crime Visited.

Yesterday, in company with two Department of Justice agents, Williams led them to the scene of the crime. He first showed them where Brown's car was parked and then where he left the unconscious forms. He also led them to a water tank near the R., F. & P. Ry. tracks where he claimed he picked up the pipe. Williams was later taken to several places for identification, but no one was found who knew him, it was said.

Piedmont Cuts Pay Of All City Employes

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Piedmont, W. Va., June 21.—Because of the town's low finances, the Piedmont City Council last night made cuts in the salaries of employes. Charles E. Dornon, recently reappointed chief of police, was reduced from $135 to $100 a month; Charles T. Neff, sr., city clerk, from $112.50 to $100, while other employes were cut about 12½ per cent.

Mayor Harry McVeigh Drane proposed a bond issue of $25,000 to pay off notes and other indebtedness.

Sinclair Brown Heads Bankers of Virginia

By the Associated Press.

Hot Springs, Va., June 21.—J. Sinclair Brown, president of the Farmers National Bank of Salem, was elected president of the Virginia Bankers Association for the coming year at this morning's session of the annual convention. He succeeds Carroll Pierce, president of the Citizens National Bank of Alexandria.

J. B. Day, jr., senior vice president of the National Bank of Commerce of Norfolk, was elected vice president. C. W. Beerbower, assistant cashier of the First National Exchange Bank of Roanoke, was re-elected secretary and Thomas D. Neal, of Richmond, was elected treasurer.

Ed R. Johnson, Roanoke, Va., Heads Rotary

By the Associated Press.

Mexico City, June 21.—Rotarians in convention here five days started moving out to their homes scattered over the globe today after electing Ed R. Johnson, Roanoke, Va., business man, to succeed R. L. Hill, Columbia, Mo., as president for the next year.

A director of the Virginia Chamber of Commerce and former member of the committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Johnson defeated Donato Gaminara, of Montevideo, Uruguay, for the post. An official said the vote, cast secretly yesterday, was about two-to-one.

After the final plenary convention, at which Past President Donald A. Adams, of New Haven, Conn., spoke on "The Place of Rotary in the World of Today," the homeward trek began.

About 50 of the nearly 6,000 delegates attending left on the first train leaving for Kansas in the early afternoon, while other groups were departing on trains leaving at intervals of an hour. Boats sailing from Vera Cruz were to carry other contingents.

Adams, in his address, urged Rotarians to study and analyze business relations and the relations between employer and employe "in order to have a fairer, and therefore more stable, foundation for society."

He also proposed an organization to find some way of helping youth "through the present period in which there has been a moral cataclysm, not of youth but of adults."

Addressing the closing session of the twenty-sixth annual convention, President Johnson pledged his sincere efforts to serve the interests of the organization.

At the initiative of Herbert Coates, of Montevideo, clubmate of the defeated presidential candidate, the more than 3,000 delegates at the final session voted to make Johnson's election unanimous.

Chesapeake Yields Body of Webber

Hope Abandoned for Other Lost Baltimorean.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, June 21.—The body of Edward Webber, Baltimore man missing since Tuesday, was found in the Chesapeake Bay today, midway between Bay Shore Park and Fort Howard.

Webber and Joseph Stormer, also of Baltimore, left here Tuesday in an open launch for a trip on the bay. A severe storm blew up shortly after they left.

Stormer's body has not been found, but hope has been given up that he will be found alive. Coast Guard boats and a private airplane joined in the search for them, and arrangements were being made today before the finding of Webber's body for Boy Scouts to join in the search.

The body was located by Corpl. George K. Bell and Private Arthur Noe of the Twelfth Infantry, who are stationed at Fort Howard. They were fishing from a rowboat.

Essex police identified the body and the coroner was notified. No trace was found of the boat.

Belmont Plant Leased To Roanoke Company

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Leesburg, Va., June 21.—The Belmont Traprock plant, situated near Leesburg, has been leased to a corporation headed by Holman R. Willis, of Roanoke, former Democratic floor leader in the Virginia House of Delegates, according to an announcement made today.

It is understood that plans are under way by the new owners for the operation of the plant on an increased scale, and that new machinery, costing approximately $20,000, will be installed immediately.

Fire Chiefs Again Name Baltimorean

By Clyde Dubose.
A Staff Correspondent.

Oakland, Md., June 21.—After a night of impromptu parades through the streets of this town to the tune of bands and screaming sirens, the Maryland State Firemen's Association prepared to adjourn its three-day convention this afternoon.

As a grand finale, the entire ensemblage, led by a squad of State police on horseback and bands from Westminster and Frostburg, plowed its way through the confetti covered streets to the scene of the annual firemen's contests.

Winners in the contests were as follows: Riverdale, best equipment; Brunswick, best uniformed company; Hyattsville, best auxiliary; Rowlesburg, W. Va., largest out-of-State company; Romney, W. Va., best out-of-State equipment; Cambridge, largest representation; Westonport, best drilled company; Westminster, best band.

The morning's only session for the men was held in the Oakland High School auditorium by the Maryland Fire Chiefs Association. Chief Howard Travers, of Baltimore, was re-elected president.

Other Officers.

Other officers selected were C. Howard Whittle, of Glendon, secretary; Fred Imrie, of Bethesda, treasurer; Karl Young, Mount Rainier; Ernest Davis, Hyattsville, and Allan Urie, of Rock Hall, were selected for the board of trustees.

Dr. A. N. Johnson, dean of the College of Engineering of the University of Maryland, urged the chiefs to have their men attend the annual Fire College, to be held at the university in August.

Dean Johnson announced that Sherwood Brockwell, fire marshal for North Carolina, would head the teaching staff for the college again this year. Prominent speakers from various sections of the Nation also will be present, he said.

Vote Disaster Unit.

These nursing units, to be formed in each county to take charge of injured and homeless persons in the case of major disasters, will be on the order of the one already formed in Prince Georges County. They will receive instructions from the American Red Cross.

It also was decided to pay the expenses at any time necessary of a bed at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, for the care of firemen injured in line of duty.

Committees Named.

Mrs. Margaret Hartman, of Frederick, was named chairman of the executive board and authorized to arrange for all executive committee meetings. Committees named were as follows:

Program: Mrs. Ruth Eyler and Miss Hartman, of Frederick, Mrs. George Bangs and Mrs. G. Whitcomb, Owings Mill; Mrs. Bessie Marshall, Reisterstown; Mrs. A. Strickler, Brunswick, and Mrs. B. Horace Ford and Mrs. John Holland, Crisfield. Committees on badges: Mrs. Samuel Tayman, Mrs. Bell, and Mrs. Edna Pitts, Cottage City.

The convention committee was not completed.

Presiding over the contests were Frank T. Schaeffer, Westminster, the new president. He was assisted by George Wiseman, Bladensburg, senior vice president, and Frank T. Truitt, Ocean City, junior vice president.

Ambulance Service Near for Maryland

Cars to Operate From Five Police Substations.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, June 21.—Emergency ambulance service from five substations of the Maryland State police force will be available in the near future, Maj. J. Purdon Wright announced today.

Five specially constructed automobiles which can be converted into ambulances have been ordered and will be stationed at Conwingo, Easton, Salisbury, Frederick and Waldorf. The cars are constructed so that, through removal of a front seat, a stretcher cot can be brought into service.

The automobiles will be used at the substations for general work as well as for ambulance service.

Rappahannock Day Program Is Elaborate

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Irvington, Va., June 21.—An elaborate program has been announced by the Irvington Improvement Association for the Rappahannock Day which will be held here July 4.

The program includes:

Welcome address by R. Hill Fleet, member of the Virginia House of Delegates from Lancaster and Richmond Counties; boat races and boat float; concert by the United States Marine Band; dinner on the school grounds; cross-country race; boxing, baseball, speaking, presentation of awards and a play in the school auditorium.

Widet Hyder, 19, of Johnstown, Pa., whose story yesterday, in Cumberland, Md., that an attempt had been made to force her to marry Fred Curry, 20, resulted in the detention of five persons. Her engagement to Joe Salem (below) was reported to be the motive.

Jobs Are Given 1,200 on Relief List in Virginia

Volunteers Rewarded in Employment Search Over Two Weeks.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Richmond, June 21.—More than 1,200 jobs for relief families rewarded the first two weeks of effort of the volunteer job-finding committees working in the reemployment campaign of the Virginia Emergency Relief Administration, Administrator William A. Smith announced today following an incomplete survey of the situation.

Indications were that committees would be functioning in practically every county and city in the State by the end of this week, with the result that the total of jobs for relief families would continue to mount.

"Our campaign," Mr. Smith said upon his return from a series of relief conferences with Washington officials, "appears to be right in line with President Roosevelt's program.

Success Visioned.

"He told our conference of State works progress administrators Monday that, coincidentally with our efforts to place relief workers on regular work projects, we should also strive to return as many as possible to private employment.

"That, of course, is the sole purpose of our drive in Virginia to 'reduce relief by rational Re-employment.' And according to present indications, the drive is destined to meet with a grtifying measure of success."

Reports were gathered over the past week-end from about 70 localities having local relief organizations. Job-finding committees, composed of volunteer workers serving without pay, had been organized and were functioning actively in 54 of them. The total number of jobs obtained either directly or indirectly as a result of these committees' activities came to 1,242.

Most Jobs Are Temporary.

The majority of the jobs are of temporary duration and probably will last only through the summer months. The upturn in farm employment this summer was counted upon to take up much of the slack in unemployment, and a large number of the placements were in farm labor.

Placements were made either through the local relief office or the offices of the National Re-employment Service. The committees circulated among the employers of their neighborhoods, sought out the job opportunities, and turned this information over either to the relief or re-employment officials.

Passenger Hurt in Car Asks $25,000 Damages

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 21.—Asking $25,000 damages for permanent injuries suffered in an automobile accident, James W. O'Hara, minor son of Patrolman James E. O'Hara, of Cumberland, yesterday filed suit in Circuit Court against James A. Perrin, local real estate agent.

O'Hara was injured April 3 when the automobile in which he was a passenger overturned on the Baltimore turnpike, two miles east of Cumberland.

Bankers Told Of Glass' War On Servitude

He's Fighting Involuntary Bonds for Them, Senator States.

J. S. Brown Named Head of Association in Virginia.

By the Associated Press.

Hot Springs, Va., June 21.—Bankers of the Old Dominion, after receiving from Senator Carter Glass an assurance he was remaining in Washington fighting to keep the banks of Virginia out of "involuntary servitude," this afternoon and tonight cast aside their problems in favor of golf and a banquet.

Senator Glass was scheduled to discuss banking legislation before the conference tomorrow but advised President Carroll Pierce today he was unable to attend, as the controversial banking bill "affecting the banks and business of the country generally" may not be reported from his sub-committee "for at least a week or ten days." The bankers answered with an expression of appreciation of his efforts.

Following the morning session, the delegates suspended all business matters. The banquet this evening, attended by more than 300, was followed by a dance in the crystal room of Homestead.

Not All Play.

The evening was not all play for the bankers, however. Ashton Dovell, of Williamsburg, House of Delegates member, discussed current business affairs in a brief address. He took an optimistic view of present and future conditions and cited "excess reserves and money rates contrastingly low, neither of which we want or need."

He attributed past depressions to "excessive speculative enterprises, unusual and harmful legislation, or extensive failures of crops." Pointing out that "in years gone by, after a panic or depression, recovery did not blossom out of its own accord. It had to be coaxed, but it was cultivated in a natural way."

The convention will hear Robert V. Fleming, of Washington, expert on bank legislation, discuss new trends in that field tomorrow. He is vice president of the American Bankers Association.

Officers Named.

The long-standing problem of service charges came quickly to the front in following a discussion of bank costs and their determination by Giles H. Miller, jr., cashier of the Culpeper National Bank. Bankers from smaller communities debated the problem presented by accounts of less than $50. The convention did not express itself formally but there were indications that a resolution or recommendation might be presented tomorrow.

J. Sinclair Brown, president of the Farmers National Bank of Salem, was named the association's next president today in a nomination that was tantamount to election.

Other officers named to serve with him were J. B. Day, jr., senior vice president of the National Bank of Commerce of Norfolk, vice president; C. W. Beerbower, assistant cashier of the First National Exchange Bank, Roanoke, secretary, and Thomas D. Neal, of the firm of Scott & Stringfellow, Richmond, treasurer.

100 Postmasters At W. Va. Session

Latimer Says Department Has Left Depression.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., June 21.—Nearly 100 West Virginia postmasters and postmistresses, in annual session of the West Virginia branch, National Postmasters Association, here today and tomorrow, suspended business this afternoon and either went to the horse races at Charles Town or sightseeing.

Representative Jennings Randolph was the principal speaker at a banquet here tonight.

The convention will close with a business session Saturday afternoon. The principal address this afternoon was by J. Austin Latimer, special assistant to Postmaster General Farley, who said the Postoffice Department had definitely left the depression behind, as indicated by receipts, and, as a consequence, he said, was absorbing more employes, and such things as furloughs and reduction caused by the depression were being forgotten.

Arthur Godfrey Buys Big Virginia Estate

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Warrenton, Va., June 21.—Arthur Godfrey, radio announcer, yesterday purchased the 400-acre estate Avernel, in Fauquier County, between The Plains and Broad Run. The sale was made by Courtland H. Smith, of The Plains.

Avernel is the old Brad Beverly estate and contains a residence, but it is understood Mr. Godfrey will build one later.

Tribe of Black Widow Spiders Is Discovered Near Baltimore

Large Numbers of the Poisonous Insects Found Under Boards.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, June 21.—Black widow spiders, whose bite sometimes is fatal, have been located in what was termed "large numbers" just outside Baltimore.

Two of them, caught on Braddock avenue just off the North Point road near Colgate, by Officer E. R. Quandt, of the State police, were definitely identified today as black widows by Dr. Justin Andrews, professor of protozoology in the Johns Hopkins University school of hygiene and public health.

Quandt said he received a call from a Braddock avenue resident yesterday who told him she thought there were a number of the spiders in the neighborhood and asked that he investigate. The officer said he found large numbers of them under old boards, a junked automobile and other debris. He secured two of them and brought them to town in a bottle.

Asked if the bite of the insect is as fatal as it is reported to be, Dr. Andrews replied:

"There are conflicting opinions about that. Some say their bites are always fatal, and some that they are only sometimes. But, whichever is true, they can give you a pretty bad time if you are bitten."

Rattlesnake Shares Bed With Two Men

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., June 21.—Thinking the movement they felt at night was a mouse crawling over them, Lafe Parson and Edward Ashton, of Shanghai, near here, paid no more attention to it. The next morning, however, when they were making the bed they found a large rattlesnake curled up among the covers. They promptly killed the reptile and found it had ten rattles and a button.

A number of rattlers have been killed in this section lately, the largest of which had 18 rattles.

Deliquency Figure Only $13,182, Report of Auditor Shows.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Frederick, Md., June 21.—Collections by County Treasurer Thomas A. Chapline, including county and State taxes, amounted to $570,290.64 last fiscal year, it is revealed in the county auditor's annual report submitted to the Commissioners. Figures from the county treasurer's office show $13,182.64 in uncollected taxes for last year, $10,855.04 county, and $2,327.60 State.

In uncollected taxes back to 1930 the amount outstanding is $8,476.96 for the county and $2,462.73 for the State. Records from the State comptroller's office, Annapolis, show that Frederick County is one of four Maryland counties which have no delinquet State acounts for 1931 and one of six counties which have no 1930 delinquencies.

Frederick district, including Frederick City, paid $151,502.03 in county and $38,662.48 in State taxes. Middletown district ranked second and Buckeystown third. In addition, the following taxes were collected:

Motor vehicles, county, $13,830.70; State, $3,382.74; ordinary business corporations, county, $12,323.11; banks and trust companies, county, $20,808.16; share corporations, county, $65,391.16; nonstock corporations, county, $106.91, and railroads, rolling stock, county, $3,557.81.

The County Commissioners received from the Clerk of the Court for three classes of licenses for the sale of alcoholic beverages, $7,350.50 which was turned over to the county treasurer. Of this amount, $4,350.03 was set aside for the Frederick County Branch of the Maryland Children's Aid Society as provided by law. By a new ruling the aid society receives no more liquor license funds.

The report shows that $525,476 was spent by the board of education to run the schols. School buildings were valued at $1,450,875 and $17,535.20 was paid in salaries to officers and supervisors. The total cost of instruction was $359,805.59; operation, $31,125.13, and maintenance, $20,240.84. There are 77 schools in the county. The outstanding indebtedness of the board of education at the close of the fiscal year, July 31, 1934, was $30,725.78. The estimated amount of Federal aid in improving school properities was $47,330.52. The properties improved were in this city, Middletown, Creagerstown, Emmitsburg, New Market, Wolfsville, Libertytown, Sabillasville, New Midway, Brook Hill and Brunswick.

Farmer Kills Wife And Self With Gun

By the Associated Press.

Roanoke, Va., June 21.—A 70-year-old farmer who officers said had been subject to "spells" for years killed his aged wife at 2 a. m. today at their home near Elliston with a single-barreled shotgun which he then turned on himself with fatal results.

Officers who investigated reported that the farmer, George Epperley, shot Mrs. Epperley first in the abdomen and then in the heart and reloaded the weapon to fire a charge into his own heart.

A 10-year-old grandson staying with the aged couple ran to the home of his father, Leslie Epperley, to report the tragedy. County authorities said they had urged Epperley's children to commit him to an institution, but they refused. The couple is survived by two sons and six daughters.

Cleveland Out As Nice Gives Post to Wright

Public Service Body Gets New General Counsel.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, June 21.—J. Purdon Wright, right-hand-man to Gov. Harry W. Nice, has succeeded Richard F. Cleveland as general counsel to the Maryland Public Service Commission.

The new official visited the commission's offices today and was introduced to the personnel by Frank Harper, executive secretary.

Cleveland, son of the late President of the United States, Grover Cleveland, is continuing his work of preparing testimony, a brief and a petition to the United States Supreme Court requesting a reargument of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. rate case. Wright said he appreciated Cleveland's continued interest in the case and hoped he would "feel free to go to Washington when the case comes up."

Wright is also superintendent of the Independent Maryland State Police with the rank of major. He serves on advisory committees for the Governor.

"This new job is the only State position for which I receive pay," he said. "All my other State duties are gratis."

The job, with the reductions voted by the recent legislative session, pays $4,080 annually. The general counsel holds office at the pleasure of the Governor.

Wright said he would begin a study of the telephone case, in which the Public Service Commission ordered the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. to reduce its net annual income by $850,000. The Supreme Court ruled adversely on the commission's method of setting a valuation for the company.

The commission, seeking a clarification of the ruling, decided to petition for a reargument. It was said by commission members that the reduction would actually mean a saving to telephone users in the State of $1,000,000 a year.

Naval Officers Honor Gov. Nice and Woodcock

Annapolis, June 21 (AP). — The Naval Academy Officers Club has added Gov. Harry W. Nice and Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, president of St. John College, to its list of honorary members.

The only other two honorary members are the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Fight Looms On Sales Levy For Pensions

Labor Leader Says Tax Faces Battle if It Hits Necessities.

Hughes Urges Old Age Plan for Virginia 'Second to None.'

By the Associated Press.

Richmond, Va., June 21.—A labor leader today said workers would be opposed to a sales tax, unless it exempted necessities, as a means of raising the $3,000,000 which he estimated as the cost of Virginia's old-age pension plan.

This figure is $500,000 a year in excess of the estimate of William R. Shands, State research director, who made it clear, however, that his calculation was based on the minimum requirements of such a plan.

Charles J. Hughes, a former president of the Virginia Federation of Labor, in announcing his larger estimate, said this State's pension program "should be in keeping with and second to no other State." In addition to exemption of necessities from a sales tax, Mr. Hughes said labor would demand that the total revenue from such a source be used for old-age pensions if that type of levy were adopted.

He expressed opposition to the Senate amendment to the Federal bill providing for exemption of companies with private pension systems from the national law. He said this would permit such industries to employ only young men and shift responsibility for older workers to the Government.

"To have a complete program, unemployment insurance should be passed at the same time as the old-age pension law," said Hughes, who was a member of the Governor's commission on unemployment insurance.

Gov. Nice and Party Off for Capes Cruise

Baltimore, June 21 (AP).—Gov. Harry W. Nice and a party of 25 friends today boarded the pilot boat Maryland for a week-end trip off the Virginia Capes.

At Old Point Comfort, Va., the party will transfer to the pilot boat Fanner for the return to Baltimore Sunday night. Included in the party were Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore and William P. Lawson, chairman of the Maryland Republican State Central Committee.

Washington All-Native Revues Pave Way for Local Stars' Booking on Big Time

Pianist-Singer Team Signed by Loew's Circuit

(Reprinted from Yesterday's Last Edition.)

By Nelson B. Bell.

It is pleasant to record that our gifted fellow Hoosier, Evelyn Tyner, brilliant young pianist now resident to the Capital and one of the distinguished "graduates" of the first "Going Native" revue, presented on the stage of Loew's Fox Theater in 1932, seems on the brink of the professional career of which she long has dreamed.

Miss Tyner today unquestionably is reaping some of the belated rewards of having acquitted herself in the local-talent revue of three years ago. She was signed yesterday, with her new partner, Talbott Hazlett, barytone, to appear for a week's engagement in each of eight of America's largest and most scrupulously conducted theaters.

The team of Tyner and Hazlett has been booked to appear in Loew's Paradise and Valencia Theaters in New York, Loew's State in Newark, N. J., then back to Manhattan for a week at Loew's Metropolitan, a week at the Palace and thence to the Palace Theater in Chicago and Loew's palatial Fox Theater in Detroit, Mich., now under the management of Jack Hurford, former assistant manager of Loew's Fox in this city.

Another Old Capital Manager.

For the matter of that, Loew's Valencia is managed by Harry Crull, another former manager of Loew's Fox here, transferred to London and then brought back to America, as Charlie Raymond, former managing director of the Rialto, came up from Johannesburg, South Africa, to carry on for a second trick in the British capital.

One more week will be booked later to complete the eight.

While Evelyn Tyner was one of the stellar lights of the 1932 "Going Native" revue at the Fox, she also was one of the company's mainstays in last year's production put on by Gene Ford, then a production manager of the Capitol Theater, on Broadway, but now manager of the local F-street house. The brilliant promise Miss Tyner's virtuosity at the keyboard held out then is substantiated by the recognition of her talent expressed by the present bookings.

It is believed by Mr. Ford and others concerned in the preparation of a "Going Native" revue for 1935, that this promotion of Tyner and Hazlett to the rank of real professionals will have a stimulating effect upon the recruiting of talent for the new production, which will be inaugurated with a series of auditions beginning July 1.

Speaking of this year's third edition of the "All-Washington Revue," conveniently dubbed "Going Native," which is to become an annual fixture in the Loew houses, a considerable number of printed applications for auditions were received from the Loew executive offices yesterday by this desk. The application takes the form of a pertinent questionnaire, containing 22 interrogations bearing directly upon the applicant's eligibility to take part in the revue. As previously announced in this space—Tuesday morning, if memory serves—those accepted and actually appearing in the show will be paid professional salaries. Application blanks will be doled out by this column upon request as long as they last, following which it no doubt will be an easy matter to secure more! Step right up, this may be the opening wedge to some such bookings as have just come to Tyner and Hazlett. Who knows?

Weading Out a Hit!

One by one, last season's New York hits fold up for the summer. On Saturday night of this week, "Ceiling Zero," the Frank Wead melodrama that first saw the footlights in the National Theater here, will desert the Music Box Theater in Gotham for a hot-weather respite preceding its London opening in the fall.

Osgood Perkins, John Litel and Joseph Downing, of the cast, are reported to have been invited to visit Hollywood in the interim to pick up a little change on the movie lots.

In the meantime the play will be available for summer stock companies and the Warner Brothers soon will undertake to translate it into as good a picture as it was stage play—which, incidentally, was very, very good, indeed.

Movie Money Talks!

It will be recalled that while Brock Pemberton was the "front man," credited with the sagacious production of "Ceiling Zero," it has been an open secret since the day the play went into rehearsal that Warner Brothers money was back of the project. So, of course, they have the motion-picture rights, just as they have to that amazingly facile farce, "Three Men on a Horse," which also made its first start on the National stage, with Alex Yokel as its ostensible backer.

Alex, fortunately, owned a big enough piece of the production to net himself a sizable fortune out of its eventual clean-up. When it went into New York to open, he had 20 cents in his pocket and nothing in the bank, according to reliable report.

Show-business!

Last night, at 7:45 by the clock, the box-office line at RKO-Keith's extended down Fifteenth street almost to F. Wednesday night, at the premiere Washington screening of "Becky Sharp," the first all-color feature picture photographed by the newly developed Technicolor three-tone process, providing all the colors in the spectrum, the line curled around the corner in the opposite direction into G street and extended almost to the stage-entrance alley, halfway down the block.

Manager Hardy Meakin whispers to me confidentially over the late Mr. Alexander Graham Bell's convenient contraption that yesterday's attendance and receipts exceeded those of the first full day's projection of "Roberta," heretofore one of the theater's record holders.

The same thing is going on over in New York, where by virtue of a first week grossing almost $100,000, "Becky" is being held for a second week at the Radio City Music Hall. It may not be an absolutely perfect color job, but it is such a startlingly beautiful revelation of what may be expected of the new medium that it will do nicely until the perfect one comes along. And don't let anyone tell you different!

Van Is Now in the Van.

Vera Van, Columbia's "velvet-voiced blues singer," will appear on the stage of the Earle Theater for a week of personal appearances, beginning Friday, June 28, a week from today.

Miss Van, who made her radio debut over Station KFI in Los Angeles, I am reminded by Mr. La Falce, of the Warner offices, and so is a graduate of the "California Melodies" program which served as the network cradle of such eminents as Bing Crosby, the Boswell Sisters and John P. Medbury, the humorous verbal acrobat.

On the same stage bill will be the 32 original Roxyettes, who return to the rostrum on which they already have scored resoundingly. They will be seen in new routines.

Joe E. Brown will be the pictured star that week in "Alibi Ike," a film version of one of the late Ring Lardner's funniest baseball yarns.

Shriner and Professor Phil Lampkin, the fork-handed rattan swisher of the excellent orchestra occupying the pit at Loew's Fox, is in a quandary. He is also "in" a ring. The occasion of Shriner and Professor Phil Lampkin's discomfiture is the recent receipt, through the instrumentality of one of Mr. Farley's gray-clad itinerants, of an exceedingly handsome, hammered-silver Indian ring mailed to him locally and anonymously by a "devotee of fine music."

This unknown admirer's anxiety to hear "Paradise" played soon by the Fox orchestra, Shriner and Professor Phil Lampkin wishes to make clear will be acceded to at an early date. But his main enthusiasm, one gathers, is over the ring and the sentiments which accompanied it and now are locked in the capacious recesses of Shriner and Professor Phil Lampkin's thumping heart.

He has appealed to the dramatic desks to help make this known to his bashful benefactor. Please leave phone number on slip of paper in the hollow of the old stump standing beside the wishing well next the honeysuckle vine!

Films of Negro Life.

"Life Is Real," a Universal picture produced in England as a screen vehicle for Nina Mae McKinley, America's celebrated colored musical comedy star, will be accorded its American premiere at the Royal Theater in Baltimore on Friday, June 28, and following a week's engagement there will be displayed in Washington.

With the presentation of this picture, International Road Shows, Inc., of New York City, exclusive distributors in this country of certain foreign-made films, are inaugurating a policy which will include the production of eight pictures to be made in this country with outstanding colored artists as stars. Such celebrities as Ethel Waters, "Bill" Robinson, the Mills Brothers, Paul Robeson, Cab Calloway and Duke Ellington are being considered for leading roles.

The project has been arranged through the co-operation of Saverio Gugliotta, New York film executive, formerly engaged in the importation of Italian language pictures. His activities in this direction have been motivated by a growing demand for better pictures depicting the life of the Negro.

Constance Connor Brown, director of Washington's Studio of Theater Arts, spent last week in Ithaca, N. Y., assisting with the Cornell University Dramatic Club's final production of the season. The play was Nicolas Evreinov's much-discussed drama of "The Chief Thing." Miss Brown, for three years, was a member of the directorial staff of the Cornell Theater.

She now has proceeded to Glenora-on-Lake-Seneca, where she will open the summer session of the Studio of Theater Arts the first week in July. A number of her Washington students in last year's studio classes will go to Glenora for the eight-week course, where they will be joined by a limited number of students from other cities.

Gratefully Acknowledged.

I wish to acknowledge with grateful appreciation an autographed copy of Miss Eva Le Gallienne's enticing book, "At 33" (Longmans, Green & Co.), just handed me, as this is written, by a handsome young uniformed emissary from the Fox, where Miss Le Gallienne makes the noble experiment, beginning today, of playing her first engagement in a motion-picture theater in Shakespeare.

Throughout the current week, as, of course, you know, she will be seen in the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet," as the distinguished major attraction of a bill which in its entirety seems to offer a strange diversity of attractions.

A cursory glance through the pages of "At 33" causes me to suspect that it will supersede two or three other volumes, book-marked about in their middles, now reclining on a certain library table out Gallatin street way. They can wait.

There is more interesting romance in achievement—and thanks, again.

Booked last night at 9:30 o'clock, the official motion pictures showing the full 15 rounds of the Jimmy Braddock-Max Baer upset for the heavyweight championship of the world, will begin a 9-day engagement at the State Theater, Bethesda, Md., this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The fight pictures will be in addition to the regular program of feature and short-reel pictures throughout the nine days of its Bethesda showing. They will be put on today at 2, 3:55, 5:50, 7:45, 9:40 and 11:30 p. m., as an extra added attraction with "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," by Charles Dickens.

Postman-Blew-Whistle Note.

No hammered-silver, Indian ring came through the mail, but there did arrive a pretty postage-card, showing the Convention Hall and sad, sea waves at Atlantic City, from Matt Mannix, musical director at Col. Jimmy Lake's Gayety, who expressed a determination to this column not so long ago to leave on an extended vacation as soon as his 42-week season had ended. His pretty postage-card reads as follows: "Cold as the devil here. Regards. Matt Mannix."

Maestro Mannix seems to be getting his characters in history just a little scrambled. Santa Claus must be the guy he meant the Atlantic City weather is as cold as!

Arts Club

"THE JOKE ON LA JOCONDE." The Arts Club of Washington presents a comedy in a prologue and two scenes by Anne Bradbury Peebles, directed by Pauline Stanley, preceded by four dances by Judy Lyeth and a dramatic reading by Jean Sellars, with musical accompaniment by Katherine Rousee. Reviewed Thursday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Another of the Arts Club's short and charming informal garden parties was offered last evening when Anne Bradbury Peeble's one-act comedy-drama of cross purposes and posings, "The Joke on La Joconde," was presented under a wide and starry sky.

Preceding the play, which was directed by Pauline Stanley, late of the Community Theaters of Kansas, Judy Lyeth was seen in four delightful dances, done to "Blue Danube Waltz" (Strauss), "Masks" (Jonassen), "Serenata" (Moszkowski), and "Scarf Dance" (Chopin). Between Miss Lyeth's second and third numbers, Jean Sellars read a Sicilian dialect poem, with background music of "Funiculi-Funicula."

Is Frothy Comedy.

"The Joke on La Joconde" is a frothy bit of amusement and relates a bit of posing by one Lucy Wardlaw, who won a "living tableau" contest with a representation of Leonardo DaVinci's famed "Mona Lisa" ("La Joconde" in France). Abner and Ursula lay plans with Adriano to break Lucy of the impersonation, but finally find themselves victims of their own plotting.

Virginia True made a truly remarkable Mona Lisa—smile and all—with the tableau (introduced by William S. Hepner) perhaps even better than her performance in the two scenes which followed. Isham Keith and Margaret Kearney proved to be good "plotters" even if it did not work out as they had hoped. Others appearing were Mary Quimby, Madame Garzia, Charles Pentz, Andrew Dent and Virginia Harrison.

They Appear on Today's Screen

Broadway

By Ed Sullivan

Broadway Looking Glass

New York, June 21.

The Silver Slipper was one of the more colorful Broadway night clubs of the prohibition era, and it served as a model, I think, for the night club that was portrayed in "Broadway," the smash hit melodrama of the 1926 season . . . The Silver Slipper occupied the tiny island of land on West Forty-eighth street, that stands as a buffer between Seventh avenue and Broadway . . . It was built in the tradition of the period, the cellar era of night clubs, and you entered it by descending two flights of stairs . . . Nowadays, the night clubs seek height, with the Rockefeller Rainbow Room hitting a new high, but in those days, night clubs were generally tucked away in cellars because the rental was cheaper . . . Here it was in the old days that prohibition agents often staged their forays, and then one cold morning, the Federals tacked a plaster on the Silver Slipper door that closed it for keeps.

• • • •

However, the Slipper alumni still make news . . . Bill Duffy, who owned the place, is the manager of Primo Carnera . . . Ruby Keeler, who danced there with a gold cross jiggling up and down in the hollow of her neck, can be seen on local screens in "Go Into Your Dance" . . . Dan Healy, who was the master of ceremonies, will start a new radio series, and next week, opens in a Broadway club . . . Dolores Farris, who costarred with Ruby Keeler, is the town's outstanding acrobatic toe dancer . . . Jack White, who worked with Healy, is a smash hit at his West Fifty-second street place . . . Joe Gould, who used to occupy a ringside pew at the Silver Slipper, is the manager of James J. Braddock, the heavyweight champion of the world . . . Patricia Gruyere, one of the dancers, is Mrs. Damon Runyon.

• • • •

Mention of Braddock brings to mind an interesting investigation which the circulation manager of a New York newspaper carried out after the Baer-Braddock fight . . . With the whole town curious as to the decline and fall of Baer, and part of the populace hinting that Baer's group had benefited by a huge gambling coup, the circulation manager heated up the wires . . . He wanted to find out if money had been bet on Braddock in Kansas City, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, Washington, for in a gambling coup of any magnitude, the money would have to be spread over the entire country to avoid the battering down of the juicy odds . . . No money was bet on Braddock any place . . . Small bets were placed, but no important money showed up in any of these cities . . . The fight, as fought, was absolutely honest, and you can only assume now that Baer joined the Hollow Shell class originated by James J. Jeffries . . . He looked all right on the outside, but the bearings were burned out.

Specialists in their field are that small colony of girl singers who cater to the intelligentsia of the town by singing songs that are slightly "blue," which is vaudeville slang for off-color, risque. They make a good living at it, too. Greatest of them all is Sophie Tucker, who gets $3,500 a week. Most daring of them all, in the matter of material, the Tucker personality removes all the sting and offensiveness. She handles her lines with kid gloves. Marion Chase, who is at the Versailles, has been pulling down $650 a week for seasons. She is a Boston girl, discovered by Martin Beck in the last days of the Keith regime. Best known for her risque songs, highly sophisticated material, it was Miss Chase nevertheless who is responsible for the success of that loveliest of tunes: "April in Paris." The song was dead for several seasons when she brought it back to life.

• • • •

Risque Warbling Colony, includes Grace Hayes, who introduced the type of lyric that reads: "I stepped into his auto, though I knew I hadn't oughta, but I stepped into his auto, anyhow." She has earned as high as $1,000 a week. Frances Maddux, at the Savoy-Plaza, is in the $650 a week bracket, and makes extra money in recording these fairly naughty ditties. Nan Blakson, one of the best of all, works steadily and gets as high as $750 a week. Lita Grey Chaplin, with loads of personal charm backing up a valuable box office name, gets $1,250 a week. Dora Maughan, the Pittsburgher, never hit the $1,000 classification, but was close to it. Best of the newcomers is Vi Bradley, at the Normandie. Like the rest of her sisters, she started off at $150, jumped to $200, and she'll wind up in the $650-a-week class. Her "Temporarily" is the swingiest thing in town.

Notes: The Sid Smith-Lillian Bond wedding bells will ring within the week . . . Ritz Brothers, touted from Florida last winter by this reporter, were a smash hit at the Capitol in their two-week stay . . . Three-word description of Joe Louis, Detroit heavyweight: "The Sulky Senegambian" . . . Ada King marries Dudley Hughes next week . . . Dan Loper, N. B. C. band pilot, will wed Sylvan Kingsley . . . Mrs. Jerry Brady has won the flower championship at Doctors Hospital (she's feeling swell, too) . . . Temple, the girl-half of the Hollywood ballroom team, is a looker (she resembles Yolanda) . . . John Warburton, of flickers, will take Lucille Morrison to the preacher . . . Jean Muir's new lunch-buyer is Jean Negulesco, Elissa Landi's ex-boy friend . . . Tip to Carl Laemmle: If you'll check your files, you'll find a story, "Habit," written by Darryl Zanuck back in 1922 . . . He got $750 for it.

Postlude

By Ray C. B. Brown.

Summer opening of the Sylvan Theater by the United States Army Band (Lieut. Thomas F. Darcy, director) and the Estelle Wentworth Opera Group. Half-hour program of light music, followed by a performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado," directed by Estelle Wentworth. Principal roles sung by Alma Harris, Margaret Horn, Alice Deckman, Mildred Sherman, Ray Baine, Ira Meyer, Harry Yeide, Harry Crowe and Walter Berry.

Delayed for one day by inclement weather, the opening of the Sylvan Theater for the summer series of entertainments fell upon an evening as mild and temperate as could have been desired. The beginning of the band concert, as the twilight slowly gave way to dusk, found a sizeable audience assembled on the greensward, and late-comers augmented the ranks while the darkness thickened. By the time that Gilbert's characters in the lilting measures of Sullivan's music started to satirize Caucasian civilization under the guise of a Nipponese plot, fireflies were flashing here and there to provide the touch of realism which stage managers were obliged to simulate indoors.

Only three months ago occurred the fiftieth anniversary of the first performance of "The Mikado," and last night's performance may well be considered a celebration of that happy event. Half a century is a mere nothing in the life of a musical composition, provided that its creator endowed it with melodic and rhythmic vitality. Once this vitality has been imparted, comic opera stands as good a chance of survival as its serious grand cousin. The musical imagination of Arthur Sullivan matched the caustic wit of William Gilbert, and their best collaborations, of which "The Mikado" is one, bid fair to maintain their popularity as long as music is one of man's enjoyments.

Washington audiences are familiar with the manner in which the Estelle Wentworth Opera Group presents this particular masterpiece, a manner more amateur than professional. The members of the company are true amateurs, however, in the zest with which they sing. This performance went very smoothly, and the stage management made the most of the picturesque possibilities of the multi-colored costumes.

Carroll County Tax Rate Goes Up Ten Cents

Increase in School Budget Forces Boost of Levy to $1.10 Per $100.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Westminster, Md., June 21.—An increase of 10 cents in the Carroll County tax rate was announced today by the county commissioners who have fixed the rate for the fiscal year beginning July 1 at $1.10 per $100 assessed valuation.

The increase, according to the commissioners, was made necessary because of an additional $44,000 allowed in the school budget to finance construction of the Winfield Elementary School, and half the cost of constructing a new high school at Mount Airy to replace the building recently destroyed by fire.

More than 67 cents of next year's taxes will be used for school purposes, the budget reveals. The school budget amounts to $272,391 as compared with $229,784 last year.

In addition to the increased school budget, the commissioners also have made provision to obtain Carroll County's share of State appropriations should funds for old-age pensions become available. It was pointed out that appropriations for a number of items in this year's budget have been decreased, and that the only item increased in addition to school appropriations was for the care of the insane, an appropriation of $13,500.

The commissioners asserted that instead of listing $98,000 in back taxes in the budget, the policy of the former board, this year's budget does not contemplate collection of taxes in arrears to meet expenses. It is the intention of the board, however, to collect back taxes and apply these funds toward reducing the county debt.

The new budget shows a slight increase in the assessable basis, placed at $36,719,884, and which will produce an income of $444,195.18.

Robert Thompson, 30, Found Dead on Rails

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Front Royal, Va., June 21.—The body of Robert Thompson, about 30, was found this morning lying along the tracks of the Southern Railway, near Linden, 7 miles east of Front Royal. It is believed that he was struck by an eastbound freight last night. Dr. D. M. Kipps, Warren County coroner, gave a verdict of accidental death.

Thompson is survived by his father, Robert Thompson, of Front Royal; two brothers, Grimm Thompson, of New York City, and George Thompson, of Alexandria, and a sister, Mrs. Rose Mills, of Alexandria.

Mr. Parker has been deputy sheriff and constable of his district for many years. For the last 30 years they have resided in Stephens City.

2 Held on Charge Of Owning Still

Cumberland, Md., June 21.—Charles Reed and Andrew Schellinberger, of Kempton, charged with possession of an unlicensed still, were placed in jail yesterday by United States Commissioner William A. Vandegrift in default of $500 bond each.

In April, Federal revenue agents raided a still in operation near Kempton and arrested Abe Paugh, who denied ownership and declared he was employed to look after the mash cooking.

Reed and Schellinberger were suspected of being financially interested in the still. They were found by Deputy Marshal Howard P. Loughrie while on a hunt for botanical specimens in Preston County, W. Va. Paugh was tried in Federal Court in May and was given four months in jail.

Legal Limit Is Sought For Whisky in Home

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Bristol, Va., June 21.—The Supreme Court of Virginia will be called upon to determine how much ABC whisky a person may keep in his home, it was indicated here yesterday when Carl Campbell appealed from a fine imposed on him by the Corporation Court here.

Judge Floyd Roberts fined Campbell $50 and costs on a charge that he maintained a common nuisance. Earlier in the day Campbell was tried in Police Court, and his place ordered padlocked. The charges were that he "stored more than one gallon of ABC whisky."

6 Virginia Cities Top Winchester in Building

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Winchester, Va., June 21.—It was announced today that Winchester ranks seventh among Virginia cities in value of building permits issued during last month and twenty-seventh among all the cities of the South Atlantic States. The aggregate of permits issued was $45,000.

City Manager Arthur M. Field declared the value of permits issued so far this year is $75,300 as compared to $30,598 for last year, and that applications for over $40,000 additional permits are pending.

Riegel Defeats Morris and Perry to Gain Southern Golf Final

Virginia Lad Will Meet McClure

Haas Is Eliminated by Former Louisiana Champion.

By Dillon Graham,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

RICHMOND, Va., June 21.—Author of a pair of stunning upsets—the elimination of both the medalist and a veteran former champion—young Bobby Riegel, of Richmond, today drove into the final round of the Southern Amateur golf tournament and will meet Edwin McClure, of Shreveport, La., tomorrow for the championship.

The 19-year-old University of Richmond golfer, playing in his first Southern, fired an eagle on the eighteenth hole this morning to whip Johnny Morris, the Birmingham youngster who set an all-time qualifying round record Wednesday, one up, and knocked off Sam Perry, the Birmingham veteran who was seeking his third Southern crown, 2 and 1, this afternoon.

McClure Defeats Haas.

It was McClure, 23-year-old former Louisiana champion, who escorted the defending champion, Fred Haas, jr., of New Orleans, to the sidelines, 2 and 1, after having disposed of another New Orleans boy, Vincent D'Antoni, on the nineteenth green in the quarter-finals.

Although he lost the first hole, Riegel put on a spurt that gave him a three-hole advantage through the sixth. He guarded his lead closely and carried it along to the fifteenth where he was trapped, and Perry got one back. But the holes were running out too fast, and the best Perry could do was to gain halves on the next two to give Riegel the victory on the seventeenth green.

McClure, an insurance salesman, who has won his State championship five times, won the first two holes from Haas, but the champion rallied to score birdies on the seventh and ninth, and faced the back stretch all square.

Haas Loses His Lead.

Haas, who has won only one of his four matches he has played against McClure over a period of several years, hung up another birdie on the tenth, but three-putted the eleventh to lose his lead.

Haas' iron on the short fourteenth was awry and McClure gained a one-hole advantage which he never relinquished, eliminating Haas on the seventeenth where Fred again failed to land on the short green.

Riegel and Morris put on a ding-dong battle in the quarter-finals that saw them play the second nine without a single hole being halved.

Morris was two up through the thirteenth, but Riegel caught up and they stepped to the last tee even again.

Riegel Gets Eagle.

Two booming shots placed Riegel four feet from the cup and he dropped the putt for an eagle.

McClure had just as hard a battle with D'Antoni. Even through the turn, McClure was two up after the thirteenth but a pair of three-putt greens put them on even terms again.

D'Antoni finally came out of a trap 10 feet from the cup to score a birdie on the eighteenth and send the match to extra holes. Both his drive and approach were wild and McClure's steady par four was good enough to win.

Even par for 12 holes, Haas disposed of Ross Puette, Richmond veteran, this morning, 7 and 6, while Perry was winning from another Richmonder, John Kerr, 4 and 3.

McClure, who was medalist a year ago at New Orleans, and was second low scorer this year, plays Riegel over the 36-hole route starting at 1 o'clock tomorrow.

Reds Buy Herman To Bolster Outfield

Veteran Needed to Offset Absence of Hafey, Pool.

By the Associated Press.

Cincinnati, June 21.—Cincinnati's Reds arranged today to get Babe Herman back again to bolster an outfield made shaky by the loss of Chick Hafey and Harlan Pool.

General Manager Larry MacPhail bought Herman from the Pittsburgh Pirates for "straight cash" and immediate delivery. How much was agreed on in the trade was not disclosed, but fandom wagered it was nothing like the $75,000 and four players for which the Chicago Cubs got him from the Reds in 1933.

Linke, Burke Due to Face Detroit

By Shirley Povich,
A Staff Correspondent.

CLEVELAND, June 21.—Under cover of rain and darkness, Washington retreated in good order from Cleveland this evening after averting another battle with the Indians this afternoon, which is the closest thing to a winning streak that the Nats have accomplished since they sallied into the West.

Manager Bucky Harris tomorrow will attempt to rally his badly demoralized pitching staff for the five-game series at Detroit. The Washington pitching, which has gone from worse to worst since the team left the Capital, will be represented tomorrow in the double-header with the Tigers by Bobby Burke and Ed Linke, which should give you an idea how hard-pressed Harris is for pitchers.

Burke hasn't started and won a game in five weeks, but Harris has no alternative but to pitch him tomorrow. Henry Coppola has a sore arm, Earl Whitehill and Bump Hadley are fagged, Belve Bean is throwing nothing but home-run balls, Jack Russell is pitching and ducking in the same motion, Leon Pettit is as wild as a pie-eyed Indian, and Ed Linke was being saved, apparently for the bachelors' cotillion.

So, we have Burke and Linke.

Slugging Wasted.

The pity is, if I may be permitted to go sentimental, that the Nats are wasting the greatest splurge of hitting that ever marked a Washington ball club; the team has averaged 14 hits and eight runs throughout its Western venture and has lost 6 of its 11 games.

Second in team batting, with an average of .284, only a point behind the Athletics, the Nats are in sixth place, 11 games behind the lead and still retreating with great rapidity; Harris is on the point of kidnaping a pitcher, and to heck with the G-men and the Lindbergh law.

There isn't the faintest hope that the Nats pitching staff will be bolstered soon. On neither of the Washington farms, Chattanooga and Albany, is there a pitcher deemed worthy of even a try-out unless you except old Alex McColl, and Chattanooga doesn't want to give him up.

The sensational rookie center fielder of the Nats, who is boasting a batting average of .305 and fielding like a reproduction of Tris Speaker, will not rejoin the club until it returns to New York next Tuesday.

Powell's condition was vastly improved today, but Trainer Mike Martin ordered his return to Washington as a precautionary measure. He is still unable to put more than mild weight on his right leg and he still suffers cramps in his calf.

Powell was ordered to the Capital despite his protests that he would be able to play in Detroit. He was forbidden to return by plane in view of his high value to the team.

The young outfielder figured in a wild scene at Lakeside Hospital yesterday when a sudden nerve spasm in his leg left him again half-crazed with pain. Leaping from his bed, sans nether garments, he hopped about the corridors for several minutes, sending convalescing patients scurrying into their rooms in mingled surprise and shock. Internes returned Powell to his room, where he was given a sedative.

Phils Rout Paul Dean Win From Cards, 8-3

Rowe Blanks Yanks for Detroit

'Schoolboy' Is in Rare Form to Subdue Leaders, 7-0.

6-Game Victory Streak of New Yorkers Comes to End.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, June 21.—Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, continuing his return to the great form he showed last season in leading the Tigers to the American League pennant, turned in his third straight winning performance today when he shut out the Yankees, 7 to 0, to end the league leaders' six-game winning streak.

Following up three-hit and six-hit performances in his last two starts, Rowe limited the Yanks to four hits, walked only three and struck out seven, while the Tiger batsmen were pounding the offerings of Charley Ruffing, Walter Brown and Jimmy Deshong for 11 blows.

Fans Three in a Row.

The "Schoolboy" looked more like the Rowe of last season than at any time this year. He seldom was behind a batter, and reached his peak in the fourth inning when he fanned Ben Chapman, Lou Gehrig and Tony Lazzeri, the heart of the Yankee batting order, in succession.

Ruffing was fairly effective until the sixth inning, although he was nicked for a run in each of the first two innings. Then he blew up with a loud bang after Charley Gehringer socked a home run to start the inning and five Tigers crossed the plate before Brown finally retired the side.

Chisox Defeat Macks, Gain 2d Place

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Vernon Kennedy, freshman right-hander, regained second place for the White Sox today by pitching and hitting them to a 5-to-3 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in the third and rubber game of the series.

Kennedy pitched steady seven-hit ball. Jim Foxx hit his thirteenth homer with none on in the ninth.

Kennedy singled in his first two trips to the plate to drive in Manager Jimmie Dykes, who had hit ahead of him each time, with the first two Sox runs and later scored the next two Chicago runs himself.

College Stars Await Annual Golf Tourney

A RECORD-BREAKING field of 126 golfers from 30 colleges and universities is entered in the National Intercollegiate Golf championship which opens Monday at Congressional Country Club, according to pairings and starting times released last night by the United States Golf Association.

The field exceeds by three the number that participated in the Intercollegiates last year at Cleveland.

Fred Haas, jr., New Orleans youth who was eliminated in the Southern Golf tournament yesterday at Richmond, will strive for the collegiate crown, he announced last night. Haas will arrive in Washington this morning for a practice round at Congressional.

Colleges entering full teams are Buffalo, Colgate, Georgia Tech, George Washington, Georgetown, Hamilton, Michigan, Notre Dame, North Carolina, Northwestern, Navy, Oklahoma, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Stanford, Texas, Washington (St. Louis), Wooster (Ohio) and Yale.

Bowdoin, College of Charleston, S. C., Emory, Louisiana State, Maryland, Penn Military College, Purdue, St. Louis, Syracuse and Williams will have representatives in the individual play.

Yates Defends Title.

Charlie Yates, of Georgia Tech, defending champion, is paired with Johnny Banks, of Notre Dame, at 12:30. Johnny Fischer, of Michigan, 1932 titleholder, is paired with Joe Lynch, Georgetown captain, at noon. Walter Emery, of Oklahoma, 1933 winner, goes off at 10 with H. L. Bier, of Penn State, Freddie Haas, Louisiana State star, and Jack Hoerner, of Stanford, tee off at 1 p. m. Ed White, Texas captain, and Winifred Day, of Notre Dame, play at 11 o'clock. Harry Ghandy, of Oklahoma, and Fred Towne, of Yale, play at 10:30.

At least 75 of the challengers for Yates' crown were on the scene yesterday, and went through brisk workouts. Setting the pace was Morris Erskine, up-and-coming Stanford golfer, who cracked out a 69, three under par, with a 34 on the outgoing nine. Don Edwards, a teammate, shot a 70. Ed White, of Texas, had 72, as did Jack Molloy, of Princeton; Berrien Moore, of Georgia Tech, and Charlie Dannals, of Georgia Tech.

Erskine is not a regular on the Stanford team, but he has been do-

Brother Beats Junior Golf Champion

Harvey Johnson, of Columbia, reached the semifinals by defeating J. A. Jones, of Indian Spring.

Johnson and Dettweiler will clash in one semifinal this morning, and Buddy Pope, of Columbia, conqueror of Byrne Burns, of Congressional, and Elwood Berkley, of Indian Spring, will meet Billy Shea.

Results:

Billy Dettweiler (Congressional) defeated Burt Yount (Army-Navy), 7 and 5; Bill Kimball (Columbia) defeated Ralph Bogart (Army-Navy), 1 up; Buddy Bowie (Columbia) defeated Herbie Shannon (Columbia), 5 and 3; Harvey Johnson (Columbia) defeated J. A. Jones (Indian Spring), 6 and 5; Buddy Pope (Columbia) defeated Elwood Berkley (Indian Spring) by default; Byrne Burns (Congressional) defeated Eric King (Army-Navy), 1 up, 19 holes; Jim Brownell (Manor) defeated Bobby Brownell (Manor), 5 and 4; Billy Shea (Congressional) defeated Jim Thompson (Columbia), 8 and 6.

Dettweiler defeated Kimball 5 and 4; Johnson defeated Bowie, 3 and 2; Pope defeated Burns, 6 and 5; Shea defeated J. Brownell, 6 and 4.

Greene Faces Caldwell in Golf Final

Special Dispatch to The Post.

BALTIMORE, June 21.—Ernie Caldwell, of Hillendale, homebred golfer, who has been three times a runner-up but never a champion, will meet Hickman Greene, of Manor Club, who hails from the Louisiana domain of Huey Long, in the 36-hole final tomorrow for the Maryland State Golf Association's 1935 amateur championship. They earned the right handily in the semi-finals today at Five Farms.

Caldwell eliminated Eddie Semmler, his club mate, 3 and 2, while Greene conquered Spencer Overton, Rolling Road, 2 and 1. Neither match carried the thrills that the morning rounds offered, for both favorites never were down to their opponents at any time.

Semmler did Caldwell the favor of removing Levi Yoder, medalist from Indian Spring, in the morning. The score was 2 and 1. Greene had to struggle all the way and through an extra hole besides to eliminate Voley Burnett, from Indian Spring. Caldwell had no difficulty with Don Miller, of the host club, 4 and 3, while Overton needed the last hole to beat Dave Crook, 1 up.

No Birdies.

Green and Overton had a peculiar match in that neither made a birdie anywhere. The Louisianan, who improved his game while attending the State University at Baton Rouge, his home city, this winter, had a 36 going out, playing every hole in par but the second, where he took a 5. This was good enough for a 4-up lead at the turn, for Overton did not have a winning hole on the outward nine. On the way back, however, it was the Rolling Road entrant's chance, and Greene did not win a hole of the second nine. Overton, however, took only the eleventh and thirteenth, and four successive halves thereafter closed him out on the seventeenth green.

Green made a story-book shot on the fourteenth. His drive was trapped on the left-hand side, and the series of cross-fairway bunkers some 100 yards ahead prevented a safety shot of any value. So he wound up with a spoon, took the ball neatly off the sand and cannoned it to within pitching distance of the green. Overton's second was in the deep rough, and his iron shot to the green was nearly as remarkable. They halved in par 5s.

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., June 21.—An old gray mare which looks as if she had been white before she rolled in a coal bin, stole the racing show here this afternoon when she gained enough momentum in the stretch to take the day's feature race. The old lady, Clifton's Marie, collared Stool Pigeon in the last 50 yards and won going away by half a length. Third in the field of seven was Sunny Susan.

Clifton's Marie was always a factor in the race although the farther the field went the more important figure she became. Handled by Jockey R. Booker, the diminutive colored rider, Clifton's Marie was third at the first turn in the 5 furlong test. Stool Pigeon, the even-money favorite, broke on top and went winging along urged by Jockey J. Mann.

On the swing for the stretch, Clifton's Marie moved up, but Stool Pigeon seemed to have something left. Both riders went to their whips when they had straightened out their mounts for the final dash. Stool Pigeon held his advantage until midway of the stretch, where Clifton's Marie put on the steam that was to decide.

The track was lightning fast for the first time in several days and the feature field was clocked in 1:01 1-5. Clifton's Marie was a $17 mutuel.

Double Is Short.

The daily double resulted in a $52 mutuel, one of the shortest on the display board after Miss Toucan won the first race at an $11 payoff. The finishing touches were put on the "double" by Evening Chimes, a $6.60 betting proposition.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WEE TUNE, $4.40, $3.20, $2.80; NIPANTUCK, $6.40, $4.50; DOVE OF PEACE, $4.10.

WEE TUNE, prominent from the start and under slight restraint while following the pace, wore down NIPANTUCK when reaching the stretch and drew out steadily in the last three-sixteenths. NIPANTUCK displayed good early speed, the stout stretch withstood repeated bids from DOVE OF PEACE and though continuing gamely to the end was no match for the winner. DOVE OF PEACE, well placed and hard ridden throughout, weakened slightly in the stretch run. QUEEN VIC went evenly throughout. GIFTED LADY came with a belated rush through the stretch.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:12. Off at 4:13½. Winner, A. Tipton's b. g. (5), by High Cloud—Lassie. Trained by G. W. Ogle. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $70; fourth, $30. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:13 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SKY HAVEN, $6.40, $3.50, $2.80; CHATTERFOL, $5.80, $3.50; GOLDEN VEIN, $2.80.

SKY HAVEN, away fast, was taken in hand for the first three furlongs, began moving up steadily thereafter, swung to the outside in the stretch, wore down the leaders and drew out fast in the closing furlong. CHATTERFOL, prominently placed from the start, fought it out with CHAIN, and continued in determined fashion to the end. GOLDEN VEIN improved his position gradually and, saving ground in the stretch, closed with good energy. CHAIN displayed good speed, was unable to shake off CHATTERFOL, and faltered in the last sixteenth.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 4:40. Off at 4:43. Winner, H. T. Archibald's br. f. (3), by Wesley Hogan—Candy Lady. Trained by G. L. Arvin. Value to winner, $900; second, $180; third, $85; fourth, $35. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47, 1:13 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CANDY MAID, $5.00, $2.90, $2.20; CUTIE FACE, $3.70, $2.40; CLOUD SWEEPER, $2.30.

CANDY MAID, quickest to begin, drew clear in the first quarter-mile, was steadied along under easy restraint, increased her lead when reaching the stretch, but had to be hard ridden at the end to stall off CUTIE FACE. The latter, in closest attendance of the pace, dropped back slightly after leaving the back stretch, came willingly in the drive and was overtaking the winner rapidly at the end. CLOUD SWEEPER, restrained in pursuit of the pace, moved up on the inside midway of the turn, was placed under punishment, but was unable to keep up in closing stages. JOHN'S BIRTHDAY never prominent.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 5:12. Off at 5:13. Winner, Saddle Spur Stable's b. g. (5), by Espino—Catnkin. Trained by J. R. Gregory. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $70; fourth, $30. Time, 0:22 3-5, 0:46, 1:13 4-5, 1:42 2-5, 1:48.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CATINO, $4.50, $2.80, $2.40; OLAMAY, $3.00, $2.50; OUR ROSE, $3.10.

CATINO, well placed from the start, moved up on the outside down the back stretch, went to the front before reaching the half-mile ground and drew into a good lead. He began tiring in the last sixteenth and Fels, watching OUR ROSE on the outside, failed to see OLAMAY on the inside and barely lasted long enough. OLAMAY began moving up leaving the back stretch, closed stoutly in the stretch and would have been the winner in another stride. OUR ROSE took command in the run to the first turn, was rated along in front and came willingly under punishment in the stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:43½. Off at 5:43½. Winner, W. H. Gallagher's ch. g. (5), by Carlaris—Sonatind. Trained by J. L. Donovan. Value to winner, $900; second, $180; third, $85; fourth, $35. Time, 0:24, 0:49 2-5, 1:15 2-5, 1:42 3-5, 1:49 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CARSONO, $5.70, $3.30, $2.70; OLD JUDGE, $5.70, $3.50; GENERAL LEJEUNE, $3.10.

CARSONO, permitted to remain off the pace for the first five furlongs, began moving up gradually thereafter and, closing stoutly, outlasted OLD JUDGE at the end. The latter, in closest attendance of the pace while racing restrained, moved up in the stretch and assumed a slight lead, but was unable to withstand the winner. GENERAL LEJEUNE showed good speed throughout, wore down LUCK IN for the command, but was unable to keep pace with the leaders in the drive. BOOCAP was outrun early.

Miss Faunce Defeats Miss Houghton to Retain D. C. Golf Title

Manor Star Is Victor, 4and2

By Dave Herman.

A CHAMPION made a successful defense of her title yesterday as Miss Winifred Faunce, of Manor, defeated Miss Elizabeth Houghton, of Chevy Chase, 4 and 2, in the finals of the District Women's Golf Tournament at Indian Spring Country Club.

In retaining her title Miss Faunce won her first match from Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, of Chevy Chase, easily. She eliminated the Kenwood star, Virginia Pope, in her second, and warded off a last nine challenge by Mrs. Roland Mackenzie to win her semifinals.

The titleholder played golf yesterday that would have done honor to District male stars engaging in a finals. Out in 40, standing three up, she played the next seven holes in only three over orthodox figures, needing par in for a 79.

Makes Recoveries.

Some brilliant recoveries and expert putting enabled the Manor golfer to sweep to her second consecutive title and emulate the two-time triumph of Mrs. Meckley, of Indian Spring, who lost in the quarter-finals.

That her putter was a potent factor is evidenced by the fact that Miss Faunce did not three putt a single green. She had 15 putts on the first nine, and used 11 for the next seven holes.

Miss Faunce did not yield a single hole on the first nine. She took the second to go one up, and chipped dead for her par four and win on the third. They halved the next four holes, Miss Houghton making a fine recovery after hitting her tee shot out of bounds on the fourth. Although trapped on her second, Miss Faunce exploded out nicely to within six feet of the eighth pin, and sank her putt for a par four to Miss Houghton's five to win the hole and go three up. They halved the ninth.

Almost a Comeback.

Miss Houghton captured the 10th with a par to a five, and Miss Faunce trundled in a 15-footer for a par and win on the 11th. Trapped on her second, Miss Faunce became four up again by taking the 12th. Miss Houghton's best was a six, as her drive hit the rough.

It looked as though Miss Houghton was going to stage a real comeback, for on the 13th, with both on the green in two, the Chevy Chase golfer went boldly for the pin from 20 feet and dropped her putt for a birdie three for her second win of the day—incidentally the only other hole she won.

Miss Houghton needed par in for an 89.

In the consolations, Mrs. Jack Scott of Congressional shot an 84 to defeat Miss Ellen Kincaid, of Beaver Dam, 3 and 2. Miss Kincaid had an 87.

Thompson Will Manage Keyser Baseball Club

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cumberland, Md., June 21.—Joseph Thompson has been elected manager of the Keyser Golden Knights Baseball Club of the Cumberland and Georges Creek League, and will take charge of the undefeated team immediately, it was announced last night.

Thompson succeeds the late Arthur "Bob" Wilt, who was fatally injured last week in an automobile accident. The Keyser team has won seven consecutive games, six in a row while Wilt was managing the club.

Joe Carbucio will serve as Thompson's assistant.

Warrenton Pony Show Opens Today

375 Entered in Junior Hunt Affair.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Warrenton, Va., June 21.—Featured by an entry list of 375, with 99 ponies competing, and three championships being stoutly contested, the sixteenth annual Warrenton Junior Hunt Horse Show (formerly the Warrenton Pony Show) will be held tomorrow, starting at 9 a. m. The exhibition will take place at the Warrenton horse show grounds, with T. H. Somerville and Hamilton Somerville, of Montpelier, Va., judging the events.

The Sunset Challenge Plate, presented by the late J. Temple Gwathmey, jr., of New York, for side saddle, will be a heated contest between Rives Brothers, of Cobham, Va., and Mrs. Samuel Wagner 3d, of Philadelphia, formerly Miss Mae Ferneyhough, of Warrenton, each having won the cup twice. The trophy must be won three times by the same owners. The Blanche Ortman Challenge Cup and the Harry Plumb Cup also must be won three times, and likewise have been won twice by the same exhibitors, Miss Edna Roth, of Rockville, and L. R. Colbert, Fredericksburg, are stout contenders for the championship award. Miss Nancy Elizabeth Nesbit has twice won the championship cup, her Cathode Ray, was the last entry to carry the trophy to Alwington Stables.

Harvard - Yale Crew Race Is Postponed

Varsities, Balked by Rough Water, May Vie Today; Yale Wins Prelims.

By the Associated Press.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 21. For the first time in 37 years, the great, colorful throng at the annual regatta of Harvard and Yale, headed by the Nation's President and his family, were turned away in disappointment tonight as rough water on the historic Thames caused postponement of the 4-mile varsity climax.

The race will be rowed tomorrow morning at 9:30 (Eastern standard time).

The course will be laid upstream from the railroad bridge, past the submarine base to Bartletts Cove, far up the river. This is half of the course over which Yale's freshmen and junior varsity eights rowed to two narrow victories in the preliminary races this morning. Tonight's race was to have been rowed down stream.

The huge observation train, 35 carloads of gaily bedecked, cheering persons in bleachers atop flat cars, had wound its excited way up the river to the cove for the scheduled start at 6 p. m. (Eastern standard time).

President on the Scene.

Out on the river President Roosevelt, in his same battered old lucky fishing hat that failed to bring good luck this morning to his son, Franklin, jr., in the Harvard junior varsity boat, rode on the bow of the referee's boat as it darted back and forth between Red Top and Gales Ferry, where the rival crews are housed.

Then in a space of a few minutes the calm surface of the Thames was ruffled by a steadily increasing upstream breeze from the southeast. It hit the ebb tide, just beginning to flow fast and free. The water kicked up and inside of a few more minutes rowing conditions were impossible.

The Yale freshmen, in a stirring finish, nipped Harvard by a few feet in the first race of the seventy-third regatta, and in the junior varsity duel that followed Harvard failed by the same margin to catch the Eli boatload at the finish.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., rowed No. 4 in the Harvard shell, and as his father watched from the prow of the referee's boat, the youngster gave up his shirt to the Yale No. 4.

Leaders in Valley Lose to Kann Team

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Culpeper, Va., June 21.—Culpeper Athletic Club, leader in the Valley League, with five victories and no defeats, succumbed to a 3-to-1 loss here this afternoon by Kann's department store team, of Washington, "Dutch" Gaum, on the mound for the visitors, allowed the locals three hits, two of the scratch variety.

Waugh, of Culpeper, gave eight singles, and caused nine visitors to die with strikeouts. Lacey was the outstanding player for Culpeper. Culpeper goes to Front Royal for a league game tomorrow.

Marshall Polo Team Schedules 2 Games

Hagerstown, Md., June 20.—The Marshall polo team of Marshall, Va., will meet the Washington County Polo Club at Fenton field, Williamsport in two games, one Saturday afternoon and the second Sunday afternoon.

The local team has won its last two games from the Quantico Marines and the Fort Humphries Engineers.

Omaha Faces King Saxon In Purse

3-Year-Old Runs Today Against Mile Ace at Aqueduct.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Two champions of the turf, William Woodward's Omaha, the 3-year-old titleholder, and C. H. Knebelcamp's King Saxon, ace of the milers, will meet at a compromise distance tomorrow when they match strides in the 1⅛-mile $10,000 Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct.

Six others also have been named for the historic race, but it figures to be strictly a duel betwen Omaha, stpping out of his division for the first time, and the King, which has won 14 of his last 16 starts in rising from the ranks of the plater. In the pre-race betting the winner of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness, and Belmont stakes was a slight choice at 6 to 5 with King Saxon quoted at 8 to 5.

Omaha is at his best at longer distances, while The King has indicated that he does not like to run over a mile. His only defeat of the season was in the 1¼ miles of the Suburban Handicap at Belmont Park.

More Weight for King.

The son of Saxon will pack 127 pounds, one more than scale weight for 4-year-olds, while Omaha will carry 114, scale weight for his age.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt has given Discovery the assignment, but the son of Display, which was runner-up to Cavalcade for 3-year-old honors last year, has failed so often this year that he is given little chance of whipping either Omaha or The King. With 123 pounds in the saddle, he was the third choice, however, at 5 to 1.

The remainder of the field, rated as rank outsiders, will be composed of S. L. Burch's Thursday, Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Good Goods, William Graham's Kievex and Somebody and Coequel from DeWitt Page's Maemere Farm. The last three will run coupled in the betting.

Let's Go Fishing . . .

By M. W. Meier.

NIGHT fishing still seems to be producing the best results. Laugh if you will, but our old friend, the Man in the Moon, is the reason thereof. The moment his face darkens you'll find day fishing best. We also think you'll find the blues striking again along the ocean and they should then begin to be heard from in large numbers hereabouts in the bay.

We had a message from James D. Jarman, of Ocean City, which bears us out. He writes: "Blues are not biting now and the captains say it is due to the new moon. They declare the blues will not bite three or four days before and not until three or four days after full moon.

"Weakfish, sea bass and porgies are biting well. You can catch kings in the surf and on the pier, but not so well as last week. Channel bass have slowed up at Fox Hill Levels, but they will start in again within a few days."

From A. H. G. Mears, at Wachapreague, we get an intersting summary of conditions there at the present. So far this season, 102 channel bass have been landed, the largest running 52 pounds. Weakfish are plentiful and striking unusually well. All boats are bringing in good catches of them, from 4 to 6 pounds. Croakers, porgies and sea bass are very plentiful.

Hardhead Plentiful.

Huge catches of hardhead are now being made all over the bay. Everyone seems to be catching them and they are averaging a pound or so bigger than those earlier in the season.

One party of 10 from Landover, Md., went out Thursday with Capt. Charles Aaron, from Kenwood Beach. They reached the Gooses at 7 p. m., remaining until 10:30, during which time they landed 128 hardhead. D. L. Lubar caught the largest, a fish weighing four pounds. Others in the party were O. Bell, E. Tipton, M. Tipton, M. L. Ball, H. Otten, C. Tucker, H. Tipton, O. Ball and H. G. Mercer.

Another party from Mount Ranier, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Houser, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bartley, E. E. Gissel and A. P. Laughton, fished at the same place that night. They landed 59 hardheads.

J. W. Winchell, of Washington, spent a few hours at North Beach yesterday and tried hard to buy what he thought an adequate supply of bait. All he was able to procure was a single pound of shrimp. Before the pound ran out he had hooked and landed exactly 50 croakers.

Flyfishing for Blues.

A number of readers have commented on the paragraph we published yesterday about Dr. Gerlach, of Philadelphia, who landed a nine-pound blue on a fly in the Susquehanna River.

Several of these readers said they frequently caught blues on large bass flies in the ocean while schools were surface feeding. The flies used were Silver Doctor, Grizzly King and Parmachene Belle—all of large size.

Legion Juniors Schedule Tilt For Today

Colored Nines Also Will Play at Alexandria This Afternoon.

HARRISONBURG, Va., June 21. Harrisonburg blanked Charlottesville, 2 to 0, here last night in the second Valley League nocturnal contest as Southpaws Hutchinson, of Harrisonburg, and Pendleton, of Charlottesville, engaged in a brilliant mound duel and hung up a league record by striking out 30 batsmen.

Each portsider limited his opponents to four hits and did not issue a pass after the second inning. Hutchinson fanned 17 while Pendleton retired 13 by the strikeout route.

Harrisonburg recorded its first run in the fifth when Doyle singled and stole second. He scored when Leonard laid down a bunt. Doyle, formerly of the University of West Virginia, was off with the pitch and had no trouble rounding third and sliding home on the play.

Squeeze Helps.

The other run came in the eighth when Rapp tripled to right and tallied as Ayersman beat out a bunt on a squeeze play.

Charlottesville had runners on third and second in the opening inning as a result of a pass and an error. Only one other runner got as far as second during the game. Believe it or not, Harrisonburg failed to score in the second after three batsmen were passed and a wild pitch and passed ball was registered. Leavel was caught between third and home and Lefty Pendleton took care of the other batters.

Alexandria Eagles Score 8-5 Victory

Down Fredericksburg Elks as Pitcher Holds.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., June 21.—Alexandria Eagles won an 8-to-5 ball game from the Fredericksburg Elks here this afternoon. Fred Burrell went the entire route for the visitors, allowing the Antlers 11 hits, which failed to materialize into runs.

Taylor started on the mound for Fredericksburg, but was relieved in the second inning, when he became slightly wild. Heflin took his place, but failed to do any better, immediately allowing three hits and as many runs in the third frame.

The Elks got close to Burrell in the third, collecting three runs after Finney, Bryant and Biscoe had doubled consecutively. Finney added two more two-baggers during the fray to give him a big day with the stick. Baber and Nugent, of the Eagles, were credited with three safeties also. Gardner lifted one into the outfield in the fourth for a circuit blow.

Mrs. Coe Retains Her Skeet Crown

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Baltimore, June 21.—As an appetizer for the major portion of the fourth annual Maryland State and District of Columbia skeet championships tomorrow at the Towson Gun Club traps, Mrs. William Coe, of Washington, today again demonstrated her superiority over a small but select field in the women's championship. She, the defending champion, clipped the clays in brackets of 21, 20, 18, 23—82 to top her competitors in easy fashion.

Vigorous Rally Carries Stock Prices Higher

All Groups Share in Rise Inspired by Renewed Confidence.

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 21.—Wall street's nerves appeared to have been only momentarily shaken by the President's taxation-to-distribute-the-wealth program.

In one of the three really forceful rallies this year, stocks today more than recovered their yesterday's losses. Many issues pushed into new high territory for 1935 or longer, with individual active shares scoring gains of 1 to around 4 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced an even point to 44.7, topping the 44.5 peak made last Tuesday. The 30 industrials included in the calculation, with their gain of 1.4 points to 60.9, not only bettered the best mark of 1935 so far, but was within half a point of the best figure for 1934, which was 61.4. The advance of .8 of a point in the 15 utilities in the average to 32.5 was likewise a new 1935 top.

Volume stepped up encouragingly on the advance, with the day's turnover in the stock exchange 1,517,240 shares, compared with slightly less than a million shares in the previous session. Chemicals and motors were among the most active groups, with good advances in both divisions.

Harvest Delays Advance Wheat

Crop Is About Ten Days Later Than Normal; Corn Is Lower.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, June 21.—Uneasiness over persistent delays to United States harvest operations in the Southwest, especially Oklahoma, where heavy rains were reported, did much to lift wheat values today.

The domestic wheat harvest is now about 10 days later than normal, and arrivals of new wheat at Southwestern centers are extremely meager. Wichita, Kans., for example, received but 19 cars today, against 411 a year ago.

With excessive rains regarded as probably injuring both the quantity and quality of the winter crop, wheat prices here closed firm, ¾-⅞ above yesterday's finish, September, 81⅜-½; corn, ½-1⅛ down; September, 75⅝-¾; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Bears in corn put emphasis on forecasts of generally fair weather over most of the Corn Belt. Oats traders took their cue from wheat rather than from corn. Provisions were firm, influenced by suggestions that the real pinch of reduced supplies is yet ahead, both as to hogs as well as lard.

By the Associated Press.

London—Price movements were irregular on the stock exchange today and fluctuations followed the moderate business done. Gilt-edged securities and oil shares eased, while gold mines, transatlantic issues and industrials gained small fractions. The market closed irregular.

Paris—Rentes opened higher on the bourse owing to satisfaction regarding the premier's vote of confidence on Premier Laval's program. French industrials developed irregularity in a dull market and foreign exchange was narrow. Responding to London's influence, copper shares rose slightly and the closing tone was irregular.

Berlin—Trading was inactive and prices developed weakness due to the lack of orders. The closing was sustained.

Life Insurance Co. Investments Up 75%

Philadelphia, June 21.—An increase from $603,571,000 to $1,057,883,000, or 75 per cent in the investments made by 45 life insurance companies in five months this year compared with last year was reported today by William A. Law, president of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. The figures indicate, he said, a general improvement in business in the country as a whole.

Further Signs Of Trade Rise Seen by Survey

Hesitation Gradually Breaking Down, Say Dun & Bradstreet.

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 21.—Further indications of an advance in trade this week were noted today in Dun & Bradstreet's weekly review of business and industry.

"Strengthened by the further widening of merchandise distributing, the surprising stability of manufacturing operations, and the accomplishment of the major readjustments which had constituted a disturbing factor in recent weeks, trade now reveals more indications of going forward," the survey declared.

"There has been a gradual breaking down of hesitation which had made headway difficult, and sentiment is being bolstered by the abundance of money seeking investment, unfilled consumer needs which run to the largest proportions in years, and the possibilities for gearing industrial output to a higher speed, without disturbing current levels of operating expenditures inordinately."

"Retail trade swung with more surety into its summer stride," it said, adding: "The most outstanding feature of the week was the broadening of consumer interest to the inclusion of items other than those falling within the narrow range of urgent seasonal requirements."

Wholesale buying, the survey found, followed closely the inclining trend of retail sales, with the enlarged volume the result of hurried calls for gift specialties, vacation requisites, travel accessories and summer apparel.

Market Moves Of the Day Seen In Brief Review

What the Stock Market Did.

Advances	506	169
Declines	110	376
Unchanged	145	158
Total issues	761	703

Stocks—A vigorous rally carried all groups 1 to 4 points higher in more active trading, 1,517,240 shares.

Bonds—An upward movement on a broad front, with power issues scoring another high, featured the bond market. Government advances were slight. Transactions fell off to $12,424,000.

Curb—Advances were general, from a fraction to 2 points, with a greater volume of transactions, 240,000 shares.

Cotton—Prices held steady until the final hour when selling, believed to be for mill account, shaded prices, 5 to 8 points. July closed at 11.50.

Sugar—Raw sugar was unchanged at 3.28 cents a pound and refined at 5.25.

Coffee—Prices remained the same as the previous day with Rio No. 7 at 6⅝ and Santos No. 4 at 8.

Bar Silver—The New York price was unchanged at 72 cents. The London quotation was 3-16d. lower at 32⅛d. (New York equivalent 71.38 cents.

Securities Co. Holds 20% of U. S. Rubber

New York, June 21 (AP).—The application of the United States Rubber Co. for permanent registration on the New York Stock Exchange discloses that 314,000 shares or more than 20 per cent of its common stock was held by the Rubber Securities Co. as of last March 11.

The fact that the Securities Co. is located in Wilmington, Del., led to suggestion in Wall street circles that it was associated with the du Pont interests as the holder of the latter's investment in U. S. rubber.

Exchange Seat $99,000, $5,000 Drop in Price

New York, June 21 (AP).—Arrangements have been completed for the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership for $99,000, a decline of $5,000 from the last transaction.

New Wave of Resistance to New Purchases of U. S. Government Bonds Spreads Among Bankers; Smaller Banks Actually Cut Holdings This Year.

By a Special Correspondent.

New York, June 21.—A new wave of doubt and unrest concerning the wisdom of loading their portfolios further with United States Government bonds has been spreading among bankers of late. While by no means as acute as the near panic which brought about heavy liquidation and a sharp decline in Government bond quotations for a short time last summer, nevertheless the feeling is believed strong enough to influence the Treasury to avoid for the time being new issues of bonds or notes of large amount to raise new money to finance its deficit.

This feeling of uneasiness is reflected in the trend of the holdings of United States Government bonds reported by the reporting member banks of the Federal Reserve system. During the first half of 1934 these banks increased their portfolio of Treasury obligations by $1,460,000,000. In the second half of 1934 such holdings increased further by $527,000,000. During the first 24 weeks of 1935, however, the increase was only $102,000,000. In fact, there has been no rise at all since March.

Conferences Have Revealed Resistance of Financing Policy.

The absence of large Treasury issues for new money this year constitute a partial explanation for the fact that the banks are no longer adding to their holding of Government bonds. But this is a result, as well as a cause, of bank investment policy. New York bankers have conferred with Treasury officials on more than one occasion on the subject of new Government financing, and they have revealed at these conferences their resistance to the purchase of all but relatively short-term issues.

Another significant characteristic of the current attitude of commercial bankers toward further expansion of their Government bond portfolios is that smaller interior banks are most averse to buying more Treasury obligations. Last summer selling of Government bonds was most heavy from large metropolitan institutions. So far this year, however, reporting member banks in New York City have added more than $200,000,000 of Governments to their portfolios, largely short term. Hence, banks outside of New York City have actually reduced their holdings by about $100,000,000 since the beginning of January.

State bankers' conventions in various parts of the country this month have been marked by very active discussion of the question of buying more Government bonds. With Treasury obligations now constituting almost 40 per cent of all loans and investments of commercial banks, and with yields on these bonds at the lowest levels since before the war, when conditions were altogether different because the national debt then amounted to only about $1,000,000,000, the bankers are asking a number of questions. In particular, they ask:

Does not the purchase of large amounts of low coupon Treasury obligations subject them to an undue hazard of capital depreciation in the event of a change in credit conditions?

Is there not danger that a modification of the Treasury policy of avoiding any step likely to depress quotations of Government bonds in the open market? Resort by the Treasury to auction sales of new Government bond offerings is held up as evidence of its predilection for experiment and change in policy.

Prospect of Balancing Budget Is Obscure.

With prospects of a balanced budget still altogether obscure should not the banks seek to maintain some balance between their Government bonds and other assets, instead of expanding their holdings of the former indefinitely?

The tone of current discussions among bankers leaves no doubt that there is more resistance against further expansion of their Government bond portfolio than at any time in almost a year. This is not reflected in the market quotations of Treasury obligations because of the absence of offerings for new money, and because the conversion of the First Liberty bonds in part into short-term issues has left the market in a relatively strong technical position because of the limited supply of long-term bonds available now. But will the needs of the Treasury permit the maintenance of this strong underlying position for long?

Enactment of the banking bill of 1935 would facilitate the financing task of the Treasury from this point through providing for direct purchases of Government bonds by the Reserve Banks at the order of the Federal Reserve Board, and through the increased power over member banks which the Federal Reserve authorities would obtain. In the background, the social security act promises an enormous potential market for Government obligations, which will have to be purchased to invest the vast old-age pension and unemployment insurance reserve funds set up by that act.

For the immediate future, however, the Treasury faces a situation in which the chief buyers of its bonds—the banks—are balking. Some observers here wonder whether the apparent tendency to cut down work relief expenditures and to increase taxes may not arise out of this resistance to further Government bond buying by the banks.

Freight Loads 22,256 Higher In Past Week

Total of 653,092 Cars Is 34,211 Above Same Period Last Year.

By R. Karl von Lewinski.

For the second consecutive week, freight cars loaded on United States railroads up to June 15 showed an increase both over the previous week and the same week of 1934, the Association of American Railroads here announced yesterday.

The total of 653,092 cars represented an increase of 22,256 cars above the preceding week and 34,211 cars over the corresponding week of 1934. It was 60,333 cars above the 1933 week.

Miscellaneous freight loadings for the week ended June 15, totaled 237,129 cars, an increase of 4,451 cars above the preceding week, but a decrease of 10,485 cars below the corresponding week in 1934. It was however, an increase of 5,452 cars above the corresponding week of 1933.

Small Loads Off.

Loading of merchandise less than carload lot freight totaled 156,970 cars, a decrease of 663 cars below the preceding week, 4,483 cars below the corresponding week in 1934, and 11,862 cars below the same week in 1933.

Coal loading amounted to 157,245 cars, an increase of 16,204 cars above the preceding week, due to the anticipated strike of bituminous miners. It was also an increase of 59,898 cars above the corresponding week in 1934, and 62,353 cars above the same week in 1933.

Grain and grain products loading totaled 25,843 cars, an increase of 1,328 cars above the preceding week, but reductions of 7,963 cars below the corresponding week in 1934, and 12,408 cars below the same week in 1933. In the Western districts alone, grain and grain products loading for the week ended June 15, totaled 15,888 cars, a decrease of 7,263 cars below the same week in 1934.

Live Stock Lower.

Live stock loading amounted to 10,346 cars, decreases of 565 cars below the preceding week, 2,466 cars below the same week in 1934 and 5,122 cars below the same week in 1933. In the Western districts alone, loading of live stock for the week ended June 15, totaled 7,504 cars, a decrease of 2,274 cars below the same week in 1934.

Forest products loading totaled 26,455 cars, an increase of 637 cars above the preceding week, 1,337 cars above the same week in 1934, and 693 cars above the same week in 1933.

Ore loading amounted to 32,632 cars, an increase of 255 cars above the preceding week, but a reduction of 1,292 cars below the corresponding week in 1934. It was, however, an increase of 19,895 cars above the corresponding week in 1933.

Coke loading amounted to 6,472 cars, an increase of 609 cars above the preceding week, but a decrease of 355 cars below the same week in 1934. It was, however, an increase of 1,532 cars above the same week in 1933.

Homestake Miners To Get $50 Bonus

By the Associated Press.

Lead, S. Dak., June 21.—A bonus of $50 will be paid to Homestake Mining Co. employes on July 2, B. C. Yates, general manager of the company, announced today. "The company at present has in the neighborhood of 2,200 employes," said Mr. Yates in announcing the bonus, "and the forthcoming bonus hence represents a distribution of about $110,000."

Goodyear Gets Kelly Tire Co. By Compromise

Agreement Is Reached After Objections Are Made to Plans.

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, June 21.—The Federal District Court here today received notice of an agreement on a compromise plan under which the Goodyear Rubber Co. would take over the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co.

Harry N. Baetjer, attorney, told Judge W. Calvin Chesnut that attorney for security holders of Kelly-Springfield and representatives of the Goodyear Co. had reached an agreement following conferences yesterday and today. Baetjer outlined the compromise as follows:

Note holders will receive 80 per cent of the face value of their securities in cash; preferred stockholders will receive $13 in cash for each share of Kelly-Springfield stock and 2 shares of Goodyear stock for each five of Kelly-Springfield stock; common stockholders will receive 62 cents a share in cash and one share of Goodyear stock for each 25 shares of Kelly-Springfield.

Common stockholders will benefit from any sums received through a suit now pending against the Government for income taxes alleged to have been overpaid. They also will have the benefit of any balance left out of a sum of $250,000 set aside for special claims after the claims have been paid.

The Kelly-Springfield Co. is in trusteeship and a plan of reorganization involving sale of the company to Goodyear has been proposed. Objections arose yesterday, however, at a hearing in Federal Court at which Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, appeared as an attorney for Goodyear. Yesterday's conferences were to iron out the objections.

A. & P.'s Profits $16,708,674 In Fiscal Year

Per-Share Earnings Are $7.13, Against $8.94 in 1934 Period.

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 21.—The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. and subsidiaries report for year ended February 28 net profit of $16,708,674, equal to $7.13 a share on the common stock. This compares with $20,478,190 or $8.94 a share in 1934.

Other earnings reported are:

United Gas Corporation and subsidiaries report for the 12 months ended April 30 net income of $4,410,942, equivalent after dividend requirements on the $7 first preferred stock to $1.42 a share on the $7 second preferred stock. For the preceding 12 months the income was $3,188,167.

The American & Foreign Power Co., Inc., reports for 1934 a balance of consolidated income applicable to interest amounting to $9,825,509 against $13,183,481 for 1933. After interest and other deductions the company had net income of $2,133,465 against $5,006,820 in the previous fiscal year.

Electric Power & Light Corporation and subsidiaries report for the 12 months ended April 30 net loss of $216,707 after charges against net loss of $1,211,375 in the previous 12 months.

United Wall Paper Co. Plans Reorganization

New York, June 21 (AP).—United Wall Paper Factories, Inc., has submitted to stockholders a plan for reorganization. It provides for an exchange of the present preferred stock for common shares and the writing down of certain assets to reduce depreciation charges.

Boston Wool Market.

Boston, June 21 (AP).—(U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.)—A moderate volume of business was being transacted on the finer territory wools. Good French combing graded 64s and finer territory wools were sold at around 70 cents, scoured basis. Strictly combing 58s, 60s, ½-blood territory wool sold at 67@70 cents. Prices were slightly firmer on sales of small quantities of ungraded 64s and finer territory wools. Good French combing bulk 64s and finer territory wools in original bags were bringing 68@70 cents, scoured basis, although early in the week some lots were available at prices somewhat below this range.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

Bond Market Up 1 to 3 Points On Broad Front

Utility Issues Reach Another New High for the Year.

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 21.—The corporate bond market moved upward over a broad front today with gains of 1 to 3 points well scattered among leading rails, utilities and industrials. U. S. Governments also improved, but advances were small.

Recovering completely from whatever shock it received from President Roosevelt's tax message, which temporarily upset the higher trend in all divisions save utilities yesterday, the market lost no time in getting started today and in most cases peak prices were held to the end.

The Associated Press average of 10 utility bonds made another new 1935 high, the third in succession, at 95.0, up .6 of a point on balance and 10 rails averaged .6 of a point higher at 83.1. The average of other domestic groups were unchanged to .3 of a point higher.

The trading volume dropped to almost half of that of Thursday but it was accounted for in large part by the lessened activity in U. S. Governments. Transfers aggregated $12,424,000, par value, compared with $20,104,000 the day before, and of this amount Governments accounted for $1,450,000 against $9,730,000.

Cotton Drops, In Final Hour,

Possible Curtailment of Mill Buying a Factor.

By the Associated Press.

New York, June 21.—After h ing steady during the greater of today's trading, cotton weake in the last hour under liquidat and selling believed to be partly for mill account. The close was barely steady at net declines of 5 to 8 points.

Some early scattered selling was absorbed by trade buying and covering which was encouraged by the action of the wheat and stock markets. The buying was limited, however, and last prices were about 10 to 14 points from the best levels of the day.

The late decline was accompanied by renewed talk of probable domestic mill curtailment next month.

Canadian Crops Improved by Rain

Montreal, June 22.—"With frequent and well distributed rains during the past two weeks, crop prospects are promising in practically all areas of the Prairie Provinces of Canada," according to the current crop report of the Bank of Montreal.

"Early June frosts have not damaged grain crops but market gardens have suffered to some extent. Warmer weather would now be beneficial."

Owens Makes Grade in 4 Events

Ohio State Star Is Relaxed as He Steals Show in Collegiate Trials.

yard. Climaxing his work, the dusky ace raced over the low hurdles in 23.6 seconds to become the most important "one-man team" in the finals tomorrow.

Admittedly not a low hurdler, Owens had a bit of trouble early in the race when he scraped his knee over a couple of the barriers. He was limping slightly as he left the field, but the injury was not expected to handicap him in the final tests.

His broad jump mark broke the old N. C. A. A. record of 25 feet 10⅝ inches, established in 1925 by DeHart Hubbard, of Michigan.

Behind Owens in individual performances followed Glenn Hardin, of Louisiana State, defending champion in the quarter-mile and the low hurdles. Hardin, like Owens, conserved his energy today, but won his low hurdles' trial after taking second in the quarter. He led in the quarter most of the way, but slowed up to let Johnny McCarthy, of Southern California, hit the tape first.

In the low sticks, Hardin won going away and loafing, in the time of 23.7 seconds. In was a second lower than his N. C. A. A. record, which he shares with Jack Keller, of Ohio State, and far away from his old world record bettering time of 22.4 seconds.

440-Yard Run.

First heat (four qualify for finals)—Won by McCarthy (Southern California); second, Hardin (Louisiana State); third, Fiedler (Florida); fourth, Crowell (Wisconsin). Time, 48.2.

Second heat—Won by Luvalle (California, at Los Angeles); second, tie between Hay (Northwestern) and Cassin (Southern California); fourth, Worden (Drake). Time, 48.8.

100-Yard Dash.

First heat (four qualify for finals)—Won by Owens (Ohio State). Other places so close will not be announced until officials review motion pictures of finish tonight. Owens' time, 9.5.

Second heat—Won by Peacock (Temple). Other places to be announced later. Time, 9.9-10.

Short putt (ten qualify for semifinals tomorrow)—Won by Theodoratus (Washington State), 50 feet 3 inches; second, tie between Smukler (Temple) and Dees (Kansas), 50 feet 2¼ inches; fourth, Elser (Notre Dame), 49 feet 10⅜ inches; fifth, J. Reynolds (Stanford), 49 feet 3½ inches; sixth, Mackey (California), 48 feet 8 inches; seventh, tie between Borden (Georgia), 48 feet 2¼ inches; eighth, Hansen (Southern California), 47 feet 10⅜ inches; ninth, Neal (Ohio State), 47 feet 7¾ inches; tenth, Geniarico (Dartmouth), 46 feet 9 inches.

More Honorary Degrees of 1935.

Prill, Augustus B. (laundryman, student of bird lore and a chess player of parts). To you, Mr. Prill, we gladly give the choice of any degree in the set. You merit the gratitude and the cheers of the general public. Member of a parole board, you gave as much thought to the public interest as to the petitioner's whenever a gangster with a long record for major crimes came before you with his hair curled and asked that a twenty-year term be cut to six weeks so that he would not be deprived of ultra-violet rays. You held to the opinion that after a gunman has shown a determination to make a lifework of it, there is no sense crowning him queen of the May.

* * * *

Otterpootz, Ashley J. (designer of polo mallets, ardent stamp collector and man about town) Ashley, my boy, nothing is too good for you. Name your degree and the dean will see that you get it. At no time during the last twelve months did you tell a Mae West story. And at all times when anybody asked, "Have you heard the one about Mae West?" you replied sharply, "Yes!" And will you have a highball?

* * *

Fitty, Cassidus O. (amateur magician, egg candler and first man to cross the United States on a high-wheeled bicycle). So far as can be ascertained, you are the only motorist in the United States, who, coming to a street intersection with a sign, "No Left Turns," did not call the traffic cop and ask: "Officer, can I turn left here?" We also give you an order for a new blue suit with two pairs of pants.

* * * *

Zinnia, Mrs. Chester W. (society woman, mother and rock garden enthusiast) Mrs. Zinnia, you stand out as one of the most remarkable society mothers of the year. Although you really could have used the money, you refused handsome cash offers to pose with your two daughters indorsing a cheap gin. Not only that, but you had the butler toss the advertising agent into the street. Atta-girl!

* * * *

Many Benefits Await Winner Of Scholarship

Diversified Curriculum Is Offered at Staunton Military Academy.

One boy who has entered The Washington Post-Staunton scholarship contest wants to go to the famed military academy because he is interested in chemistry and the fully equipped laboratory appeals to him. Another thinks it would be great to go to a school that draws its attendance from all over the nation, and meet boys from every section of the country. A third has musical ambitions and feels that the cadet band, the dance orchestra, the instrumental quartet and the glee club will offer an outlet for his talents.

Whether one of these boys, or another with still different interests and ambitions, wins the competition, he will not be disappointed, for Staunton offers a diversified curriculum with equally high standards in every department.

Courses Made Interesting.

In tune with the modern idea of teaching by making learning interesting, foreign tongues are taught in rooms bedecked with posters showing the life and customs of the people whose language is being studied. The student of mathematics finds that it is not a dull and futile subject, but that the training it provides in clear, concise thinking, and the ability to think things through to a logical conclusion, will make him a better lawyer, doctor, merchant or farmer. But while learning is made interesting, it is also effective. This is proved by the scholastic records made by Staunton graduates when they enter college.

All the advantages that Staunton offers will be enjoyed by The Post scholarship winner for two years. Second-place winner will spend a week in August at Camp Calvert, near Leonardtown, Md. While the Staunton scholarship, because of its value, is the goal, the week at Camp Calvert, with athletics, water sports and all the fun of camp life will be a delight to the boy who wins

Eligibility Rules.

To be eligible, a boy must fulfill three qualifications: He must be the son of a veteran of the World War; he must live in Washington or his father must belong to a legion post in the District department, which is conducting the contest with The Washington Post, and he must have completed his second year in high school this June to be prepared for junior year at Staunton in the fall.

The winner will be decided on character, scholarship and an essay on "Why I Would Like to Go to Staunton." Full details may be obtained by writing Alice Fox Pitts, Staunton contest director, The Washington Post.

Motorists Are Warned To Study Liquor Laws

The American Automobile Association yesterday warned motorists who cross state lines at frequent intervals to familiarize themselves with the liquor laws of the various States. Ignorance of the statutes has got many drivers into trouble, the statement said.

"Motorists generally appear to assume that the repeal of the Federal prohibition amendment restored John Barleycorn to good standing before the law everywhere," it said. "Not only is this assumption unwarranted, but much confusion exists even in those States where liquor has been legalized."

Summarizing the status of control laws and prohibitions, the A. A. A. said sales have been legalized in 39 States and banned in 7, while 2 are partly wet and partly dry, depending on the county.

Precise Bidding For Slam.

THE new International Code of Contract Bridge Laws has decreased the value of Grand Slams, cutting one-third off the enormous bonuses of the last two years. This has not made Grand Slam bidding any less important, however; in fact, it has become vital to show a powerful hand with extreme precision, so that a Grand Slam will not be bid unless it can surely be made.

Mrs. Hugh Fullerton, of Clevelnad, has sent me the following example of Grand Slam bidding, produced by her partner, Mrs. D. B. Pocock, and herself. Their excellent bidding of this hand was largely instrumental in their winning a Pair Tournament.

East, Dealer
Neither side vulnerable

The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

East	South	West	North
1♣(1)	Pass	1♠(2)	Pass
2NT(3)	Pass	3♡(4)	Pass
4♡(5)	Pass	4♠(6)	Pass
4NT(7)	Pass	5NT(8)	Pass
6NT	Pass	7♠(9)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—A normal opening bid, though very strong.
2—Game seems practically certain, but West does not jump. The one-over-one is forcing for one round; and a jump takeout of two spades would show three and one-half honor-tricks.
3—A semi-forcing bid; East is confident of winning seven tricks in her hand alone.
5—Confirming the heart suit, West, by bidding two suits, has asked East to choose one of them.
6—This is an inferential Slam try. Hearts having been bid and assisted, West would have no reason to disturb four hearts except to try for a Slam. Incidentally, West shows her spade suit to be rebiddable.
7—The conventional bid. A Slam now seems possible to East if the key cards—Aces and Kings—are held by the partnership.
8—The forced conventional response, showing two Aces.
9—East has now bid six notrump; yet East had no way of knowing that the spade suit is solid. The six-notrump bid, and the earlier jump to two notrump, have shown East's hand to be so powerful that West, knowing that the high cards are controlled and that no immediate trick can be lost, can be almost sure of 13 tricks. If the heart suit is not solid, then the club suit should furnish discards for the small hearts in West's hand.

The Grand Slam was made with ease; and since it was played in spades, in which West had 100 honors, it was the highest score possible on the deal.

Sunday School Groups Gather For Conclaves

Young People's Unit Meets With Officers' Body at Westminster.

By the Associated Press.

Westminster, Md., June 21.—Delegates from two groups of the District of Columbia Sunday School Association came here today for their annual conventions. Several hundred persons are present.

The young people's conference of the association is holding its eleventh annual meeting and the administrative officers' and teachers' conference of the association is holding its twelfth annual meeting.

The Rev. A. Lamar Wills, pastor of Our Saviour Episcopal Church, Washington, is to be the principal speaker tomorrow morning.

Kitchen Band Heard.

The "kitchen band" of the Ladies Guild of the Trinity Episcopal Church, Takoma Park, D. C. gave a program last night at the Church of the Ascension. Composed of 25 women under the direction of Mrs. Franklin Wisner, of Indian Spring Park, Md., the band appeared in costume and played on various kitchen utensils. Mrs. R. E. Tarbett played the piano accompaniment.

2 Guilty, 6 Freed Of Liquor Charge

Joseph Berl and Oscar Saposnek, both of New York City, were convicted of conspiring to violate the liquor taxing act of 1934 by a jury in Justice James M. Proctor's court in the District Supreme Court yesterday. Their conviction followed by two hours a ruling by Justice Proctor that six others indicted in the same alleged conspiracy were entitled to a directed verdict of not guilty.

The six acquitted were A. C. Wolf, Benjamin Feinberg, Morris Goldstein, Marcia Tobe and Mrs. Joseph Berl.

Transit Company Sued For $10,000 Damages

The Capital Transit Co. was named defendant in a $10,000 damage suit filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Clarence J. Fernald, whose sister, Frances M. Fernald, was killed by a street car at Sixteenth and H streets northwest, last July.

Fernald claimed his sister was walking across the intersection when a street car felled her. She died in the hospital 10 days later. Suit was brought by the brother as administrator of her estate. Attorney C. Clinton James and A. L. Newmyer represent the estate.

Gypsy Is Found Guilty In $130 Short Changing

Tene Bimbo, reputedly a Gypsy chieftan, was convicted of grand larceny in the District Supreme Court yesterday on a charge of short changing an employe of the Woodridge-Langdon Savings and Commercial Bank out of $130 in June, 1933.

Bimbo, arrested in Dallas, Tex., by Detective Sergt. Paul Jones, was indicted on another charge involving the same sort of a transaction at the National Capitol Bank. The charge was not pressed by Assistant United States Attorney Henry Schweinhaut.
